DAVIE KEPT IN OFFICE BY RECOUNT

Counting of Recent Election Ballots Shows Mayor Leads Opponents by 87, Assuring Retention of Mayoralty

Oliphant Contest Gives Negative Result for Beaten Man; Count of Ballots Sets Record for State

The lead of 95 votes given Mayor John L. Davie at the official canvass of the recent election was cut to 87 as the result of a recount held in the superior court yesterday. The final figures, which were obtained late in the afternoon, showed Mayor Davie to have this majority over all the other candidates.

The total vote cast was 45,327. Of this number Davie received 22,751. In arriving at his majority the total vote is divided by two giving 22,663. The figure subtracted from the total vote for Davie gives the majority of 87.

TABLET GIVES DAVIE 87 LEAD

The total vote for the various candidates was as follows:

Davie	22,751
Oliphant	16,763
Reed	5,478
Meyer	323
Scattering	7

The recount was brought on behalf of Attorney David D. Oliphant, defeated candidate in the primary election who claimed that Davie's purported majority of 95 would be wiped out by a court recount and that he would qualify for a place on the ballot at the general election.

The recount was peculiar in several respects. The entire machinery of the superior court was used with the exception of one department. Three sets of tally clerks were assigned to each department, which allowed for twenty-one precincts to be counted simultaneously.

The speed with which the recount was handled was one of its features. It is claimed that the counting of 314 precincts in one day sets a judicial record for California, the nearest to this mark having been set in Los Angeles recently where 295 precincts were counted in a day.

OFFICIAL DECISION ANNOUNCED MONDAY

No official decision was given by Superior Judge E. W. Harris, he announcing that he would give out the official figures on Monday. The figures were obtained by the county clerk on an unofficial tally of the minutes of the seven court clerks. All of the returns from the clerks were officially checked by County Clerk George Gross, with the exception of those from Department four, presided over by Judge J. T. Burbuck, sitting for Superior Judge E. C. Robinson. These figures will be checked Monday morning and the official tally made at that time and reported to Superior Judge Harris.

EX-PREMIER SEES FASCISM DANGER

Lloyd George Disagrees With Mussolini Regarding More Liberty

By Universal Service.
MANCHESTER, England, April 28.—(Special Cable Despatch).—"If the people are tired of liberty, God help them," declared former Premier Lloyd George in a speech at a liberal meeting here today.

Lloyd George was referring to the remark attributed to Premier Mussolini of Italy, who is reported to have said that the people were tired of liberty and craved discipline.

"Our first duty is to liberalize," said the former premier. "We must overthrow the tyranny of the sword. Mankind must be taught where its passions are concerned. There are dangers ahead. One of these is Fascism. But there is still another danger, and that comes from Socialism."

"The great task before us is to remedy the evils of modern industrialism."

Lloyd George urged greater co-operation between capital and labor, contending that cooperation is the only way that the country can get the best from both.

"Capital has been made for the people, and not for labor. If I were convinced that the existing evils were insuperable from the present state of things, I would crowbar to myself."

Lloyd George indicated a leaning toward prohibition by concluding:

"No program can be complete without proposals for wiping out the great waste created by alcohol."

MOTHERS OF ALL NATIONS TO END WAR

Women's Universal Alliance Meets Soon in Washington to Foster "Peace and Prosperity;" Discuss Problems

Feminine Leaders From All Countries Will Gather. Not to Mention Men, to Debate Questions Affecting World

BY CONSOLIDATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

By MARION GRAY.
WASHINGTON, April 28.—Not by force, but by education and persuasion, does the hand that rocks the cradle reach forth to rule the world.

The first session of the "world court of women" begins here at the New Willard hotel Monday and closes Friday night. Delegates from many foreign countries will sit with American women for the discussion of world problems. "Peace and prosperity" is the slogan.

Literally it is the first annual meeting of the Women's Universal Alliance, an organization which has been growing steadily for months. Mrs. Clarence Crittenden Calhoun of South Carolina and Washington, is president and Mrs. Mathilde C. Ford of Washington is field secretary.

Following the convention, the delegates will return to their homes and conduct there a drive for membership, the ultimate object being the union of all women in the world to promote the public weal, to nip in the bud any tendency toward war.

WORLD MOTHERS TO PROMOTE PEACE.

"We mean to encourage a sort of clasping of hands across the seven seas," said Mrs. Calhoun, "to give birth to a new universal sisterhood. It is a movement of the world's mothers for peace and prosperity."

Forgotten and forgiven are past hatreds. No country is discriminated against. The German delegate occupies a chair next to an American woman whose husband suffered in Flanders. A Russian delegate exchanges ideas and leads pencils with one from Czechoslovakia. China is represented, and Japan, and the turbulent realm of Kemal Pasha.

"We will try to develop a more enlightened understanding among all the women of all nations with regard to the various problems which face the world," said Mrs. Ford, the field secretary. "We hope to offer an open forum for the study and discussion of these world wide enigmas."

SPECIAL APPEAL FOR ALL MEN.

They are not even discriminating against the men of the world. It is emphasized. Such national leaders as James J. Davis, secretary of labor, and Senator Robert C. Copeland are among the speakers.

"Then too, we have an appeal to make to the men," said Mrs. Calhoun. "Everyone, whether he tills the soil or reigns on a golden throne, will be asked to pay a tribute in memory of all mothers. You know, a man always loves his mother. He may cease to love his sweetheart or his wife, but never his mother. With these tributes we will erect a marble temple to the spirit of motherhood—to the great idea which is back of this whole 'peace and prosperity' movement."

The memorial, she explained, will be erected at Clifton, the forty-acre estate of the alliance in Washington.

Delegates already are arriving in Washington. Committee meetings are being held in the city.

Here's Largest Alimony, But It's in Marks

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—Claiming through his attorney that his wife was asking temporary alimony which would give her an income almost twice as much as the president of the German Republic, Constantine Suss protested against the ward in Superior Judge Van Ostrand's court today.

The amount demanded by the wife, Mrs. Alice Suss, is only $15 monthly, but according to Suss's counsel, A. Fuhrman, this would mean 175,000 German marks to his spouse who lives in Germany.

"Why the President receives only 100,000 marks and the Chief Justice of the supreme court 50,000 marks," Fuhrman argued.

Judge Van Ostrand decided nevertheless that the wife was entitled to the American money percentage of her husband's income here. Fuhrman said that rather than pay that sum Suss would dismiss his suit for divorce. The matter was continued.

DRIVER HITS BOY; CAUGHT IN CHASE

Auto Pursued Five Blocks Before It Crashes Into Telephone Pole.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—Two charges, driving an automobile while intoxicated and failing to render aid to a victim, were lodged against Joseph McQuade, 28, a mechanic, 224 Twenty-seventh street, after his machine had struck down a boy and was pursued for five blocks and captured when his machine crashed into a telephone pole early this evening.

The injured lad is Stephen Baxter, aged 14, of 4055 Army street. He is at the Mission Emergency hospital suffering from a possible fracture of the skull, a fracture of the right leg and cuts and bruises.

After McQuade's automobile had run down the boy on Army street near his home, McQuade did not stop and the pursuit was taken by 12 Linderoth, 577 Commercial street, who witnessed the accident. When his commands to halt were unheeded, Linderoth swerved his machine over towards McQuade's automobile, forcing the latter into a telephone pole.

Linderoth then summoned Patrolman James Kirby who placed McQuade under arrest. Linderoth sped back to the scene of the accident and found the boy still lying unconscious on the pavement. He took the lad to the hospital.

It was reported here that an expected hitch has arisen in Joffe's plan through refusal of the Vladivostok revolutionary committee to allow passage of his code cables in Russia. Permission had been granted him to use his secret code by the Japanese foreign office.

SLAYER BY AUTO SENT TO PRISON

Motorist Who Ran Down and Killed Four-Year-Old Marian Newton Is Given an Indeterminate Sentence

Decision of Judge Rendered Despite Appeal for Mercy Made by Father of Dead Child; Offer of Aid Made

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—A fervent plea by the father of the victim today failed to save from the penitentiary Charles Buckley, convicted of manslaughter, whose machine ran over a safety station at Market street and Van Ness avenue, October 18, killing four-year-old Marian Newton.

Sternly denying the plea for probation advanced by Fred Newton, 1457 Geary street, father of the child, Judge Ward sentenced Buckley to an indeterminate term in San Quentin but declared he would recommend to the prison board a minimum sentence, in view of the attitude taken by Newton.

PLEA FOR MERCY MADE BY FATHER

"There is nothing that could pay up for what this accident has cost my little girl's life and has made my wife an invalid. Still I hold no grudge in my heart for Buckley. If he is granted probation, he can support his own family and give me some financial assistance of which I am in need. If he will abstain from liquor, I am sure society would be as well off as if he was in state's prison."

H. F. Rammeocetti, 2316 Steiner street, a real estate broker, took the witness stand and said he had become interested in the case in view of the fair attitude taken by the father and that he was willing to assist the Newton family whether Buckley was sent to prison or not.

An appeal for probation was then made by Public Defender Frank J. Bean.

JUDGE REFUSES PROBATION PLEA

"The law must be upheld," declared Judge Ward. "There must be some deterrent action brought to decrease these manslaughter cases by automobiles, so that the difference between cases purely accidental negligence or criminal carelessness can be determined."

"I will, however, recommend and request the minimum sentence for this defendant in view of the attitude of the father of the child. If the question of money had not been an element in this case, it would not have been advanced as an argument and I can hardly be considered an argument now."

Following this, Judge Ward imposed sentence and Buckley was led from the courtroom.

Kills Trooper and Commits Suicide

SIOUX, N. Y., April 28.—(By International News Service).—Defying state troopers who sought to arrest him on a charge of incendiarism, Professor Franklin Yates, Morris, N. Y., educator, today shot and killed State Trooper Harold Matlack and, brandishing himself in the gun of his mother, committed suicide while a posse was preparing to besiege the place.

Professor Yates recently was arrested on a charge of criminal assault, the warrant being issued by his brother-in-law, William Harris, who accused him of attacking his little daughter, a pupil in Yates' school.

The educator's wife left him a year ago. Yates fired the bars of his brother-in-law last night.

GOVERNMENT WILL CRUSH BOOTLEGGERS

President Decides to Use Army and Navy in War Against the Violators of the Volstead Liquor Act

Officials Seek to Enforce Prohibition Law and Prove That Measure Is Not in Any Sense a Joke

By WILLIAM J. LOSH, (United Press Staff Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, April 28.—The federal government tonight prepared to concentrate its might in a finishing blow at violators of the prohibition law on land and sea, to drive them forever out of business and drive into the public conscience the knowledge that prohibition is a fact, not a joke.

If the government succeeds in its ambitious plan of drastic law enforcement, within a few months whiskey, now sold illegally by thousands of barrels, will be as scarce as opium and those who produce it will be classed with drug vendors and other social outcasts. If the public can be taught so to regard them, but the battle of enforcement will be won, officials here tonight declared.

A manifold program, drafted by administration officials, may include the declaration that rum running and bootlegging constitute an "insurrection" and liquor law violators are rebels.

Such a step would enable the President to order the whole military and naval forces to the government into action, if necessary.

PROGRAM CONTEMPLATES SWIFT MOVEMENT.

Administration officials believe that a show of determination by the federal government, in enforcing the law, would speedily sober the public mind and end the prevalent disposition to take the Volstead act as a joke.

The administration's program contemplates moving swiftly against bootleggers and rum runners as soon as the Justice department returns a favorable ruling on the power of the President to use the army and navy in prohibition enforcement.

Prohibition Commissioner H. J. Hughes' policy of relying on the assistance of local officials in suppressing liquor law violations, has failed to produce results, such officials said. "The daily record of booze hideouts, deaths from wood alcohol, revelations of corruption among prohibition officials and the apparently limitless supply of liquor available in any large city proves this, they say."

GOVERNMENT WOULD DEMONSTRATE MASTERY.

Once entered upon the "clean-up" campaign against booze, it will go on until the government has demonstrated its mastery of this problem, a high official promised tonight. While plans are as tentative and dependent upon the findings of the department of justice, after a careful search of the law as to how far the administration can go, officials will sketch a plan of action:

- 1.—Building up a "clean" prohibition enforcement force, by means of a vigorous weeding out of corrupt and inefficient agents. This is now in progress.
- 2.—Concentration of enforcement agents at "plague centers" or cities where bootleggers and smugglers join forces to distribute their contraband liquor.
- 3.—Creation of a line of naval vessels, fast, heavily armed, between the three-mile limit at sea and shore, will order to prevent any means necessary the landing of liquor from rum runners.
- 4.—Regular army units assure to enforce the navy. Such units would be stationed at strategic points, with big army searchlights and probably with aircraft to watch the surrounding waters for evidence of smugglers' craft.
- 5.—Use of the army and navy intelligence forces, in connection with the regular secret service of the prohibition enforcement service in foresting out operation in the Bahamas and other West Indian islands and in Mexico and Canada of the pending presence of smugglers with cargoes from abroad, so that these cargoes can be handed off when brought to the shores or boundaries of the United States.
- 6.—Making of arrangements with the British government that will result in reducing the amount of liquor brought to the United States from adjacent points in British ships. These negotiations have been going on for some time.

President Harding is personally directing the mapping out of the campaign which he intends shall be the crushing blow against bootleggers. While neither the President nor any other government official hopes in a new government to make the country absolutely dry, or to stamp out bootlegging, the feeling prevails in administration circles that great progress towards that end can be made and that in any event the government can demonstrate its mastery of the situation.

Gift of Booze Sets Police on Trail of Auto

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—If you witnessed the predicament of the driver of a truckload of liquor and helped him to hoist two cases back on his vehicle and he presented you with two bottles of rare vintage, what would you do? W. G. Acheson of 2549 Balboa street and L. T. Tuttle of 619 Twenty-seventh avenue were the recipients of such a gift today, and after reaching their homes they notified the police of the liquor as evidence. Now the police are looking for the truck and the genial driver.

It happened at Twenty-seventh avenue and Balboa street. Two cases toppled off and the two pedestrians warned the driver. After they had helped him they inquired as to the nature of the contents of the cases.

"Why, it's the finest booze you ever drank," said the man, as he presented Tuttle with two bottles and Acheson with one.

KNUTE NELSON DIES ON TRAIN

Minnesota Senator Falls Victim to Heart Disease Near York, Pa.

YORK, Pa., April 28.—(United Press).—Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota died on a Pennsylvania train near York tonight.

According to a message received by E. C. Greening, trainmaster here, the cause of death was heart disease.

Senator Nelson left Washington on the Dominion Express at 7 p. m. Death occurred shortly after the train left Baltimore. The Minnesota senator was accompanied by his niece and by the commissioner of insurance of Minnesota.

Arrangements were made by wire to have the body removed at Harrisburg, where the train was due at 10 p. m. It will be embalmed there and sent on to Minnesota on another train some tonight.

The death of Senator Nelson removed one of the most picturesque figures from American political life. One of the Republican party's most astute statesmen, he had served in the United States Senate twenty-eight years. He was the oldest senator in age and the second oldest in point of service.

Senator Nelson was chairman of the Senate Judiciary committee, an authority on law and one of the Senate's best parliamentarians. Fifty years old last February, he topped all other senators in age and his services in the Senate, starting March 4, 1895, ranked second only to that of Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the Republican leader.

He was born in Norway, February 2, 1843, and came to the United States in July 1849.

Senator Nelson's family, after coming to the United States, settled first in Chicago and later moved to Wisconsin. From there, Nelson moved to Minnesota. During the Civil War, he served with the Fourth Wisconsin regiment and was wounded and captured at Port Hudson, La., in 1862. Elected first to the United States Senate in 1895, Senator Nelson was re-elected in 1901, 1907, 1913 and 1918. His re-election in 1918 was with the advice and consent of President Wilson, who, though a Democrat, placed no obstacle in Nelson's way because of the latter's strong support of the Wilson administration's war policies.

At the time of his death, Senator Nelson's home was at Alexandria, Minn.

DEATH CAUSED BY HEART DISEASE

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 28.—(By United Press).—The body of U. S. Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota was found dead on a train here at 10:30 p. m. Dr. J. H. Kleider, coroner, received the body and started an examination to determine the exact cause of death. After being embalmed, the remains will be sent on to Minnesota tomorrow.

Cause of death was given as heart trouble after an examination by the coroner. The senator was sitting in his Pullman berth while the train was between Baltimore and Harrisburg and was facing the rear of the train when he decided to change to the opposite seat, according to those in his party. As he rose, he collapsed. Death was instantaneous.

RESIDENT PAYS TRIBUTE TO NELSON.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(By United Press).—"He was a stalwart American and performed a most useful public service with a record of great work accomplished."

This was the tribute of President Harding tonight to Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota, after news of his death reached the capital. The president added:

"Senator Nelson was a most important figure in American history. He came to us in person from Norway, acquired a competence, served in the Civil War for the Union, was governor of his state and had a long and honorable career in the senate. I hold him in very high regard and deeply regret his passing."

By LAWRENCE MARTIN,

WASHINGTON, April 28.—"Get rid of prohibition enforcement" as a political issue.

That word has gone out from the Republican high command. It is the reason for the determination to use the navy to break up rum smuggling. For the same reason, the administration will combat at tempts in the next congress to weaken the enforcement service or to amend the Volstead law.

From now until the national conventions of the two parties meet in the summer of 1924, everything possible will be done to prevent the Democrats from building a "wet" platform on the failure of Republican enforcement of the prohibition laws.

No secret has been made of the intention of certain influential Democrats to put up to their national convention the question of taking a stand for beer and light wines, on the ground the Volstead law enforcement has steeped the nation in crime, caused thousands of deaths and has generally lowered the whole moral tone of the American people.

So far as President Harding is concerned, the Democrats may make the beer and light wine issue, if they wish, but he is determined they shall not base it upon a charge of bad faith against the administration in its enforcement of the Volstead law and the 18th amend-

Baseball as the great American at the present time. If the opinion of various enthusiasts could be anything, not only is the entire

the recently organized San Leandro

but intense interest is being shown in the social dance that will take

Lost Soul Captured In Wilds of Peru

CHICAGO, April 28.—(By United Press.)—John Zimmer, assistant manager of the Wilds museum, arrived in Chicago today from the wilds of tropical Peru, bringing with him a "lost soul."

The "lost soul," Zimmer ex-emits a distressing cry similar to that of a lost child. Frightened natives rush to their huts when the cry pierces the air.

Zimmer, who brought back with him some 5000 specimens, ranging from humming birds to brackets, says he captured the "lost soul" by making cries of distress similar to those of the bird.

GERMANS WILL OFFER NEW PROPOSAL FOR REPARATIONS

Industrialists Have Worked Out Plan to Submit to French.

BERLIN, April 28.—(By Universal Service.)—The departure of A. B. Houghton, the American ambassador, for the United States, is looked upon by many German newspapers as pointing strongly to the calling of a reparations conference in Washington.

BERLIN, April 28.—It was learned from an authoritative source tonight that an executive committee representing the most powerful industrial interests in Germany, at a secret session, has worked out the basis for the new reparations proposals which Germany is expected to make to the allies soon.

The industrialists, it is understood, have signified their willingness to sign the guarantees to be offered by the German government to the allied powers. This is the first time the German industrialists will act as co-signatories to a reparations offer.

Professor of Latin Traces Motto's Origin

BERKELEY, April 28.—"E Pluribus Unum," national motto of the United States of America, where did it come from and what does it mean?

Because probably 99 per cent of the population of America can answer neither one of the two questions, Monroe E.
Deutsch, professor of Latin and dean of the college of letters and science at the University of California, has written an article on the phrase which appears in the April issue of "The Classical

In this article Professor Deutsch probes the various theories that have been advanced as to where the motto of the United States came from and who prepared the motto.

The committee appointed by the Continental Congress on July 4, 1776, was composed of Benjamin Franklin, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson, according to Professor Deutsch. After investigating the various personal letters written about that time by these various gentlemen, Dr. Deutsch comes to the conclusion that the motto was suggested by Benjamin Franklin.

Not only is there a conflict
he says, on where the motto came from but there is also a disagreement as to what interpretation was ordinarily used for these three Latin words.

Following out his theory that Dr. Franklin proposed the motto, Professor Deutsch points out that Franklin undoubtedly took them from the motto of a magazine, Gentlemen's Journal.

and later copied by a magazine entitled, Gentlemen's Journal. In the first publication, the editor used a mosaic of flowers with the motto and used the phrase to mean "one selected from among many." However, in the second magazine a short poem was the author to believe that the interpretation of the phrase meant "one composed of many."

In closing his article Professor Deutsch says:

"And so a Frenchman adopted and published on the title-page of a magazine issued in England a group of three Latin words, which became the national motto of this composite people,
the United States of America."

MASONS LAUNCH U. OF C. CLUB IN CEREMONIES

Grand Lodge Presides at Laying of Cornerstone for New Building.

BERKELEY, April 28.—As the culmination of a campaign of three years in which time the sum of $110,000 has already been raised for the project, the cornerstone of the new Masonic Club for University of California students was laid this afternoon.

Several thousand persons witnessed the impressive ceremonies conducted by the Grand Lodge of Masons of California at the site of the new structure at the southwest corner of Bancroft way and Bowditch street. A parade in which Masonic bodies from about the bay participated preceded the cornerstone laying, while a luncheon opened the day's festivities.

In opening the program at the clubhouse site, Judge William H. Waste, chairman of the board of trustees of the University Masonic Clubhouse organization, told of the history of the movement which has resulted in work being started on a pretentious building adjoining the university campus.

VISION IS PRAISED

"This building will be a monument of the faith and hope of more than 100,000 Masons of California to the sterling manhood and womanhood of the University of California, the largest student body on the continent," said Judge Waste in paying tribute to the vision of Former Grand Master Charles Adams, who three years ago began the work of raising funds for the student building. The sum of $110,000, Judge Waste said, had already been raised, while he declared $50,000 more would be forthcoming before the completion of the structure.

Grand Master William A. Sherman of the Masonic body in California was thereupon presented with a trowel by Jesse Whitehead of the University of California. Molay in California, with which tool he presided over the ceremonies. Assisting Sherman in the impressive Masonic ritual of the cornerstone laying were George Rodden, past grand master; David Reese, deputy grand warden, and Senator Albert Boynton, deputy grand master. Grand Treasurer William Parker Filmer deposited a copper box in the cornerstone, this containing official Masonic documents, copies of the University of California student body roster and course of study, copies of the OAKLAND TRIBUNE and other bay papers and a copy of the Ulster County Gazette of New York dated January 4, 1800, and giving an account of the Masonic funeral of George Washington.

GOOD CITIZEN DEFINED

Past Grand Master Charles L. Adams took the place of Grand Orator John McNab as speaker of the day and issued a plea for good citizenship among the Masonry of California.

"The greatest danger in America today is the apathy and indifference of the average citizen," declared Adams. "A good citizen must support all laws—the laws he doesn't like as well as those he does."

Music during the cornerstone laying was furnished by a quartet from the Masonic Club of the University of California and by the Oakland Scouts' band. An impressive parade participated in by several thousand Masons of the bay region preceded the exercises under the direction of Sidney B. Force as grand marshal and with Sergeant Oscar Putzker leading a police escort. Masonic organizations included Oakland and Berkeley Commanderies, Knights Templar; Berkeley Pyramid No. 12 and Oakland Pyramid No. 2, Ancient Egyptian Order of Scots with their bands and drill teams; University of California Masonic Club; members of Berkeley's blue lodges of Masons and the grand lodge of Masons. Oakland's crack Knight Templar drill team, recently awarded state honors, also marched in the parade.

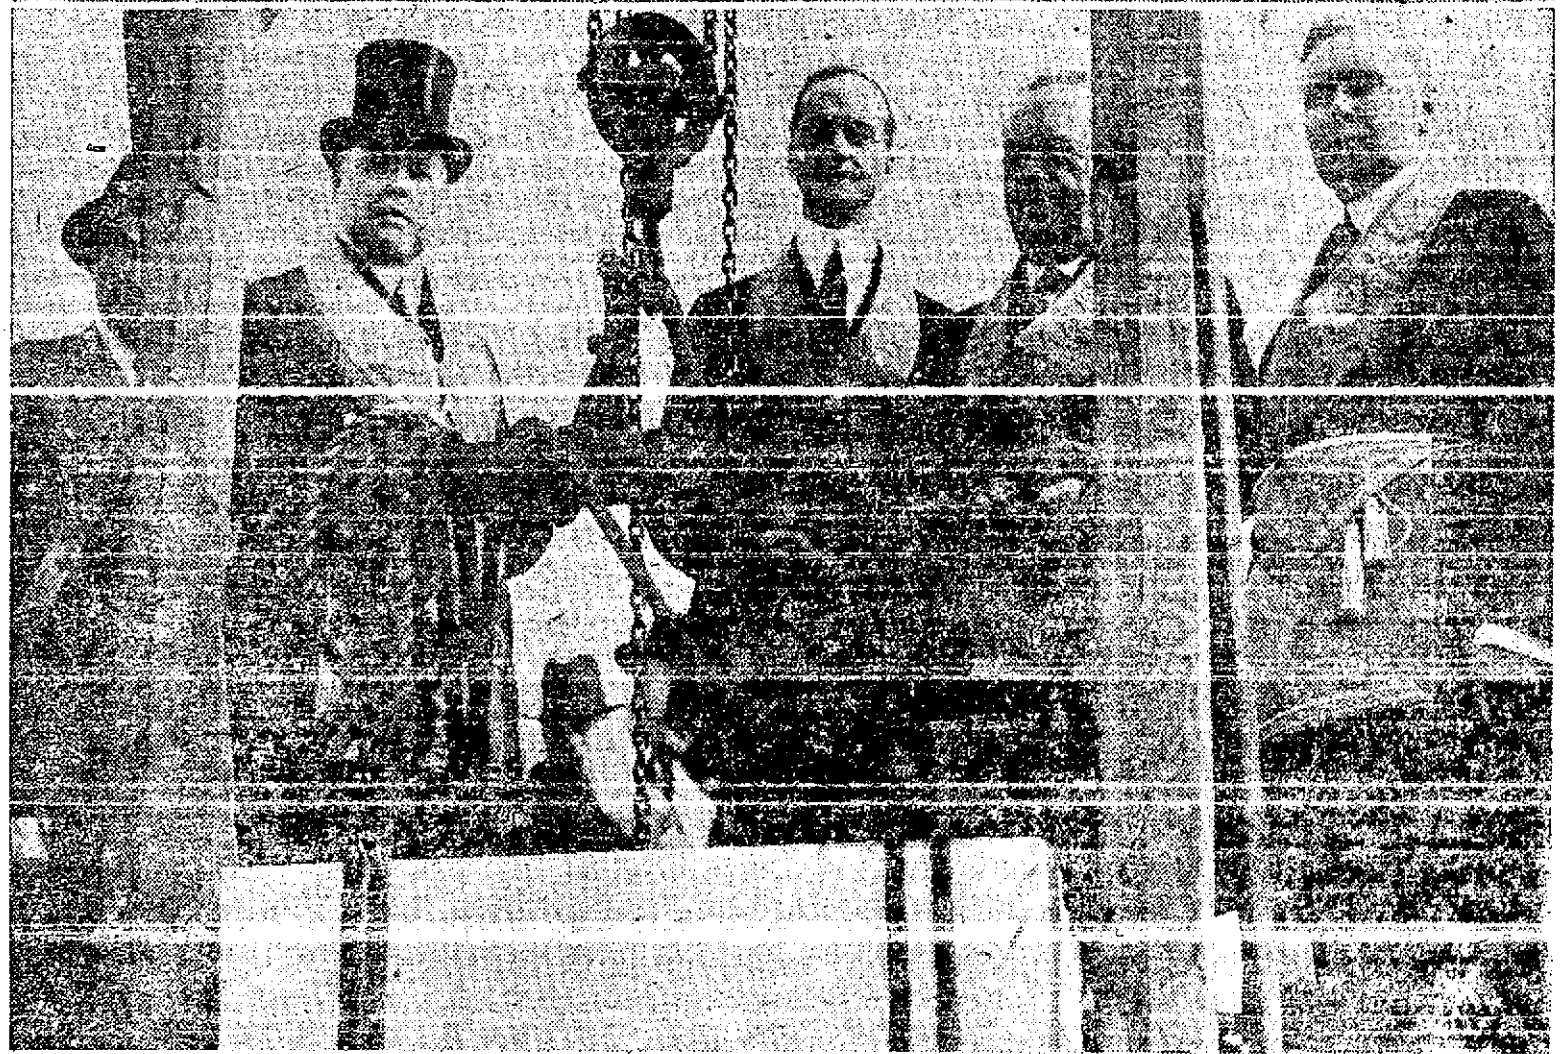

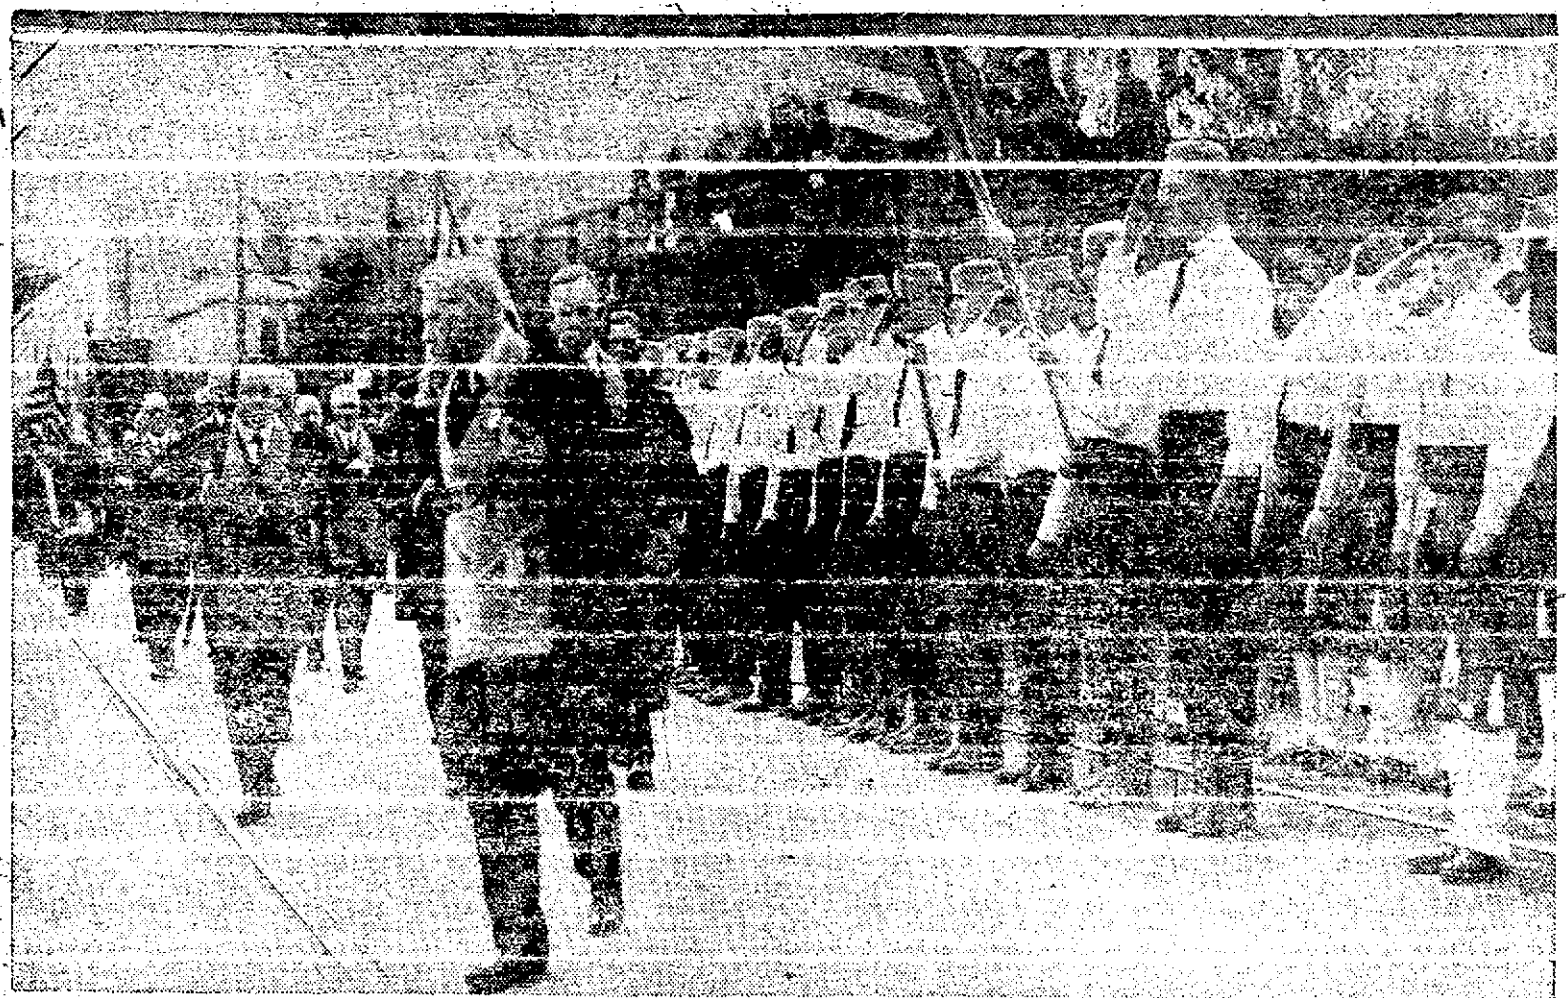

LUNCH PRECEDES EXERCISES

R. L. Eberhardt, president of the University Masonic Club, presided at the luncheon at which visiting Masons were entertained at the Hotel Carlton. James K. Fisk, assistant recorder of the university, was a speaker on "Americanization," while other Masonic leaders were heard in short talks.

Carl Werner is supervising architect of the new Masonic Clubhouse which will be of mission type and containing large recreation

RUSSIAN ARMY'S STRENGTH TOLD BY EYE-WITNESS

First Story by Tribune's Correspondent Will Appear Tomorrow.

The Russian army has a huge paper strength but in reality is not as formidable as it has been reported, is in brief the finding of Francis McCullagh, a special correspondent for the Oakland TRIBUNE, who recently made an exhaustive study of the Soviet forces.

McCullagh's first story will be printed tomorrow. He declares that, although every effort is being made by the Red leaders to inculcate communistic doctrine in the officers and men, they are gradually being weaned away from the system by the natural laws of their occupation.

Only in cavalry and airplane is the present Russian army reaching anywhere near a formidable stage, McCullagh finds. The cavalry, he says, is really at a high state of training and equipment. Five airplane factories out of twenty-three are busy turning out excellent machines and many are being purchased from other countries, he says.

The Red Army at the beginning of this year, he finds, had a ration strength of 800,000 men, mostly poorly trained and equipped. There were 2,000,000 rifles, chiefly of Russian manufacture, although many came from other countries.

Building Total For Alameda Is Gaining Rapidly

ALAMEDA, April 28.—Building activities in Alameda for April, 1923, almost trebled in valuation those for 1922, according to the monthly report of Eugene Mallott, building inspector issued yesterday.

During the month, twenty-eight permits were issued for the construction of buildings totalling in valuation $122,885, and fifty-six permits amounting to $17,161 were issued for alterations.

In April, 1922, thirteen new buildings were constructed at an aggregate cost of $48,000, with forty-nine permits for alterations at $21,640.

including the United States. There are 14,000 heavy machine guns, 5700 light machine guns, 3600 cannon, 3,000,000 shells of all kinds and about 1,000,000,000 rounds of small arms ammunition.

Irrigation District To Reclaim Tract

MANTECA, April 28.—To reclaim a tract of valuable land on the Frank Wehe and adjoining property, the South San Joaquin Irrigation district board has authorized a power line to be carried to the property and a large pump put in. The land has become flooded owing to a constantly rising water level, due to continued irrigation and poor drainage. The pumping plan has worked satisfactorily in other parts of the district, with the result that large acreages which lay under water have been thoroughly reclaimed.

BERKELEY C. OF C. FAIR TO FEATURE SHOW OF AUTOS

Scots to Have Replica of Famous Tomb to Aid Drum Corps

BERKELEY, April 28.—An automobile show complete in itself will be one of the outstanding features of the third annual Merchants and Manufacturers' fair to be held in Berkeley May 14 to 19. According to Manager Anthony A. Trempe, automobile dealers of Berkeley have reserved one entire section of the main exhibition tent to be erected at Milvia street and Alston way and will install what will be the most complete show of its kind held in the college city.

Manager Trempe declares that this year's fair will give more variety to the visitor than either of the previous two civic undertakings. Exhibits covering practically every kind of staple manufactured goods and other merchandise will be featured in the six acres of space to be covered with display tents.

A novel feature just announced as a part of the entertainment to be afforded aside from the exhibits will be a replica of the famous King Tut tomb to be erected by the Berkeley Pyramid of Scots. The tomb will take the form of a concession with oriental attractions in the way of dancing maids and other features. The proceeds from this concession will go toward sending the Berkeley Scots drum corps to the annual state convention to be held this year at San Diego.

Through the activity of the Chamber of Commerce directors, the first community chest "exhibit" held in the bay region will feature the fair this year. A large block of space has been allotted to the community chest directors and all of the twenty-one organizations joining in the recent drive for funds will be represented. Real babies are promised by the baby hospital to add to the realism of their activities while other features are being planned. The agencies which will co-operate in this exhibit are:

Alameda County Tuberculosis Society, Albany Y. M. C. A., Baby Hospital, Boy Scouts, Berkeley Day Nursery, Berkeley Dispensary, Berkeley School Lunch Committee, Berkeley Welfare Society, Berkeley Y. M. C. A., West Berkeley Y. M. C. A., Campfire Girls, Catholic Ladies Aid, Child Hygiene Committee, Children's Home Society, Jewish Relief, Newman Club, Pacific Coast Rescue and Protective Society, Public Health Nursing Unit, Berkeley Chapter Red Cross, Salvation Army, and the University of California Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A.

PET SHOW POPULAR.

Entries are now being received for the pet show which proved a popular feature of last year's fair. Children of Berkeley are invited by Trempe to display their animal friends, whether they be birds, beasts, or reptiles. The first entry in the pet show came this week from Philip Crocker, 14-year-old pigeon fancier, of 3215 Fulton street, a pupil at the Willard school. Young Crocker asks for three coops in which to display a large collection of choice birds. Application blanks for the pet show are obtainable at the offices of the chamber of commerce, Alston way, below Shattuck avenue.

If you see it in THE TRIBUNE tell them so.

HARDING DENIES BANKERS HAVE INFLUENCED HIM

President in Heart-to-Heart Talk to Editors Takes Rap at His Critics

WASHINGTON, April 28.—President Harding tonight gathered with his fellow craftsmen, members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, at a banquet closing their convention here and addressed them on the ethics of journalism.

John W. Davis, former ambassador to Great Britain, president of the American Bar Association and prominent Democrat, spoke on "the constitution and the press."

The President, in a heart-to-heart shop talk with the editors, took a slap at his critics who charge that he is advocating American adhesion to the world court at the behest of international bankers.

"There is not a grain of truth to justify the statements," the President declared with great emphasis.

"He said that in the two years he had been in office not a single international banker had asked for an audience with him."

"I would rather be a newspaper publisher than anything else in the world," President Harding said. "I am going to be owner of the Marion Star until they settle up my estate because I love the business."

BIG SHIP LAUNCHED. (By International News Service.) BELFAST, April 28.—The largest ship to sail up the Thames to London, the Minnewaska, belonging to the Atlantic Transport Line, has just been launched here. She is 21,100 tons gross, 325 feet long, and will be a turbine oil burner.

TUBERCULOSIS AMONG INDIANS IS INCREASING

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Tuberculosis among the North American Indians is steadily increasing, the National Tuberculosis Society has just reported. The investigating committee was composed of Dr. George M. Kober, chairman; William H. Baldwin, Dr. Horace Dearholt, Dr. Albert B. Tonkin, Dr. George E. Bushnell and Dr. Joseph A. Murphy.

Investigations started in February, 1919, through the Nebraska Tuberculosis Association, among the Winnebago Indians. The department of sociology of the Nebraska State University assisted. Later the Oklahoma Tuberculosis Association took up the probe of conditions in its state, and several other societies contributed. The Indian bureau at Washington contributed the government's part of the work.

THE great sale is coming. And San Francisco will be justly rewarded for waiting until May 14, when the originator of the San Francisco anniversary sales celebrates the real birthday of the founding of its business.

IN token of its consideration for the wonderful support given it by this community, it will attempt to repay with bargains in every department that will be well worth waiting for, and that cannot be matched anywhere. Real money will be saved by those who await The Emporium's Twenty-seventh Birthday Sales 9:00 a.m. Monday, May 14.

I. W. W. Closes Rum Joints In Portland

By Universal Service.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 28.—Summary action was taken by the I. W. W. members today when bootlegging joints in the "North End" were raided and forcibly closed up.

A gang of 150 or 200 men swept through the district calling on each of the illegal dispensaries. At each place the proprietor was ordered to shut up the place or be thrown out. The shops were closed and locked and some were nailed up.

Two Persons Are Hurt In Car Crash

Following collision of their automobile with a closed car which contained, witnesses claimed, several men under the influence of liquor, Miss Clara F. Munroe, aged 23, 2328 Grove street, Berkeley, and R. J. Corcoran, 28, wealthy dairyman, also of Berkeley, were taken to the Emergency hospital last night and treated for cuts and bruises. The two machines collided at San Pablo avenue and Ashby street, Berkeley.

The closed car stopped after the accident but the occupants refused to give their names. The license number was turned over to the police by John Ellenberger and wife, 815 Henry street, who took Miss Munroe and her companion to the hospital.

Benefit Under Way For Swimming Tank

HAYWARD, April 28.—The entire grammar school district is being canvassed for support of the benefit to be given under the auspices of the Bayview farm center in order to start a fund to provide a swimming tank on the grounds of the Hayward grammar school on upper Main street. According to Mrs. T. W. Cordrey, in charge of arrangements for the benefit, the support of the entire district is being received.

Miss Betty Jane Temple, a well known child entertainer of Oakland, and an honorary member of the Oakland Boy Scouts, will be a feature of the benefit program. Boy Scouts, community singing and brief talks will complete the evening. Following the program a dance will be held. The benefit will be held in the auditorium of the B street grammar school.

CHEST WORKERS ARE REORGANIZED FOR 'MOPPING UP'

Raising Fund Only Matter of Thorough Campaign, Says Campaign Head.

With the determination of "mopping up" those districts which have not obtained their quotas, the Oakland Community Chest workers with new enthusiasm will start the last week of the extended campaign tomorrow. Preparations have been made for a rousing rally of the workers at noon at the Hotel Oakland. A careful analysis of the results of the campaign has been made and will be presented at the rally. According to Lynn Mowatt, campaign director, there is every indication that the goal of $486,396 will be attained by the end of the week.

"It's simply a matter of thoroughly covering the districts," explained Mowatt yesterday. "An investigation of the districts which have attained their quotas shows but one thing, that is, every district that has been thoroughly covered has produced the allotment made for it. Of the districts reaching their quotas, one of them has piled up the splendid total of 207%. In other words, the district under Colonel Harry East Miller, reached its 100% and 107% additional. Other districts range all the way from 50% to 87% over the quotas. We have analyzed these returns and have found that in each of these districts the territory assigned has been thoroughly covered. As against this, we find that in those districts which have failed to make their quotas, the territory has only been covered in spots. It will be our plan during the coming week to take the teams from the various luncheon clubs and civic organizations which have volunteered their support, and throw them in with our regular teams. In this way we will have an intensive effort. I do not believe that there is any doubt out that we will make our goal."

Superintendent of Schools Fred Johnson will be the speaker at the luncheon tomorrow. Arrangements will also probably be made at the luncheon for the compilation and publication of honor rolls. It is the belief of many members and workers in the campaign that the public is entitled to know exactly who has contributed to the campaign, the names of those who have fallen down in their subscriptions, and those who have not contributed at all. Suggestions have been made that a booklet containing this information be published and circulated throughout the city. Contributions from lodges and associations are beginning to reach headquarters. The Oakland Rotary Club contributed $500 from its treasury, and this was followed by a $500 subscription from the Elks. Thomas Simpson, prize fight promoter, was another $500 subscriber, and he announced that many of the little "four-rounders" will be represented with subscriptions before the campaign closes. Del Howard, manager of the Oakland baseball team, reported yesterday that the one-armed score card vendor at the baseball park had given him a $10 subscription. "I doubt if everyone has really completely fixed in their minds exactly what their contribution to the Community Chest represents," declared W. W. Garmann, president of the Community Chest organization. "Let's put it this way: During the course of a year, no one would consider it a hardship to contribute toward the support of every worthy charity in the city. Hundreds and hundreds of people are doing this. In Oakland it has been found that there are forty-three necessary and worthy charities. Therefore, the man who contributed one dollar to each charity has contributed at the end of the year, $43. Now then, the man who gives $25 to the Community Chest is giving approximately fifty cents toward the support of each agency. A fifty dollar subscription only represents a trifle over a dollar toward the support of each agency for a year. For the accommodation of those who prefer to designate where their contribution shall go, arrangements have been made toward this end. It is only necessary, if you have a preference, to indicate it on your contribution card."

TRIP TO MOVIES TO FOLLOW BIRTHDAY FEAST

"Edith, you were bemoaning the fact the other day that you never did see the film, 'When Knighthood Was in Flower.'"

"Yes, it was here a long time ago."

"Well, I was going to tell you that it is now playing at the show again if you want to go. I liked it so well I'll go again with you if you like the arrangement."

"Oh, I remember reading last week that Betty Compton, film star, said it was particularly beautiful."

"You didn't say whether you wanted to go tonight."

"Oh, yes, I should say I do. But today is mother's birthday. I'll tell you what. You come on out and have a nice little birthday dinner with us, and then we'll all go to the picture. Mother and dad haven't seen it either."

"That's a lovely idea. Then I will have a good excuse to wear my new dress. I am so proud of it, and I wanted you to see it, anyway."

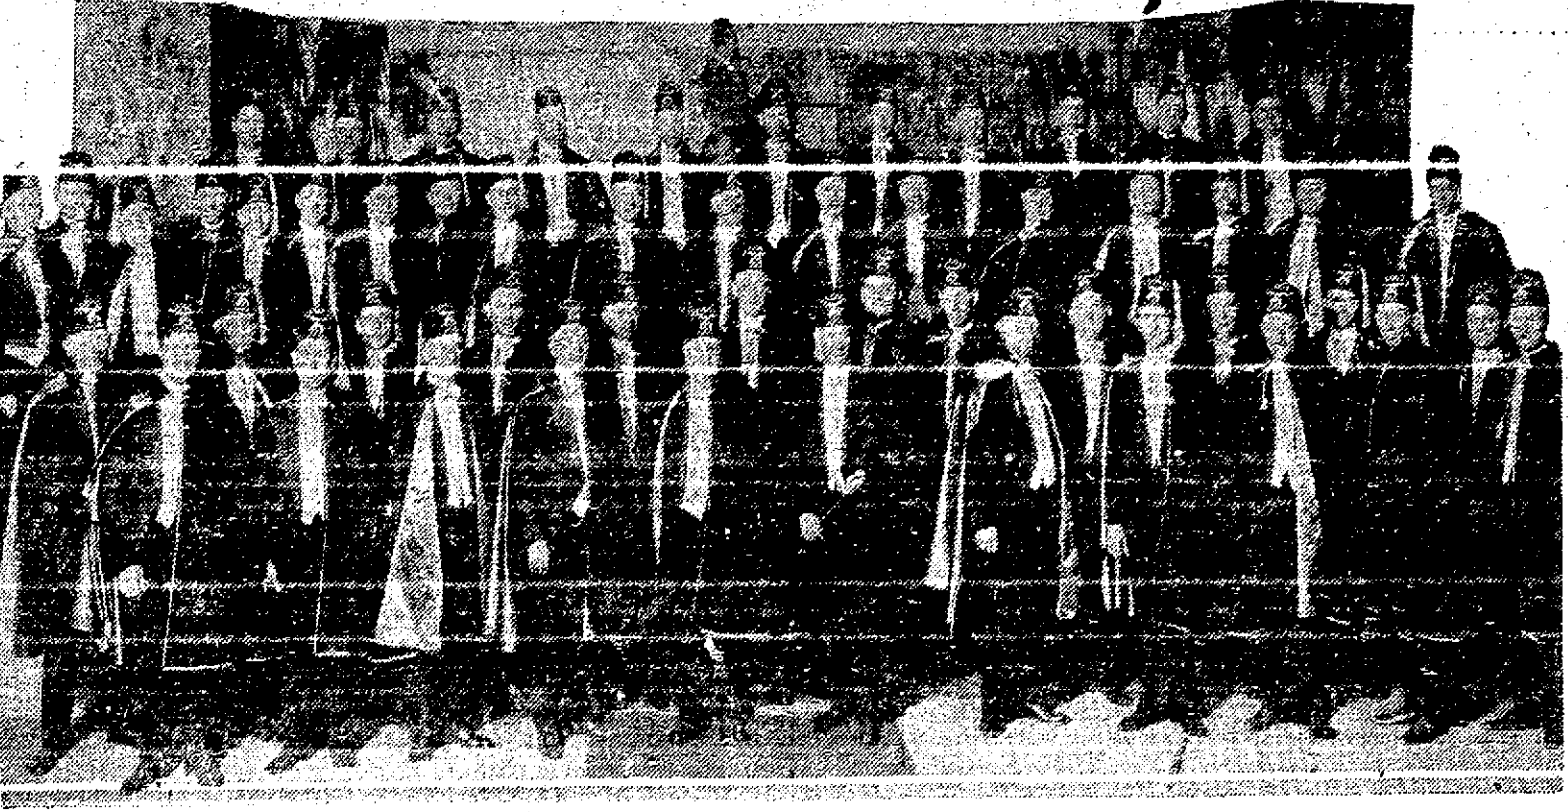

"Good! Wear it! I hope it isn't too dressy though, as this will be just a small little family dinner."

"Goodness, no! This isn't a dressy costume. One of those necessary things, and still feel correctly dressed. Not too good, yet too good for just ordinary wear. I'll wear it at 'When Knighthood Was in Flower' where one may buy on credit."

Cherry's store for men is at 525 13th Street.

THREE DIVORCE DECREES SIGNED

Three interlocutory divorce decrees were signed yesterday by Superior Judge T. W. Harris, the testimony in all three cases having been taken before Court Commissioner Clarence Crowell.

Emma King told John H. King, 6787 Seventeenth street, that she no longer loved him and that "she would not even stay in the same house" with him, he told the court. The couple were married May 5, 1918.

"Don't come here," was the cryptic letter Selma Stewart, 1922 Harrington avenue, received from Noble Stewart after he had gone to Porterville and secured work, she said in her testimony. Mrs. Stewart said that while she and her husband were living at the Hotel Savoy, Oakland, he took her to his sister's home in San Francisco, left her there and she has not seen him since. The couple were married Jan. 23, 1915, and separated February 27, 1921.

After Louis Schulman had left the home of his wife, Ida Schulman, 713 Twenty-sixth street, owing never to return, he came back late at night in an intoxicated condition and tried to break down the door, Mrs. Schulman testified. She said he was frequently drunk and would beat her on these occasions. They were married January 27, 1915, in Poland, and separated April 1, 1918.

Two English scientists, professors Baly and Heibren, have discovered that ultra-violet rays, acting upon soda water form sugar.

AAHMES TEMPLE TO SPREAD CHEER IN BIG CONCERT

Auditorium Theater Will Be Scene of May Day Song Festival.

Arrangements have been completed for a May Day concert program under the auspices of the Chanters of Aahmes Temple A. A. O. N. M. S. at the Auditorium Theater.

The program will include selections by the Aahmes band under the direction of William Brown, chorus numbers by the Chanters, vocal selections by the Athenian Quartet, a solo by Mrs. Eugene Blanchard the soprano, a violin concert program by Josephine Hlub, and selections by the Arlo Trio.

According to John C. Hughes, president of the Chanters, the endeavor is to spread the gospel of friendship through song "to gladden the hearts of the sorrowful, sick and needy."

LANDS FOR INDIANS.

SACRAMENTO, April 26.—Lands in the Plumas, Lassen and Modoc counties in northern California were set aside for northern California Indians by a bill passed today by the assembly. It was stated that more than 1500 of the redmen are virtually homeless.

WITH ICE PICK IN BRAIN, DYING, ACCUSES WIFE

SEATTLE, April 28.—Lying on a cot in the city hospital, Peter Thompson, 37, late Saturday accused his wife of stabbing him through the brain with an ice pick. Mrs. Thompson is held in jail on an open charge. She denies her husband's accusations, and declares the pick was sticking from her husband's forehead when he came home, intoxicated, Friday morning.

Mrs. Thompson pulled the pick, which was six inches long and protruding but one inch, from his forehead with her teeth, she said.

Thompson awakened from a state of coma and with his dying breath made the accusation to Dr. C. J. Simon. Dr. Simon declares that Thompson cannot possibly live throughout the night.

One Ad In Tribune Sells a Fine Home

The many friends of A. J. Platt will be interested to learn that he has acquired a home at 2130 Twelfth avenue. The home is just finished and is a charming example of the California bungalow designed and erected by H. W. McIntire, 1533 Franklin street, who sold this property to Platt through an advertisement in the Oakland TRIBUNE of March 4. The new owner, who has been a resident of Elmhurst for some time, is an accountant with the Alameda Sugar company.

Florence Morrison, the largest actress on the American stage weighs 300 pounds and is one inch lacking in being six feet tall.

IRISH LEADERS REFUSE ANSWER TO DE VALERA

Free State Continues the Roundup of Rebels All Over Island.

By DANIEL O'CONNELL
International News Staff Correspondent

DUBLIN, April 28.—Free state military headquarters took vigorous precautionary measures tonight to cope with week-end attacks by republican irregulars in Dublin and elsewhere. Despite Eamonn De Valera's offer of an armistice effective at noon Monday, free state troops continue to round up the irregulars throughout the western counties. Many captures were made during the day.

So far the free state government has not responded to De Valera's peace offer.

Free state officials are inclined to wait until the last minute, to ascertain the general reaction to De Valera's offer on the part of the public at large. Opinion is prevalent in many quarters that the irregulars will grasp the De Valera proclamation as evidence of defeat and will voluntarily give up their arms, pledging their loyalty to the Dublin government.

TRIBUNE YOUTHS GIVE ANOTHER JUVENILE SHOW

Free Movie and Entertainment on at American Theater Saturday.

Tell you TRIBUNE-American youngsters! Nearly time for another big free moving picture and juvenile entertainment, isn't it? Just to prove that we agree with you, the TRIBUNE and the American theater are arranging to stage a fine, big free matinee for boys and girls next Saturday morning. Every member of the famous Aunt Elsie and 60,000 clubs are invited as usual, and all their best pals, too. A special invitation is extended to their mothers, who are asked to chaperon all children under 10 years of age.

Doors will be open at 9 o'clock sharp, rain or shine, and everyone must help keep their place in line. The American theater will show you a splendid picture as usual and Owen Sweeten, popular orchestra leader, will have something special to offer you.

The Tribune will present a number of clever juvenile performers, with one or two entirely new members. The feature act will be "In a Chinese Tea Garden," a one-act play written by Beverly Swabey, director of the TRIBUNE Juveniles, and coached by Bernice Claire Jahnigen. You'll be sure to enjoy this act and will think the little performers who make up the cast are real little China made only recently arrived from China. Those taking part are Wilma Bradbury, as "Cherry Blossom," a classy little Chinese singing girl; Dorothy Matthews as "O' Long," a Chinese merchant and proprietor of the tea garden; Shirley Ives as little Princess Singapore; Adele Leakey as Ming Toy, leader of the chorus; and Kathryn Matthews and Arline Jorgensen, two little Chinese dancing girls. Bernice Blundon will be on the program and will sing "Topsy Turvy Town," a late song hit.

Irma Frazier will appear in a dance specialty. Harold Joseph Perry will sing an old time song, "The Old Time Rockaway." Dorothy Burke and Dorothy Dunn, a clever little team, will appear in a boy and girl number featuring the songs "Alphonso Siagona" and "Juanita," and a waltz song dance, "Freda Benker" will put on one of her clever toe dances and little Mickey Murphy, a new member and the youngest boy singer in the troupe, will sing "Mickey O'Neil."

Lodge Says He Will Not War on World Court Plan

By H. K. REYNOLDS
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, who had been expected to lead the fight in the Senate against President Harding's proposal to make the United States a member of the International Court of Justice, declined tonight to go to war against the administration and expressed the belief that the differences within the Republican party over the court problem would be adjusted.

Lodge's position was revealed in a letter to Governor Arthur M. Hyde of Missouri, who had urged him, as the Republican chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, to "prevent the disaster to the nation and the party."

It was the first public expression that has come from Senator Lodge since President Harding in his New York speech on Tuesday came out flatfootedly for American participation in the world peace court, and frankly challenged members of his party either to be for him or against him.

"I most earnestly desire the success of the Republican party and am equally desirous that President Harding should be re-nominated and re-elected," Lodge declared in his letter. "When the subject of the league court has been fully discussed and considered, I hope and believe that a satisfactory adjustment will be reached."

Discussing the relationship of the international court and the league, Senator Lodge said:

"It has always been the policy of the United States, and very emphatically the policy of the Republican party, to promote in every way possible the settlement of international differences by arbitration and through the medium of arbitral tribunals. We have advocated in the past the establishment of permanent courts of arbitration. 'If it had been hoped to establish a permanent international court for the settlement of international disputes, selected, as is proposed in the league court, from the panel created by groups under the terms of The Hague convention; if it had been proposed to manent and to be appointed by the nation's severally and independently and not by a majority of the council and the assembly of the league and with long terms and sufficient salaries, in my judgment, such a court would have received practically universal approval not only by the Senate of the United States, but by the people of the United States."

Senator Lodge said he believed the great mass of the American people were in full accord with the declaration of President Harding that the League of Nations "is not for us."

"Nothing could have induced me to vote for the covenant of the League of Nations which Mr. Wilson said before the Senate on July 10, 1919," he continued. "But I voted twice in favor of the treaty

ALAMEDA SCHOOL PUPILS WORKING HARD FOR BONDS

Renewed Energy Put Into Campaign That Closes at Polls Tuesday.

ALAMEDA, April 28.—With the election for a $750,000 bond issue for a new Alameda high school set for Tuesday, renewed energy is being given to the bond campaign by students in the school. A house to house canvass is being conducted by student organizations and signatures of residents in favor of a new high school are being obtained. To date more than 5,000 Alamedans have signed their approval of the proposition.

Four minutes talks have been made by the students before clubs, civic organizations and fraternal organizations. At the last meeting of Alameda Post No. 9, American Legion, an appeal was made to the veterans by Miss Mildred Anderson, high school student, to stand by the school board in its hour of need.

A short address was made by C. J. Du Four, superintendent of schools and Dr. George Thompson, principal of the high school. In Du Four's talk, he summed up the vital points in the project, declaring that the bond issue of $750,000 would embrace and provide for every penny of expense in the proposed completed structure.

He added that the present high school building will be remodeled and utilized as a unit of the new school; that the proposed site is on a main artery of travel is centrally located. Favors no section of the city, is easy of access from all street-cars and is within two minutes' walk to the Alameda Free library.

Representative business men of Alameda, interested in the success of the bond issue for a new high school in Alameda, have been received from George W. Scott, an active civic worker, who assisted in creating the present high school twenty years ago, and from Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Porter, active workers in the Alameda Chamber of Commerce.

CROCKETT PUTS AMERICANIZATION WORK TO A TEST

at School.

CROCKETT, April 28.—Directors and teachers of Americanization of Bay District cities today were guests at luncheon of teachers in the School of Citizenship of Crockett, following an illuminating explanation of the work being done in Crockett toward Americanizing the foreign element. After a discussion of the Crockett school and its work, teachers and directors were shown through the refinery of the California & Hawaiian Sugar corporation. Luncheon was served at the community auditorium.

During the lunch, pupils of the Americanization classes, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Dorst, director of the school, presented a program of music and dances. Most prominent was the French minuet, danced in Colonial costume by thirty pupils of Miss A. Brodsky of the higher English class. Boris and William Kramensko played three Russian airs on guitar and mandolin and Miss Marie di Lega and G. Cecil gave a Dutch dance. Miss Bertha Weber, supervisor of music of Contra Costa county, played Chopin's "Fantasia" as a piano solo. J. Jacobith, violinist, played "Mother Macree." TUESDAY VOTE IN BERKELEY WILL END HOT CONTEST

City Manager Form of Government Will Be Inaugurated Then.

BERKELEY, April 20.—Two innovations in municipal government for Berkeley will be featured at the polls of the College City Tuesday.

Berkeleyans on that day will inaugurate the city manager form of government by electing, instead of the present council of five, a governing body of nine.

At the same time, the preferential system of voting will be put into effect, confining balloting to one municipal election instead of two and giving the voters opportunity to make first and second choices of the candidates in the field.

Miss Emma Hann, city clerk, will supervise the counting of ballots in the Addison, near Grove street. Because of the fact that all second choice votes must be counted at a central place, necessitating the employment of 50 or more experienced workers, the city hall council chambers were deemed inadequate to handle the situation and the armory chosen instead. Instructions to election officers who will count first choice votes in the polling places and to the workers who will prepare the official tally at the armory, were given by Miss Hann Wednesday and Thursday night at the city hall. All election officers were given information which will aid in voting in marking the new preferential plan ballots to be used for the first time.

CAMPAIGN HAS BEEN HOT

Tuesday's election will bring to a culmination a campaign which has been featured by verbal fireworks, including the voicing of charges and counter-charges and even causing at certain stakes the police and city council to be called into the fray.

Two rival tickets are in the field, one sponsored by the Berkeley Municipal League, the campaign organization which conducted the fight for the city manager plan of government, and the other to the All-Berkeley League, made up of "independent" candidates. The campaign was sponsored by the Municipal League.

The Berkeley Municipal League ticket is as follows: For mayor, Frank D. Strickland; for council, Mrs. Agnes Claypole Moody, Mrs. Harry L. Hoyt, Prof. Samuel May, Elmer E. Nichols, M. B. Driver, Thomas E. Caldecott, Walter Mork, Frank W. Wentworth; for auditor, Harry L. Traub.

Endorsed by the All-Berkeley League are the following candidates: For mayor, James K. Fisk; for council, Mrs. Gladys Leggett, Mrs. Marie Gagnebin, George Schmidt, H. J. Hines, Fred C. Kober, Elmer Nichols, Frank W. Wentworth and Walter Mork.

Other candidates in the field for the council are: Mrs. Mary Cleveland, A. S. Fuller and Matthew Morton. A third candidate for the mayoralty is Herbert Cogswell, Socialist leader. A three-cornered fight for city auditor will be decided at the polls, the candidates being Elmer Bell, incumbent; Councilman E. T. Hines and City Treasurer Harry L. Traub.

FIVE IN BOARD RACE

Five candidates will contest for two places on the Berkeley board of education. They are: Lester W. Hink and Mrs. Carrie Gibbs, incumbents; Councilman Carl Bartlett, Mrs. Margaret Whitney and Adelaide Smith.

In addition to the twelve city officials to be chosen, Berkeleyans will vote on two proposals, one submitted by the members of the Berkeley Housewives' League, which seeks in the ordinance a plan to limit the number of cows which may be kept in Berkeley to two.

Farmers, in their plea for their dairy rates, declare that a vote in their behalf will not raise taxes one cent, but will merely authorize the council to adjust the wage scale out of the city funds available at the present time.

The two-cow ordinance is favored by the Affiliated Berkeley clubs, while the referendum measure which has been filed against it was circulated under the auspices of the Berkeley Housewives' League, which seeks in the ordinance a plan to limit the number of cows which may be kept in Berkeley to two.

BERKELEY, April 20.—The "voices and virtues" of California co-eds will be taken to a family council of college women from all parts of the country to be held in Columbus, Ohio.

Gathered at Columbus will be delegates from all parts of the country. Rules of conduct, regulation of social activities, student self-government and the honor system will be among the problems to be discussed. The University of California, having the oldest honor system in the country and one of the newest forms of student self-government, is expected, through its delegates, to lead in the discussion of these subjects.

Delegates leaving from this state include representatives from the University of California, Mills College, Stanford University, College of the Pacific and the University of Southern California. FANNIE WARD IS REPORTED TO BE REJUVENATED

Favorite of Screen and Stage Ready to Renew Game As "Girl" Actress.

LOS ANGELES, April 20.—Fannie Ward may never be able to play "Cupid" or "Cinderella" again for obvious reasons, but there is nothing to stop her from essaying a "Polyanna," "Fess of the Storm Country" or one of the "Two Orphans."

At least that is the report emanating from New York, where Miss Ward, who has achieved the ripened middle-age of 45, is said to have once more rejuvenated herself and become like unto 15 in countenance and figure.

It appears that the actress has submitted to the use of Roentgen rays as a substitute for the fountain of youth and has been so successful that she is seriously contemplating a return either to the stage or the screen, on which she is equally well known.

Fannie Ward was born in St. Louis in 1875 and made her stage debut in 1890 at the Broadway theater in New York in "Pippino," in which she played Cupid. Subsequently she appeared in "Across the Pecos," "Cinderella" and a host of other plays in America and England.

Some years ago Miss Ward, who doesn't look a great deal older than her daughter now, according to report, submitted to a beauty operation which consisted of taking up sagging skin and removing wrinkles. She played for some time after that.

Recently she retired, unwilling to play middle-aged women or grand dames, and then took up the treatment recently invented by a Vienna biologist. Now she can make Edna Wallace Hopper look to her laurels.

Says Tuberculosis Is For U. S. to Control

UNITED PRESS.—The United States government could stamp out tuberculosis if it adopted such systematic and vigorous measures against it as it used in the eradication of yellow fever in the Panama canal zone under the direction of General W. C. Gorgas a few years ago.

This was the assertion in an address here of W. A. Fraser, head of the Woodmen of the World, who is leading a campaign against the disease launched by the fraternal order which recently established a tuberculosis hospital at San Antonio and plans three more.

"Tuberculosis," said Fraser, "is known to be preventable and curable in its early stages. Yet it causes 140,000 deaths every year or one-eighth of all the adult deaths in the nation. The economic cost of the disease is estimated at $200,000,000 annually."

"Its prevalence is due to the fact that in the past, treatment has been largely left to individuals. Community action could control it. National action could eradicate it."

Regains Youth

"Googie," Pigeon Found by Tribune

Google has been found. The pet gray pigeon belonging to Mrs. C. H. Murry, wife of a marine engineer, living at 4000 Santa Rita street, Fruitvale, after an absence of several days was found by W. M. Molitor, druggist of West Oakland, who was attracted by the bird which strayed above his store and finally flew to the doorway. Molitor who lives at 1714 Ninth street, Alameda took the pigeon home with him Saturday evening. Google insisted on being in the house with the family and gaining entrance to the family circle made herself quite at home and enjoyed the evening meal family style. The unusual intelligence of the little pigeon assured Molitor that the bird was someone's pet and so kept her quite warm and well fed until he saw her master's name in The TRIBUNE.

FOO WING HERBS Used By Family For 10 Years

Berkeley, Cal., March 12, 1923.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

We have been using the Foo Wing Herb Co. Teas for about the last ten years, and have had wonderful success with their treatment.

Our daughter was very sick with what the doctors said was a bad case of inflamed appendix, which was eliminated.

In November, 1922, my wife noticed a lump forming which if she had not taken the treatments would have turned into a cancer.

I was operated on for appendicitis about 12 years ago, and suffered afterwards with what the doctors called adhesions, but was cured after taking the Foo Wing treatments.

We have used their teas for colds and fevers and have had them broken overnight.

During our acquaintance with these Herb Specialists we have found them both courteous and sympathetic. We will gladly give a personal reference to anyone who desires it.

If the Foo Wing Herb Co. wishes to use this testimonial at any time they are at liberty to do so.

ANNUAL PICNIC AT UNIVERSITY FARM IS STAGED

Thousands Visit Davis and See Exhibits of Livestock and Enjoy Sports.

(Special to The TRIBUNE.) DAVIS, Cal., April 28.—Thousands of visitors from all parts of the bay region, the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys attended the fifteenth annual picnic at the University of California Agricultural Farm here today.

The attendance, according to Melvin W. Johnson, general chairman of the day, was greater than on any preceding annual picnic, and is estimated at having reached the total of 15,000. Most of the visitors motored up, and there was a strong contingent of students from the University at Berkeley, and also from Leland Stanford.

A stock judging contest, participated in by the students of twenty-three high schools, a baseball game between the University of California Freshmen and the students of the Farm, whose team was cheered as the "Aggies," a mile long parade, band concert, a truck meet, an exhibition of animal husbandry and of other activities of the Farm, an irrigation demonstration, a hog weight guessing contest and a butter making demonstration were some of the features of the extension program. This program concluded with an alumni senior banquet and with dances in the gymnasium and auditorium.

GOVERNOR THANKED. Ralph P. Merritt was the speaker of the day and was introduced by Dr. C. B. Hutchinson, dean of the agricultural college. Assemblyman Van Bernard attended the event as representing the state legislature.

In the course of his address, Merritt said: "The agricultural college and farm have successfully passed through the readjustment period, and a great deal of credit is due to Governor Richardson for the assistance he has given for the support of this institution. The State of California is the battleground on which the problem of the economic success or failure of rural communities is at present being worked out. The hope for the American farmer does not lie in the question of credit; neither does it lie in the idea of salvaging Europe with the purpose of creating greater markets for the farmer. And most emphatically the salvation of the farmer does not lie in politics. What the farmer requires, first and foremost, is educational work such as is now being carried on in a most efficient manner on the University Farm at Davis."

In his welcome to the visitors Dean Hutchinson drew attention to the fact that this event represents the efforts of the student body to bring to the attention of the people of California the opportunities and advantages of higher education in agriculture which the state has provided at the University Farm.

A great deal of interest was displayed by visitors in the live-stock exhibit where Professor Elmer Mead, the prize winner of the farm occupied a place of honor and in the farm industries exhibit. The visitors were also taken on tour over the farm by the student reception committee.

The students had arranged many side shows, and had entered numerous fine floats in the parade, which was led by the band of the Maryville school. A feature of the parade was the long procession of pure blooded university stock, including prize Herefords, Jerseys, Friesians and Ayrshires. A spirited chariot race, featuring the famous stallion Gunrock, was a particular attraction in the parade.

The visitors partook of the luncheon on the lawn and were served refreshments by the students. The baseball game between the agricultural students and the University freshmen from Berkeley was won by the latter.

McDONOUGH TRIAL

OPEN THURSDAY

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—Next Thursday was set today for the trial of Pete and Tom McDonough and Harry Rice, on charges of violating the prohibition laws.

Federal Judge William C. Van Fleet sat during the proceeding.

ants pleaded not guilty. They were represented by Attorneys Marshall Woodworth and Frank Hennessy. The former declared that, while he did not desire any delays, a few days would be required in preparing the defense, and Thursday was agreed upon.

The question of the elimination of evidence regarding the seizure of certain liquor at the Rice home will be argued Tuesday. The prosecution claims that this liquor was identical with that served to prohibition officers at McDonough's Kearny street place of business.

CAT NURSES RABBIT.

FRANKFORT, Ind., April 28.—A young rabbit has been adopted into its family of week-old kittens by a white cat that lives in the stock room of a local factory. The cat mothers and nurses the bunny and gives it the usual morning ablutions just as it does its five kittens. Meal time is answered by the bunny as eagerly as by the kittens.

Five red tape has resulted in Paris, species of involuntary prohibition in Paris hospitals. The visiting physicians often prescribe champagne or other wine for convalescent patients but, when the families of the latter bring the liquor, they are met by a porter with a strict order preventing the entry of any kind of alcoholic liquor into the hospital. The doctors are not permitted to give a written prescription for wines.

Calls For Operation Bids For Term of Years Over Prescribed Routes.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Bids for purchase of all passenger and cargo ships on its register on a basis of guaranteed operation for a period of years over prescribed routes, have been invited by the shipping board in its final effort to convey the government fleet to private ownership and operation.

In announcing last night the invitation for bids returnable by May 28, the board gave a list of the existing routes into which the existing ships have been consolidated as those which would be given first consideration in the sale of ships.

SHIPS OF WORLD NOW TIE UP AT OAKLAND PIERS

Review of Vessels Shows Big Harbor Has Farflung Influence.

An international ship review clinched the claim of Oakland's outer harbor to being the Port of All Nations yesterday. Lying alongside the Pier Terminal wharf was the American freighter Steel Scientist, the Japanese steamer Spain Maru, and the Canadian freighter Canadian Observer. The first was discharging a large cargo of eastern freight, consisting mainly of building steel. The Japanese steamer took aboard a big shipment of case oil and high grade pine lumber for Australia and the Canadian vessel loaded for British Columbia.

The Spain Maru took out one of the largest shipments of its kind ever to leave this port in a Japanese bottom. This consisted of one million feet of choice lumber and 5000 cases of petrol.

The Canadian Observer is one of a large fleet being operated by the Canadian Merchant Marine. According to the last report issued by the American government, the experiment in ship operation is costing the people of Canada rather dearly, as the venture last year was a decidedly losing one. The ships have been operating a triangular service from British Columbia to Australia and then to California ports.

Furness Prince Line DEVELOPS CALIF. SERVICE

The Furness Prince Line will shortly open its own offices in San Francisco in order to handle its California business. Formerly the affairs of the concern were taken care of by Swayne & Hoyt, acting as Pacific Coast representatives.

This line is the second largest steamship service in the world operating 219 vessels on the various trade routes of the globe. Oakland is one of the regular ports of call for the service. T. A. Lee will have charge of the offices here. These will be located in the Balfour Guthrie building.

The Furness Prince Line recently issued a booklet of considerable value to mariners setting forth the routing of the International Bill of Lading Convention. The booklet, which is almost a complete digest upon the subject gives shipping men a world of useful information regarding the various shipping laws, and especially those relating to the loading and unloading of cargo.

The first vessel to sail from this coast under the direct management of the concern's local offices will be the Domination Miller which sails for Europe May 31. It is the plan of the company to maintain two sailings a month. Details are being worked out by the company to entirely motorize its California European service.

SPIRIT LIGHT IS

Spirit Lights

In the last installment of this series of articles I gave proof of the success of the triangle vision experiment and I mentioned that the manifestation which was most often encountered was the appearance of a bluish light which, contrary to many other manifestations of psychic phenomena, did not seek a dark place in which to make itself felt, but seemed to choose the most brightly lighted corner of a room.

The spirit light phenomena is one of the commonest encountered by the sincere and intelligent investigator of psychic manifestation. Spirit light development may be undertaken with a fair degree of success either in a group seance or by an individual experimenter. Spirit lights have been known to offer actual messages, but this is unusual, and so far as I personally know, this has occurred only after long cultivation by a genuine medium—one who has developed a high grade contact with one particular individual who has entered the white shadowland.

Light Visitation

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's success is probably well known to my readers.

Mr. Doyle, it must be remembered, has enjoyed the benefit of a broad medical training and it is altogether unlikely that he would be deceived by any manifestation which was a purely psychic phenomenon. His demonstrations of spirit photography, for example, are all accompanied by the medium of spirit light and while I have not personal experience with spirit light photography nor with the manifestations of "ectoplasm," I have had many demonstrations of the authenticity of spirit light and after many years of these experiences I submit to my readers a plan by which visitation of spirit light may be invited.

But don't expect coherent messages. Only in the rarest cases have I known of messages being made clear. In fact, in only one case have

I personally have been satisfied that the dead have communicated a message to the living by means of spirit light, and this was one which concerned a woman whose husband had been a profound student of all psychic ideas and theories. The widow of this gentleman was known to have received messages in the Morse code just as such messages are transmitted by alternating lights over the Atlantic cable. But signs given by spirit light are very common and very easily observed. There can be no fraud, no self-deception about the manifestation of spirit light, but this means of

GIRL RESERVES

OF Y. W. C. A. TO HAVE BIG DAY

Practically Every Activity of Institution Will Be Displayed May 5.

Visitors are to be given a chance to "see the wheels go round" at the local Y. W. C. A. next Saturday. Throughout the afternoon, which is to be known as "Come and See Day," practically every activity of the institution's girl reserve division is to be in operation in various parts of the association headquarters at 1515 Webster street, showing graphically the entire range of its work.

The opportunities offered girls for athletic exercise, for instance, will be shown in the gymnasium, where a championship basketball game will be in progress. Other girls will be shown playing tennis and indoor baseball.

In the auditorium of the building, visitors will be presented throughout the afternoon, to show the work of the dramatic clubs. In another section of the building, the impressive candle-lighting service used by the girl reserves in their initiations will be presented.

CHINESE CLUB WORK.
The method used by the girls of the Chinese club to learn the American way of living will be shown by the members of this organization. This consists in the construction of a doll's house, completely equipped and furnished by the girls themselves, with all the essentials of a modern American home.

The hiking club of the division will appear in hiking costumes, and will be engaged in making campfires, and attending to other details of outdoor life.

A "fashion show," in which the appropriate manner to be worn for all of the various girls' activities will be shown on the girls themselves, will be a feature of the "Come and See" affair.

There will also be exhibits showing the social service work done by the girl reserve members. The cultural activities of the club presented in the domestic arts will be displayed by means of food specially prepared by them for the occasion.

This will be held during the afternoon for the benefit of the Dorothy Todd scholarship at the University of California, toward which the local girl reserves contribute each year.

More than 600 members of the girl reserves will participate, representing, besides Oakland, the cities of Richmond, Alameda and San Leandro. The Oakland girls will include delegations from Fremont, Technical and Oakland High schools, the various grade schools and from the colored, Japanese and Chinese centers.

Horses Fewer

Each Year, Say
U. S. Statistics

(By International News Service.)
WASHINGTON, April 28.—"Old Dobbins" ranks are steadily diminishing. Latest governmental figures show an 11 per cent decrease in the last decade in the number of horses in the world.

The United States ranks first with 20,559,300. Russia is second with 18,597,000. This despite the fact that these countries registered the greatest declines in the number of horses since 1913.

There are today 103,550,000 horses in the world, whereas before the war there were 119,500,000.

COWS OF STATE

WIN HIGH RANK

BERKELEY, April 28.—That purebred cows raised and developed in California rank with the best found elsewhere is shown by the 1920-22 state dairy cow competition, states the late Dr. F. W. Wolf, former professor of animal husbandry. In Bulletin No. 351, entitled "California State Dairy Cow Competition, 1920-22," this bulletin has just been issued by the University of California Agricultural Experiment Station.

The many high records of production secured in this contest indicate that it is not necessary to go outside the state for breeding stock unless it is considered important to secure some of the blood of special families not represented in California.

Bulletin No. 351 is a detailed report of the 1920-22 State Dairy Cow Competition and is the last contribution of its author, Dr. F. W. Wolf, to the literature of the California Agricultural Experiment Station before his death on December 6, 1922. Dr. Wolf came to the University of California in 1913 as professor of animal nutrition. In 1916-18 the first state dairy cow competition was conducted under his direction, the purpose being to demonstrate the value of production records of dairy cows and the possibilities of good care, whether purchased or bred, for a large dairy production under the conditions present in this state.

YOU'RE NOT WELL!

And still they can't tell you what the trouble is. I'll admit talk is cheap but time is worth money, so it's my time against yours. I can prove the above statement to the satisfaction of the most skeptical people on earth if they will but give me the chance. I CAN TELL YOU THE CAUSE OF YOUR TROUBLE without a bit of assistance from you—all that is necessary for you to say when you come in is, "What is my trouble?"

There is nothing mysterious about the Chiropractor and his work. He understands that medicine and other external agents cannot bring relief in sickness or disease. He realizes and most good physicians admit that nature is in the last analysis the great healer of all bodily ills. He merely permits nature to properly express herself in the human body by restoring the movable segments of the spine to their proper alignment. This is all any Chiropractor does and no more. When you come to my office I MAKE A FREE X-RAY EXAMINATION which in no way obligates you, simply to determine, not with my hand alone, but with the eyes as well, the condition of your case before I say I can help you. Just as a good dentist X-Rays to determine if a tooth is abscessed. In other words I WOULD RATHER SEE WHAT I AM SUPPOSED TO DO BEFORE I SAY I CAN DO IT. IF YOU HAVE TRIED OTHER CHIROPRACTORS or any other form of healing just remember that you can't be sure that you can't be helped until you call at my office.

I do not use medicine, surgery, osteopathy, osteotherapy, electrotherapy, oxygen vapor, ultra violet rays, vibrator, electricity, dieting, baths, hammer, fists or massage. I don't care what your trouble is or how long you have had it, the consultation is free and if I can't help you, I will tell you so. I am not a jack-of-all-trades—just a master of one. I do not practice everything to get your money. I practice straight, unadulterated Chiropractic to get you well and my Chiropractic adjustments will make you well if anything can. The X-Ray equipment in my office is the largest and finest money can buy and when they make better I will be the first to have it, either Fluoroscopic or X-Ray. So again I say:

tation of spirit light in the open-out of doors.

Here is the manner of experimenting:

The person or persons who are inviting the sign of Presence by spirit light must refrain from conversation. The "pass words" should be audibly repeated and the mind permitted to relax. High nerve tension, any form of excitement or hysteria, will subvert the chances of success. This is so in all experiments in auto spiritalism.

The presence of one or two skeptics at such a seance will effect no harm.

The spirit light will appear near one of those in the seance and it may assume a form or shape, somewhat like a thin misty effulgence, or it may be very much more definite and appear as an actual ray or "gleam."

The substance is fragile and is observed by contrast against natural sunlight more quickly than in any other way. There is no possibility of imagination taking a part in this manifestation, because all persons in the seance invariably detect this presence at the same moment, and they usually agree that it assumes a certain definite shape.

Spirit light is bluish in tint, and while it is definitely a light, it is softened shadowy, and appears to flutter about a certain area rather than remain fixed upon one spot.

The manifestation is usually very brief, although I have personally witnessed this phenomena when it has endured for as long as fifteen or twenty minutes.

The texture is always changing, first strong and clear, then dim and hazy, changing in strength, area and shape.

I have no explanation for the meaning of the spirit light sign. I have many, many times attempted to formalize this manifestation and to convert the sign into a coherent, intelligible communication, but have never succeeded.

Certainly it is an authentic, substantial proof of spiritual presence.

And certainly it is a common manifestation, for all psychical authorities speak of it, and many—especially those in England, where psychical research is carried on a great deal more respect than in the United States—these manifestations have been made. These are more vital and important, as witness the reports made by Dr. Doyle.

Cured Her Rheumatism

Knowing from terrible experience the suffering caused by rheumatism, Mrs. J. E. Hurst, who lives at 608 E. Olive St., C-562, Bloomington, Ill., writes that out of pure gratitude she is anxious to tell all other sufferers just how to get rid of their torture by a simple way at home.

Mrs. Hurst writes: "I have been cured of my rheumatism by the use of Dr. J. C. Williams' Pink Pills. I have been suffering from it for many years, and it was very painful. I have tried many other remedies, but none have helped me. I have now been cured, and I feel like a new woman. I am able to do all my work, and I am no longer in pain. I am very grateful to Dr. Williams for his wonderful medicine. I have written this to let all other sufferers know that they can be cured too. Write me at once before you forget. Advertisement."

THREE COMPLETE SESSIONS AT U. C. SET IN SUMMER

Each Will Last Six Weeks and Will Have Varied Curriculum.

BERKELEY, April 28.—Three complete summer sessions, each consisting of six weeks filled with a varied curriculum, will be offered this year by the University of California.

The first of these, the intersession, will begin May 14 and close June 23. The summer session, which is also given in Berkeley, will commence June 25 and run until August 4. A summer session will be given at Los Angeles at the Southern Branch of the University of California opening June 30 and completing its course August 11. In discussing plans for the summer, Dean Walter Morris Hart says:

"During the coming summer the attention of teachers throughout the country will be focused upon California for the National Educational association and the International Education association are to meet in Oakland. The conferences of these two bodies will be of vital interest to educators the world over, as important educational issues will be presented and discussed at their meeting."

In the summer session of 1922, fifty courses in education are to be offered, led by such instructors as John Adams, of the University of London; Millicent Mason, of the National Service Training Scheme, University College of South Wales and Monmouthshire; Arthur D. Dean and James F. Hoyle, of Teachers College, Columbia University; and Thomas Woody, of the University of Pennsylvania. The education department is but one of thirty-five, as the sciences, language, art, music, literature, physical education, and economics are liberally represented.

Professor Canby, editor of the Literary Review of the New York Evening Post; Cornelius Weyland, of the University of Tennessee; Miss Louise West, of the University of Nebraska; and Professor James H. Hanford of the University of Michigan are to be members of the English faculty.

Registration for the intersession of the University will take place May 12 and May 14. Because of a program greatly augmented over that of 1922, many Eastern students are planning to attend this session as well as the later summer session. In various departments, consecutive courses may be taken in the combined sessions, so that, in the twelve weeks, much ground can be covered toward a year's work.

Lafayette B. Mendel, of Yale, who is now giving a series of lectures on the Hitchcock Foundation, will offer two courses in bio-chemistry. Professor Madison Peasley of the University of Illinois is to give two lecture courses on psychology which promise to be of great popularity, from the number of requests already received concerning them. In Spanish, Dr.

Miss Lucille Wistrand, of 130 Montecito avenue, a member of the present junior class, has been chosen vice-president of the senior class. Miss Wistrand will assume her new office with the opening of the fall semester of the university in August.

As one of the women's editors of the Delta Delta Delta sorority, Miss Wistrand has been a leader in campus activities and she is affiliated with the Prytaneean and Theta Sigma Phi honor societies. In her role of senior vice-president, Miss Wistrand will be official leader of all fourth-year women students, will preside at senior women's signing and fill other roles of importance.

Antonio Solalinde of Madrid will lecture through the two sessions on "Spanish Literature of the Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries," "Modern Spanish Prose," "Survey of Spanish Literature," and "Spain of Today."

Indications Point to Busy Summer Season for Dealers in Properties in All Parts of Eastbay District

Much Movement in Down Town Property and the Demand for Homes Already Built is Increasing

By PAUL GOLDSMITH.
The Eastbay realtors will have an active summer season from present indications, and building of all kinds will continue unabated. The demand for homes, already built, seems never to be satisfied. Homes are now built in units of twenty-five to one hundred at a time, and as fast as they are roofed they are sold. Buyers seem to want homes that are already built, and they do not seem to want to have the worry of supervising their own construction. The result is that builders are now operating upon a scale unheard of in the past.

E. C. Hillen announces this week two units of twenty-five houses each for sale, one in the Lake district and the other in Upper Fruitvale or Upper Melrose, as one may wish to draw the comparison. But Hillen has always been a builder in large units.

Arthur Bard of Los Angeles announces the purchase of all of the remaining lots in Maxwell Park, amounting to some 157 in number, and he will begin the erection of one hundred houses during the present week.

In the meantime Burritt & Shealey have been operating heavily in Maxwell Park, and now have 190 homes in various stages of construction in that tract.

C. W. Boden has a considerable sized deal on hand to the northward of Oakland which will involve heavy construction as soon as some minor details can be arranged.

In the mean time F. R. Caldwell has taken up a tract of land belonging to the Alameda Investment Company and has started the construction of a big lot of moderate priced homes in the upper reaches of Fruitvale. The promise is that at least 100 homes will be put on the market in this section.

Probably the most interesting announcement made during the week is that Walter H. Leimert intends to clean out all of the remaining holdings in the Lakeshore Highlands district. This is one of the choice sections of Oakland and people who want fine property with high class development and restrictions will find a good selection left.

The Realty Syndicate is reviving interest in Maxgard and what is left of Mills College Park. The Syndicate is closing up several of the close subdivisions of Montclair, particularly those adjoining the town line of Piedmont. The Syndicate is anxious to close out these pieces and is making concessions.

Mills College Park is in the center of a district that is experiencing renewed activity in East Oakland.

The demand for summer home sites is being met by an active campaign at Lake Orinda.

Hillen Puts Two Home Tracts on Market

Some of the Hillen homes in Seventh Avenue Terrace that are to be sold to those who want close-in residences with a splendid view and street car accommodations. These homes are attractive because of their design and construction features. Hillen is also putting on Avalon Terrace, a tract further to the eastward, and slightly lower in price.

R. C. Hillen Puts Two of His Famous Tracts On the Market.

R. C. Hillen makes announcement this week that he will offer the last houses in Seventh Avenue Terrace for sale and will put on the market Avalon Terrace in the Foothill Boulevard section.

Seventh Avenue Terrace is really a rise in tract, more so than its name would indicate. It is only one block from the Park Boulevard car line, which curves eastward from First Avenue and is only three short blocks from the terminus of the Key system line, giving a commutation service to San Francisco within easy walking distance of the property. It is within fifteen minutes walking distance and six minutes riding distance of the center of Oakland.

Hillen put this tract on the market in two installments. The first unit went on a few weeks ago, and a dozen homes, completed at that time, were disposed of before they were finished. The second and last unit of twenty-five homes is now to be put on the market, and can be inspected today.

Hillen made special efforts to adapt each home to the lot upon which it was built. He did not use a set of standardized plans, but considered all of the features of the lot that each house was to occupy. As an instance it can be cited that in one house the breakfast nook is in the front of the building for the purpose of preserving the view to be had from

NEW BUILDING
PLAN FOR MILLS
COLLEGE PARK

An opportunity to build a home on a small income in a restricted district is offered by the Realty Syndicate company which is featuring a special building plan for Mills College Park.

"Almost everyone wants the privilege of building a temporary home himself, but likes to be sure that his neighbors will not build any shacks around him," says George Brooks in charge of the property. "We seem to have solved this problem nicely at Mills College Park, for here we have offered buyers the right of building the garage first and living in it while they were building their houses."

"And it has worked out splendidly. All over the tract now you will see beautiful little homes and many of these were built by determined buyers who were willing to undergo some discomforts at first in order to finance their homes. "The only requirement we make is that each builder who adopts this plan do so in good faith and actually carry on his home building as rapidly as possible. This protects his neighbors just as it while to be protected when his home is completed. We invite any man or woman who want a home of their own to come to Mills College Park and see what others have accomplished."

CLARKSBURG, Yolo Co., April 27.—J. V. Mendenhall, president of the Holland Land company, left yesterday after a two-day inspection of the company's properties with General Manager Gus Olson, preliminary to the start of seasonal development activities. Crop prospects were reported to be excellent.

With spring weather set in, Clarksburg is again attracting outlying parties and is becoming the rendezvous of those interested in watching the development of Sacramento's tributary agricultural area.

IS EXPANDING

New Men Added to Executive Staff of Well Known "Ad" Company

E. N. Kelsey, president of the Advertising Service company, announces an important expansion in the plans of the company with the addition of A. P. A. Stedem, recently of the Honig-Cooper company, as vice-president and Frank J. Mooney, formerly of Detroit, as secretary-treasurer.

"While the growth of this company," said Mr. Kelsey, "has always been conducted on a conservative and sound basis and while our accounts have been such as to give us a high rating in the advertising fraternity, I have realized for some time that to expand this business to its rational possibilities I need the addition of two men who would possess certain qualities that would fit into and enlarge my own activities."

San Francisco territory on account of his excellent work as account executive for the Honig-Cooper company. Here he has made an extraordinary record for his ability to get and to hold business of a high character. Mr. Stedem is a graduate from the advertising staff of newspapers in Philadelphia and Chicago and received a sound advertising training with Lord and Thomas with whom he was associated respectively as service director in Chicago and as assistant Pacific Coast manager in Los Angeles up until 1920 when he came to San Francisco.

"Mr. Mooney, the other new member of the firm, has had a long and varied experience extending over a period of fifteen years. For seven years he held the position of first advertising manager and later as sales manager of the Hupp Motor Car company. From there he went into the advertising agency business and has served with Macfarlane, Inc., Detroit, and Critchfield & company in Detroit and Chicago, also in the South Bend office of Dorrance-Sullivan, Inc., where he handled the Studebaker account. Mr. Mooney has handled other accounts such as Hupmobile, Liberty, Firestone, Garfield Truck, Holland furnace and a varied line of equally notable national business."

"Charles O. Horton will continue with the new company as art director and there will be no change in any of the departments except for necessary additions to our forces. "I feel that with this combination and our previous clean record we are equipped to meet every possible advertising problem with a competence that is not surpassed by any of the agencies today represented in California territory."

New Director
Will Make City Survey

D. W. LaFORTUNE, new director of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, who is making a general survey of Oakland and its advancement.

D. W. LaFortune, one of the oldest and well known realtors in Oakland, who was the new man chosen on the board of directors of the Oakland Real Estate Board at the last election, is at present making a survey of Oakland and the Eastbay neighborhood for the purpose of gathering some statistics and data that will be of use in the mid-census term. He feels that Oakland and the Eastbay territory is growing so fast that the census figures of 1920 are already out of date, and that something new is needed to supply the wants of those who are operating so intimately in the advancement of Oakland and the surrounding country. Mr. LaFortune is most interested in studying the drift of population. Having operated more in residence than in industrial property he finds use in studying the trend of residence buying rather than in studying the drift of industrial development. Mr. LaFortune has seen the exclusive residence centers shift from West Eighth street, Adeline street and the old "Rosedale District" along the Lake to the hillsides of Piedmont and Montclair. He has also seen the residence section of the average man locate in East Oakland and he has figures to show that a very large proportion of the population of Oakland is east of Lake Merritt.

Mr. LaFortune was for some time a member of the board of free library trustees, and he was Arthur Bard of Los Angeles Begins Construction in Oakland This Week.

Attracted by the unusual growth of Oakland and the Eastbay district Arthur Bard of Los Angeles has left the southland and come to Oakland to engage in the development of this section, and his first move has been to take over all of the remaining lots left in the Maxwell tract in East Oakland. On this property Bard will begin the construction of a unit of fifty houses during the present week.

Bard has been heavily interested in Los Angeles, but his attention was turned toward Oakland by the growth that has been shown in this section of late. A few weeks ago Bard closed a deal with John P. Maxwell by which he took over all that remained of Maxwell Park, and he will build on every lot. The first foundations will be laid tomorrow.

Bard still retains his Los Angeles offices, but has opened local offices at 607 Syndicate building in this city with tract offices at 2732 Madrona avenue in Maxwell Park.

"I am deeply impressed with the prospects of Oakland," said Bard, "and my Maxwell Park deal is not the only one I hope to be able to make in this city."

He was elected to the directorate of the Oakland Real Estate board as representing the salesmen rather than the brokers. He is proving a most efficient member of the board.

Munro-Kadota Colony Adds Thirty Thousand
New Trees

"We are trying hard to do our part in the big task of overcoming the increasing shortage in the supply of Kadota figs," said Putnam Mathews, general manager of the Berkeley Securities company. "We have just finished planting thirty thousand more Kadota trees in our Munro Kadota fig orchards, which in a couple of years will begin to help relieve the present acute situation in some degree. While this recent planting represents a substantial addition to our previous development and is perhaps the largest single planting of the kind made in the state this year, its effect on the general situation when the trees come into bearing will scarcely be noticeable."

"The statement made last season by one of the state's prominent packers, that it will take at least 25,000 additional acres to bring the supply of this premier preserving fig up to within 'speaking distance' of the demand, shows how ineffective must necessarily be the four or five thousand acres at present being developed by Northern California capital. The most searching scrutiny does not reveal a single factor or influence that might reduce the present price of $200 per ton for Kadotas for a very long time. Even the immature Kadota fig orchards are yielding four and five tons per acre."

Eastern Outfitting Co. in New Home

John Rosenstein has Played an Important Part in Oakland Development.

The Eastern Outfitting company moved into its own new building during the past week, and this marked another step in the growth of this pioneer credit cloak and suit house. Twenty-three years ago the Eastern Outfitting company established a modest branch in Oakland under the management of John Rosenstein, and today the Eastern Outfitting company owns its own building in Oakland, still under the management of John Rosenstein, who has managed the destinies of this successful institution for almost a quarter of a century.

The new building is located at 617 Fourteenth street between Jefferson and Grove streets, and is wholly occupied by the various departments of the company. The building is of pleasing architecture and is an important addition to the new business structures of Oakland. Incidentally it shows confidence in the growth of the city to the westward, and confidence in the future of Fourteenth street, every move that has been made by Rosenstein in the past has been a successful one, and it is expected that this last and most ambitious move will be equally so.

"The company gave a reception to its many customers on Thursday, when no goods were sold. Rosenstein gave an elaborate musical program, and was present in person to welcome those with whom he has been dealing for so many years."

The new building is constructed to allow for the addition of other departments which may be added from time to time, but the original plan of the company upon which has been based its success for a quarter of a century will continue to be that of dealing in women's cloaks and suits upon the small payment plan.

Twenty-three years ago the

The San Francisco Building Trust, a member of the Exchange, has been awarded the contract for painting the new addition for the San Francisco Sulphur company. Hill, Hubbel & company, also members will furnish the paint.

The following members are sub-contractors and furnishing material on this building: Sunset Lumber company, lumber; Oakland Lumber company, sheet metal; Independent Mill Lumber company, mill work; Joe De Velliers, brick work; Frank Gottstein, plumbing and heating; James B. The following members have sub-contracts on this building: Carl Doel, plumbing; National Roofing company, roofing; King Electric company, wiring; Oakland Sheet Metal Works, sheet metal work; Pacific manufacturing company, mill work; Brown Lumber company, lumber; Oakland Building Material company, concrete, etc.; W. R. Nottingham, heating.

New building of the Eastern Outfitting Company at 617 Fourteenth street and JOHN ROSENSTEIN, the man who has managed the Oakland establishment for twenty-three years and made it the most important branch in a chain of stores.

Eastern Outfitting company located in a small store on Fourteenth street one door east of Clay street under what was then the Hotel Touraine, formerly the old Central House, owned by the Biss family. Today the site is occupied by the Capwell establishment. The store was a modest one. It was not even on the corner, but it had for its manager John Rosenstein who believed in his method of doing business, believed in his goods, and believed in his city.

A credit establishment of this kind was an entire novelty in Oakland. Nothing of the kind had ever before been attempted and under Rosenstein's management it grew and thrived. Rosenstein pioneered the way in credit establishments and he has kept pace with the progress of the business that he started.

In time larger quarters were needed, and the Eastern Outfitting company has occupied places on Twelfth, Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets at different times. Each move has meant larger quarters, and today they have about doubled their old floor space besides having a bright, new building of their own.

The Eastern Outfitting company is one of the largest chain store institutions on the Pacific Coast. It was started thirty-five years ago in San Francisco, and now has twenty-two stores in California, Oregon and Washington.

None of these have been more successful than the Oakland store and that fact is due to the careful management of John Rosenstein.

"I believe in Oakland, I believe in the Eastern Outfitting company and its goods, and that makes success. I see nothing but success ahead for Oakland," said Rosenstein.

Albert S. Samuels Company Leases Quarters in New Rene Building

The Albert S. Samuels company, San Francisco jewelers, will open a retail establishment in Oakland as soon as the new Rene building at Fifteenth and Broadway is completed. They have leased their Oakland store for a period of fifteen years and expect to occupy it some time between July and October.

"I am delighted to have a store in Oakland," said Albert S. Samuels, head of the firm. "And it will be our finest and handsomest store. I have looked forward for years to this opportunity, recognizing long ago that Oakland's future was assured."

The growth and development of the Eastbay cities is remarkable and I dare say that Oakland is the fastest growing city in the country today. But even more important than mere numbers is the character of the population. The homes of Oakland and Berkeley and Alameda tell the story. It's a substantial, industrious and highly cultured population.

"I should like nothing better than to make my own home in Oakland and already I have been besieged by half the boys in both of our stores to be transferred to the New Oakland store so they might live on the East Side."

Occupying a double frontage—a total of 35 feet wide—the entrance to the new store will be especially imposing and unique in a combination of Verde Marble with rich, Numidian Marble of a dark, reddish brown. The interior will contain new and radical departures in arrangement and facilities for the comfort and convenience of customers.

The Samuels company has been very successful in San Francisco making themselves especially well known as "The House of Lucky Wedding Rings." Statistics show that one third of all wedding rings purchased in San Francisco for the last several years have come from the Samuels company. A year ago they bought out the Baldwin Jewelry company, who had been in business for thirty years. Under the Samuels company management, this Kearny street store has been very successful. They are a co-operative institution, the stock of the company being open to employees, and practically all employees are owners of stock. They promise the Oakland public the liberal policy of fair dealing and service that has always been identified with the firms of Albert S. Samuels.

Ideal Permanent Construction

These handsome residential apartments, to be erected at the corner of Clay and Taylor Streets, will have walls of Dickey Face Brick backed with Dickey Mastertile. Such walls are better than those of any other type.

Better, because, while having tremendous strength, they are lighter than solid walls.

Better, because they are erected more speedily than any other

Better, because they require no interior furring or lathing, the plaster being applied directly to the inner surface of Mastertile.

Better, because they cost less than any other type of permanent wall.

Better, because the dead air spaces in the Mastertile afford unequalled insulation against moisture, sound and extremes of temperature. Therefore the building will be dry, healthful, quiet, cool in warmer weather and economical to heat in cold weather.

Of course, walls of Dickey Face Brick backed with Dickey Mastertile defy Fire, Time, and Weather.

LANDOWNERS OF CALIFORNIA ON APPROVED LANDS

Official Resolutions That Lead Up to Colony Organization.

The articles published in the development section of The Oakland TRIBUNE have created much interest in the newly formed "Approved Land Settlement" organization. These articles formed the first complete resume of the objects of the organization and the causes that led up to the formation thereof that has been published.

In this connection The TRIBUNE publishes the resolutions that were adopted at the first meeting held in San Francisco last night. Upon these resolutions is based the organization that has just been formed with J. V. Mendenhall at its head, and for that reason these resolutions are of interest at this time.

The resolutions are as follows:

Whereas, California agricultural development has been in the main successful, and has become the marvel of the world; and

Whereas, Within California there are, open for colonization at fair prices commensurate with productive value, large tracts of good irrigated and unirrigated land capable under proper cultivation of affording high production and net return upon their sale price; and

Whereas, The proper development of the state of California demands that there should be no improper exploitation of the natural resources of California by individuals, unscrupulous or mistaken, who may seek to trade upon the advantages and worth of the name of California to the detriment of the state; and

Whereas, There are outstanding in the state of California thousands of acres of land owned by individuals, who desire to avail themselves of an opportunity to purchase these lands provided they may be assured of true and accurate information concerning them;

Now, therefore, in order to insure the broad public dissemination of the true facts concerning California lands available for colonization;

To prevent the offering for sale to colonists and settlers of any lands unsuitable for settlement or for the purposes for which they are offered or otherwise in any respect misrepresented;

To augment and enlarge public confidence and to provide ways and means of preserving the same by effectually preventing misrepresentation concerning California lands and resources; and to otherwise join in such efforts as may be useful to carry out any measures of common benefit to the membership;

We, the land owners and accredited farm lands settlers of California, in meeting assembled at San Francisco, at the call of the Real Estate Commissioner of California, do hereby Resolve, first, That we do associate ourselves together and form a permanent land settlement association.

Second, That the object of said association shall be to achieve those things in conformity with the expressions of public opinion contained in the preamble of this resolution.

Third, That a committee on permanent organization be appointed by the presiding officer of this meeting to draft a suitable constitution and by-laws to be presented for consideration and adoption at the adjournment of this meeting to be held not to exceed thirty days hence.

Fourth, That the secretary of this meeting be authorized to furnish a transcript of its transactions to the public press.

Fifth, That the State Real Estate Commissioner be requested to make a report showing location by valleys or districts of all colonization projects that he has approved and give the report general publicity.

Sixth, That the State Real Estate Commissioner be requested to communicate with land owners who are expecting to offer their lands for sale in subdivisions to settlers and request them to apply to him for an examination of such project.

Eighth, That the State Real Estate Commissioner be requested to advise the press of the safeguards provided for the ma colonization projects approved by him and of the cooperation he is receiving from the associated land owners in such work.

Ninth, That it is the sense of this conference that an advisory committee consisting of members of the chief of the Department of Land Settlement, of the State Board of Public Works, the professor of soil technology at the University of California, the president of the Federal Land Bank of this district and the chief of the division of water rights be formed to advise when called upon by the State Real Estate Commissioner.

HALF A HUNDRED HOMES THIS YEAR IN MONTCLAIR

A canvass made by the Realty Syndicate company disclosed plans for fifty-two houses to be built in Montclair this year. There were scattered over various parts of the tract.

"It is probable," says Raymond Emge, of the company, "that the opening of the new road through Piedmont will speed the plans of many who have bought lots in this closer-in section. Our whole study of the growth of Oakland has indicated that while Montclair would not build as rapidly as the sections right down in the heart of the residence district, that it would build steadily, commencing with the sections adjoining already established residence areas."

"On this point the average person who has not observed Montclair closely gets a big surprise when he looks at it from the City Hall or from any other high building. He sees for the first time how Piedmont, Oakland and Berkeley extend far out beyond two sides of Montclair and so practically make it the only section for home building that is left so close to the center of town."

Announcement has just been made of the purchase by David S. Edwards and Arch C. Graham, of the Statler apartments, on the Northeast corner of Fifteenth and Jackson streets.

This is one of the most up-to-date apartment properties in the Eastbay section. The lot is 104 feet on Jackson street, by 100 feet on Fifteenth street, the building containing 100 rooms. It is one of the few apartment buildings on the Pacific Coast that is completely equipped for rapid service, every apartment having its own receiving set, which is controlled through a central plant.

Edwards & Graham are prominent men and have been associated in a number of business ventures in Oakland and San Francisco.

Disbursement of the $162,500, and the sale was handled by W. F. Merkle, through the office of F. F. Porter.

FRED T. WOOD TO CLOSE OUT LAKE TRACTS

The Fred T. Wood company open a campaign this week to close out the remaining homesites in Lakemont and Piedmont Park.

In Lakemont homes costing more than $250,000 have been constructed since this tract was put upon the market by the company.

More than $100,000 in construction has already been expended in Lakemont Park and this tract is recognized as one of the most beautiful in the Eastbay region.

"During the present year," said Fred T. Wood this week, "we are planning to put on the market several big tracts. We are proud of our record as subdividers and our plans for this year call for the same low prices and easy terms to the buyers of homesites as we have given in the past."

OAKLAND REAL ESTATE BOARD

OFFICIAL BULLETIN

It is a part of the secretary's official duty to assist, wherever and whenever possible, any realtor in the enforcement of a just claim for commission earned, and the secretary has been frequently been instrumental in making collections under conditions which did not insure a judgment in court.

These were cases where there was no question of the broker's moral right to collect, whatever his civil rights may have been.

But there is one class of cases wherein the secretary declines to be of assistance, even though the broker may have been acting in perfect good faith, and that is where he held an exclusive authorization to sell, the owner or some other broker authorize by the owner has sold and the owner declines to pay commission.

When the secretary communicates with the owner, and the latter insists that he (more often she) did not understand that it was an exclusive contract that had been signed, and that the broker did not give any copy of the document.

The secretary has frequently published the urgent recommendation of the State Real Estate Department that such copies be given, and which would be almost wholly eliminated by the issuance of copies, and that is sales contracts.

Most brokers give their clients copies of such documents in the form of a receipt for deposit or otherwise, but many cases have appeared wherein the broker kept possession of the contract and the buyer or seller later claimed ignorance of its existence.

The attendance of buyers and prospective buyers at Lake Orinda so far this spring has been almost phenomenal. Sunday before last a check was made and a total attendance of 4000 figured and last Sunday the attendance was about the same. According to Mr. Mitchell, the secretary for adjustment, attendance will climb as the season advances.

The Brazilian telephone user, therefore, seldom or never calls for "sets," but instead uses "meia duzia" which means "half a dozen." He would ask for 1927 as "meia duzia duzia etc." Just what he does when the number happens to be 6666 does not appear.

FETE PLANNED ON SAN FRANCISCO'S 150TH BIRTHDAY

Time to Wake Up if West Is to Equal East in Celebration.

By LAURA BRIDE POWERS.
Nineteen-twenty-six—1926!
Look at it! It's going to be a great year for America, historically and spiritually. One hundred and fifty years from that date, two great spiritual epochs had their dawning
—the birth of the American Republic on the Atlantic Coast, and the birth of civilization in the West
—the founding of San Francisco by the soldiers of Spain and the followers of St. Francis. The first, as every year-old knows, came into being on July Fourth and the other on October Fourth. The latter date is not so well known.

We are beginning to realize ourselves in California—to know that back of us lies a history and a tradition of a century and a half that explains in part the colorful personality and charm of California.

Yesterday the grand officers of the Native Sons of the Golden West, Harry C. Williams of Oakland, presiding, passed a resolution to appeal to the Legislature to set aside October 4, 1926—the 150th anniversary of the birth of San Francisco—as a legal holiday, the celebration to include the week from the 14th (St.
Francis' Day) to October 11.

EAST IS ALREADY BUSY.
A bit early? Philadelphia doesn't think so. You may add that we are swifter workers out here; but the fact remains that the Philadelphia committee on the 150th Anniversary of the Birth of America has been at work for several months, developing its plans that will adequately bring before the world the achievements of America, spiritual and material, in the century and a half of her existence.

Could a better time be chosen for California to begin to lay her plans for her party in October, when the Presidio and the Mission of St.
Francisco were founded?

That October 4 has been selected —the day that the Mission (afterwards called Mission Dolores) was established—instead of September 17, when the Presidio was formally dedicated, is attributed to the greater hold upon the imagination gained by the Old Missions.

Besides, the Presidio typifies war and the fighting spirit, and the world is weary of it.

MOVE HAS GAINED BACKING.
Among the enthusiasts for a truly great and significant celebration for the first week in the historic October are Mayor James C. Rolph, former Senator James D. Phelan, Adolph B. Spreckels, Senator Samuel Shortridge, who will cause the legislative resolution to be entered in the Congressional Record when Congress convenes in December, and who will call the historic anniversary to the attention of the Senate and the nation; Andrew McCarty of the Portola committee; the California Development Association;
Judge John E. Davis of the California Historic Survey; William J. Hayes of Oakland, member of the Landmarks committee of the Native Sons of the Golden West; Willis Polk, and other well-known architects; George Sterling, and a large group of leading artists, who pledge themselves to help visualize and project plans that will make the celebration something akin, in beauty and significance, to the Exposition in 1915, if not in size and cost.

NAVAL PAGEANT PLANNED.
Toughly visualized, the packet
"San Carlos," the first vessel to sail through the Golden Gate (1775), and that in 1778 brought into the harbor the equipment for the Presidio and the Mission, and the sloop to her historic anchorage off the Presidio by the Pacific fleet, and a naval pageant made part of the show. A pageant depicting the history of San Francisco and the bay terrain should be a feature, open to the completion of the world's great staged during the week, rooted in the dramatic history of the Pacific Coast; painting, sculpture, music, dancing and poetry inspired by California, urged at home and abroad. And while on the subject of the arts, let me say that George Sterling has announced his intention of writing an ode commemorating the establishment of civilization in the western hemisphere, while the Patriots were fighting for freedom on the Atlantic Coast.

With the introduction of the resolution in the Legislature, Central California will proceed with Philadelphia in planning the celebration. The Legislature of the Pacific Coast and one on the Pacific Coast—one in July and the other in October, thus enabling the playing world to be on the ground for both.
Keep your calendar free for that week in October 1926. Something wonderful will happen.

tody tonight, charged with complicity in the crime.

$3500 Awarded For Leg Mashed By Auto

Tallying of votes in the election recount in Superior Judge Montgomery Smith's department was interrupted yesterday when a jury returned to court and announced a verdict of $3500 in favor of the plaintiff in the damage suit of S.
E. Huddleston against Charles Sparwasser. Reading of instruction to the jury was completed late Friday night and the jury was kept locked up through the night.

Huddleston sued for $5538 for injuries alleged to have been received a year ago last Christmas day when he was standing between his auto and the curb on East Fourteenth street, near Sixty-eighth avenue. He charged that Sparwasser, who was driving a parked car and Huddleston was caught between the car and the curb, his leg being crushed.

Regular Army Seeks Second Lieutenants

BERKELEY, April 28.—Examinations for second lieutenants in the regular army will be held at and other students of the university who wish to take advantage of the opportunity offered by this ex-fantry, U. S. A., who is in charge of the details.

Preliminary examination for physical fitness and moral qualifications should take place prior to the taking of the examination on June 25. According to Colonel Burnham young men of clean moral habits and good physical condition should have no trouble in passing these examinations. At the present time there are many vacancies of second lieutenants in the army which are to be filled.

GOVERNOR AGAIN THREATENS VETO OF BUDGET BILL

Declares Amendments Will Give Him Right to Cut Down Changes.

By UNITED PRESS.
LEAVITT WITH TWO TRIBUNE.
SACRAMENTO, Calif., April 28.—
Far from retreating from his stand on his economy budget, Governor Richardson tonight issued a statement declaring that if recurrent appropriations are put into the budget bill by amendments they would be subjected to veto and that he surely would disapprove some of them.
This was the second statement issued by the governor today on the budget. Both were strong in tone and indicated a disposition to stand stoutly by his original contention that the budget would go through as he had recommended it or not at all.
"An attempt is being made to confuse the minds of the public in regard to the budget and the budget bill," the governor said. "The budget bill does not contain statutory and constitutional appropriations because it was deemed both unsafe and unnecessary to put them there."

THREATENS VETO.
"If expenditures in the legislature succeed in putting into the budget bill these recurrent appropriations,
I will assume that such an action gives me the power to veto them or cut them down, and I shall certainly do just that thing."

The governor's statement drew applause from supporters of the administration, but brought condemnation from chiefs of the anti-administration forces.

"In my recollection, such government as this has not been attempted since the days of Czar Nicholas of Russia," Assemblyman Al Ginsberg declared tonight. "The governor is using his power in the same way he would an ax, but instead of the ax falling upon us, I believe it will fall upon him."

The assembly will resume consideration of the budget bill Monday when anti-administration forces, unless the governor's statement is effective, will introduce thirty-two amendments placing recurrent appropriations items in the budget. No conference of anti-administration forces has been held today, but there is a possibility that the executive's defiant proposal will precipitate a conference which may result in a compromise in his opponents' plans.

TWO WEEKS NEEDED.
Both sides tonight seemed in agreement that it would require all of next week to secure disposal of the budget in the Assembly, with perhaps two more weeks necessary before the measure can be passed by the Senate and receive action at the hands of the governor.

This means that there is no possible chance for the passage of special appropriation bills unless the legislature remains in session after the middle of May, when the official session ends and legislators cease to collect pay for their services. The governor has announced that he has made no plans for calling a special session.
The Assembly met for a few hours today with a bare majority present. Several uncontested measures were passed. The Senate held no session.

Reds Threaten Bavarian Leader

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND Universal Service Staff Correspondent.
MUNICH, Bavaria, April 28.— (Special Cable Despatch.)—The alleged discovery of a plot by Socialists and Communists to murder Adolph Hitler, leader of the Bavarian Fascists, was announced today by the Volkische Beobachter, official organ of the Fascists.
Caught between terrorism of the Fascists on the right and terrorism of the Socialists on the left, the situation is daily becoming more hitter, the Bavarian government seems all but helpless.

Father Sues For Injuries to Child

Two damage suits aggregating $10,000 against the Paradise Joint Company and on in the Superior Court, M. Santos and his 11-year-old daughter Dorothy being the plaintiffs.
In the first suit Santos, acting as guardian, asks $40,000 setting forth that his daughter was riding a bicycle on East Sixteenth street near Twenty-fifth avenue August 11, 1922, when she was run down by an automobile belonging to the company and operated by Lloyd Sorens, who is made co-defendant in the suits. Santos alleges that he was injured in the accident.

Frank Clark, vice president; Mrs.
E. V. Shonke, recording secretary;

Surrender Offer Of Hunted Man Refused

LOS ANGELES, April 28.—The offer of Leo M. Willford, hunted by local authorities since January 11 last, for the murder of W. S.
Fisher, to surrender himself for trial provided he be given his liberty on bail pending the hearing of his case, was turned down tonight by Deputy District Attorney
W. J. Jones, who informed W. S.
Hahn, Willford's attorney, that "Willford's request for liberty could not be granted."
Willford had planned to give himself up Monday, provided he would be allowed to furnish bail.

MOTHER FINDS TWO LOST SONS AFTER 26 YEARS

LOS ANGELES, April 28.—A search which started twenty-six years ago near Marion, Ill., for two sons, who, it is alleged, were kidnaped, ended in Los Angeles tonight when Richard Ulery, 26, was reunited with his mother, Mrs. Laura Bailey, at her East Twenty-first street home.
With the return of the son to his mother after more than a score of years, during which she heard nothing of him, word was received from New York that Roy Ulery, 23, was also speeding by train to Los Angeles and his mother.

duct of the Dutch East Indies.

U. S. TAKES FIRM STAND ON TURKS

LAUSANNE, April 28. (United Press).—The action of the United States in backing the allies against Turkey in the matter of captivations threw the Near East peace conference into still further dissension today.
The Turks, who recently granted to the Chester group in the United States valuable oil leases and concessions in Anatolia, had professed their belief that Uncle Sam would abandon his previous stand and side with them on the captivations issues.

Joseph C. Grew, head of the American delegation, however, clearly dissipated this hope by intervening in the debate and making plain the position of the United States.
The American government, he said, would never consent to any proposition that rights acquired in a treaty could be abrogated by action such as was taken by the Turks in 1914.

The Turks maintained that the treaties made before the war were abrogated by the war.

HATMAKERS, BARBERS ARE JITTERY OVER

YUBA CITY, April 28.—John Bathen, civil engineer who has made his home here for several years, aiding in highway and other construction work in the county, is not greatly concerned over the high price of hats. For nine years he has gone bareheaded.
The hatless engineer has been a familiar figure here and many have remarked upon his habit.
He stated today that nine years ago he found that he was rapidly growing bald. Nothing the barbers suggested did any good so he decided to go without a hat.
He has kept it up to this day. He has plenty of hair now and has no fear of growing bald. In addition, he does not have to go to the seashore to get tanned.

Campfire Girls at Martinez Organized

MARTINEZ, April 28.—Under the direction of Mrs. M. L. Holloway, a group of Campfire Girls was formed this week in the headquarters of the chamber of commerce.
More than forty girls of the eligible age of 12 to 18 signed up for the group, while nearly as many others under that age applied for admission. A sufficient number have signed up to make three groups and it is planned that as quickly as the material can be obtained to launch the three separate units in Martinez.

MAY DAY FETE AT SAN LEANDRO

SAN LEANDRO, April 28.—One of the largest fetes ever held in this city will be presented by the pupils and teachers of the San Leandro grammar schools at Thrasher Park on Tuesday, commemorating the advent of May.
The morning's program will open with a parade through the city streets, en route to the park. A flag raising by the Boy Scouts, singing of the Star Spangled Banner by the children, led by the school band, to be followed by numerous May Day features, will complete the program. In the afternoon athletic events of all kinds will take place.

The following instructors at the schools are in charge of the presentation: the Misses Marie Gagen, Naomi Booher, Gertrude Knudsen, Cora Nunn, Olga Johnson and Lillian Collins; the Mesdames Mabel Ward, Charlotte Lynch and Lottie Richter.

WOMAN TAKES POISON

During a fit of despondency caused by ill health, Mrs. Ann Somers, 1617 Sixty-fourth avenue, drank poison in her home last night. The police were summoned by a sister and Mrs. Somers was taken to the Emergency hospital, where it was reported she would recover.

California Leads America In Outdoor Pageantry

By SUZETTE.

CALIFORNIA, Land of Heart's Desire for the lover of the out-of-doors, is building better than she knows for the happiness of the world, even as Greece opened the way for the enjoyment of beauty through its games and its art.

From the coming of spring until the leaves begin to turn, in some part of California—and especially in that part of the Enchanted Land about the Bay of St. Francis—no month goes by but some form of creative art—a masque, a pageant, a drama or something akin to them—is given under the blue sky, to the quiet enjoyment of thousands, leading them subconsciously to an appreciation of Beauty, and the resultant possession of that elusive thing for which the world is seeking—Happiness.

Right about us are the out-door pageant of Mills College on the banks of Lake Aliso; the Parthenon on the campus of U.C.; and a bit better, the Grove Play of the Bohemian club, the latter reckoned now as one of the national expressions of creative art.

Mills College pageant is the first actual beauty sinking into her soul. And through the inspiration of potential mothers lies the hope of an art-conscious body of people in the generation ahead. So there's hope that jazz and the noisy, vulgar round-and-round of the moment may slough off under the gentle insistence of grace and beauty stimulated by the colleges about us.

Dr. Millicent Cosgrave, who has spent the winter with her brother, John O'Hara Cosgrave, in New York, will return to San Francisco in a week or two.

The Californian set for Edward Bright Bruce—the painter who married Peggy Stow of Santa Barbara, a few seasons ago.

Mr. Bruce, incidentally, is one of those fortunate fellows who lands on his feet, in spite of traditions and precepts. "I said he had never seriously considered art until rather recently, when he essayed to paint men and women he knew. Presto!—a portrait painter of fashion."

NAVY GUESTS.

Between a quiet turn of adventure running through the line of sub-debs, debbs, and post-debs over the coming visit of Admiral Henry P. Jones, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet. For know you that when the Big Chief enters the harbor of St. Francis, he will be escorted by a very respectable line-up of ships—in fact all that are not scrapped by May 3d or busy running up and down the Atlantic coast. And, when a fleet, or a section of a fleet, comes to anchor in our bay, it means a lot of testing and dining and dancing—and (we don't say it in public) an engagement or two, and any amount of adventure.

The distinguished visitor will come through the heads on his flagship, the Seattle, to look over the units that make up his fighting force.

Mrs. Jones will come west to greet the Admiral; and after a few days' visit will sail for Honolulu.

The first of the welcoming fleet to arrive will be the California, flagship of Rear Admiral E. W. Eberle, scheduled to steam into the harbor on the 24th of May.

The second batch of ships—that's hardly a nautical term—will drop

Alice Hardie Quietly Weds Bond Broker

Mrs. Alice Palmer Hardie, daughter of the Warren Palmers, who, before going to Ross, had their home in one of the fine old places near Lake Merritt, became the bride of George D. Roberts on Thursday.

The wedding was a quiet affair, taking place in Monterey.

The bride-elect attended the University of California for a time, where she was a member of the Delta Delta Delta fraternity.

The benedict-to-be is a bond broker, well known in the commercial life about the bay.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Marye will close their home in Washington, D. C., in May, and, with their daughter, Miss Helen Marye, will come to California and spend the summer at their Burlingame home.

The St. Cyr home will likewise be tenanted during the summer.

Special Train Takes Women to Washington

By EDNA B. KINARD.

The Daylight State Convention Special will be off at 9:45 a.m. tomorrow from the Ferry building in San Francisco, bearing a large contingent of leaders who will participate in the twenty-second annual convention of California Federation of Women's Clubs in Eureka.

Already the highways are dotted with motor caravans of those who have chosen to make the northward journey in this manner. Tuesday will bring them all together in the convention city, ready for the four day active session of work generously relieved by play.

Mrs. Elton I. Warner of Oakland, newly elected president of Alameda district, on behalf of the state federation, has arranged the special train for the accommodation of delegates which will make the trip to Eureka by daylight. A dining car will be carried. Card tables will be provided to while away a part of the time. The presence of the credentials committee on board will make possible a checking of credentials en route. At Willits, representatives of the hotel committee will meet the train, making room assignments.

Clubwomen en route north from the lower end of the state are arriving in the bay region today, stopping over to join the main body on tomorrow's excursion.

Eureka Inn has been designated the official headquarters, although Eureka hotels and private homes are generously keeping open house in compliment to the visitors.

"Conservation—the Hope of Civilization," has been designated the keynote of the four day program which will be launched on Tuesday. Robinson of Leland Stanford University, who will speak of a Background of American Foreign Policy." Mrs. Arch Jack of Fresno, mezzo soprano, assisted at the piano by Mrs. John Alexander, will render a group of appropriate songs.

HAPPENINGS in EAST RAY SOCIETY

Helen Frick Celebrates Birthday

There's no denying that association with little children refreshes the soul, if one possesses the art of entering their world on their own terms. Some women can and do enter, but more men, strange as it may seem, have discovered the open door, beyond which there is no lying nor deceit, nor distrust, nor disloyalty, nor pretension.

Therefore it is that lovers of children would rather be privileged to drop in on a little girl's birthday party than to be asked out to dinner at Mimi's. (Mimi's, it must be confessed, however, is not so strong an allurements as in other days.)

Little Helen Frick, daughter of the Walter Fricks, celebrated her birthday on Wednesday at the Frick home in Stanford Court, when twenty little lads and lasses came to make merry with the little maid, a group going over from the east side of the bay. A beautiful assemblage of youngsters, undeniably. Among them were the William Cavalier children and young Vinnie Makinson.

FRENCH PLAYERS

That the San Francisco Bay country supports the only French theater in America is something to think about.

That the Ferriers were cast upon shores through the uncertainty of the South American dynasties was our good fortune. That they played and enjoyed the artistic life of the bay country was another good turn. They have had hard going, but with the unquenchable love of French artists for their art, there has never been a letting-up of effort and striving for the best. Tomorrow, and each evening until Sunday, Moliere's "Les Fourberies de Scapin" will be given, with Andre Ferrier in the leading role. And on Sunday night the last performance of "Les Noce de Jeannette," will be the boards of the greatest theater in the west. A concert will accompany the play.

The costumes are designed by the versatile Mme. Jeanne Guistin-Ferrier, and the scenery painted by M. Pe. ace.

Mrs. Carl A. Mohrhardt of Berkeley entertained at tea on Saturday last in the garden of the Hotel St. Francis, honoring Mrs. Gladys Reed of Salt Lake City.

Those invited to meet the complimented guests were:

WED IN OHIO.

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Wooster and William Wallace Harper of Cleveland, Ohio, took place on Wednesday at Yonkers, New York, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Philip Wooster. Among the guests was the bride's aunt, Mrs. Ruby Bond of San Mateo.

The bride-elect is a grand-daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Dore of San Mateo and grand-niece of Mrs. Augustus Spreckels. She has spent much of her childhood in California, the family centering around the home of Mrs. Dore down the peninsula. Here each year some of her daughters or their children make a pilgrimage to the home-place, Mrs. Spencer Eddy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Spreckels—"Ory" Dore, and a famous beauty of her generation—having been a guest a few months ago.

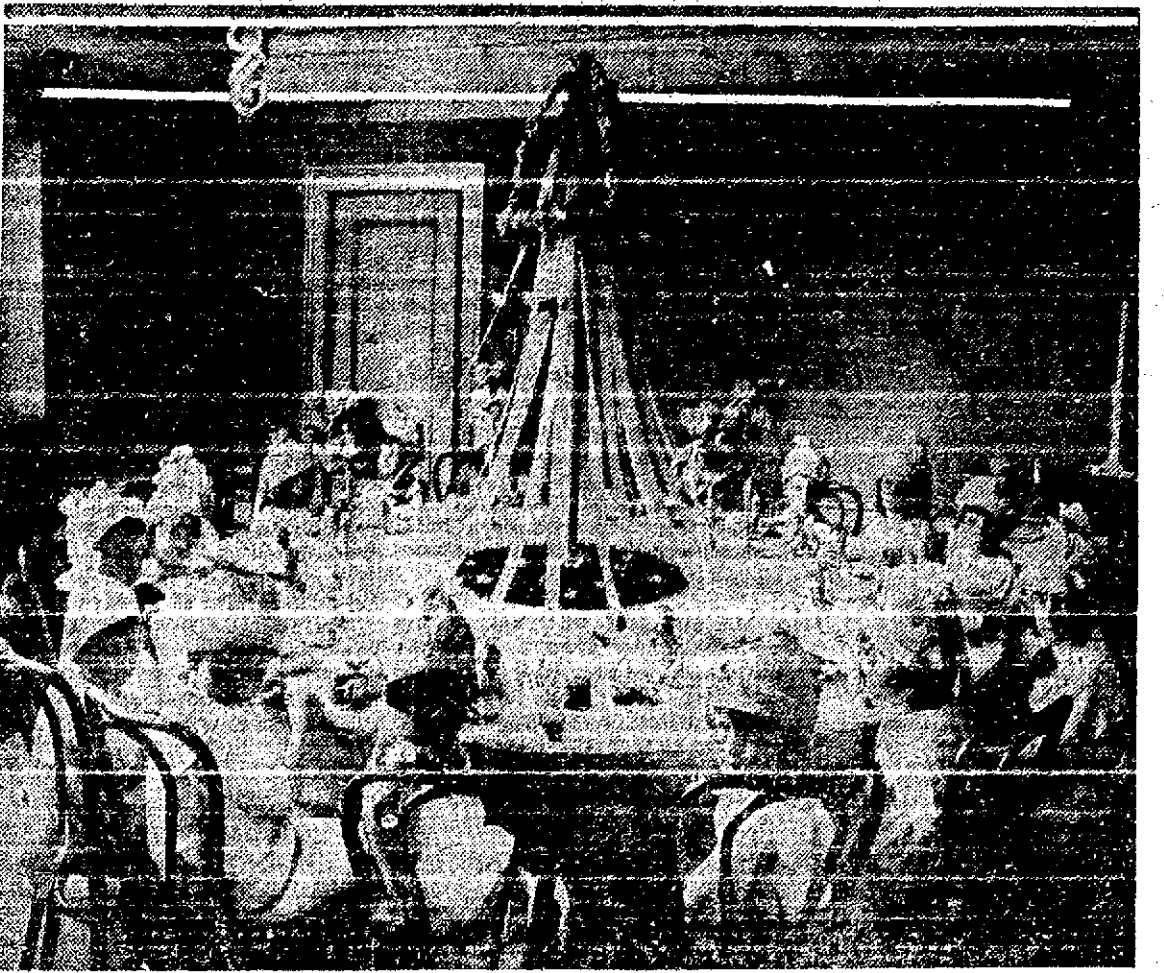

Mrs. Wooster—Lillie Dore—mother of the bride, was likewise a beauty, though quite a different type from her sister, who was Oriental dark and slumberous. Tall and fair, Mrs. Wooster was greatly admired. Soon after her marriage she went to New York, where she children were born and grew up. California, however, their vacation heaven.

AT DEL MONTE

The usual week-end festivities at Del Monte were considerably jazzed up by the Family Club of San Francisco. Under the guidance of the Mother-in-law pro-tem, James J. Black, the club "children" arrived in their Special Train on Friday evening and entered upon a most enjoyable outing. The golf tournament on Saturday afternoon and Sunday brought out some remarkably good scores. Frederick Burnham, of Martinez, carrying off the final honors, with L. R. Mellus of Los Angeles, finishing in second place.

James J. Black, President of the Family, presided over the golf dinner. Among the guests of honor were Robert Welles Ritchie, the cartoonist, and T. Hays the cartoonist whose sketches are winning him praise, as well as the afternoon's champion, Frederick Burnham, who, by the way, is a renowned big game hunter and fisherman. A unique feature of the banquet was the dedication to each of the Past Presidents of the Family of a hole on the golf course, named in his honor and presented with appropriate tribute.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Frick of Stanford Court entertained with a children's party Wednesday in honor of their little daughter, Helen Jane Frick, whose fourth birthday it was. The little guests included Dorothy Dutton, Shirley Makinson, Dixie Lee Cavalier, Camille Cavalier, Amy Sutton, Janette Lood, Evelyn De Lyle, Laura Bride Applegarth, M. Alexander Henderson, Warren Dutton Jr., Robert Dutton, George Warren Fay, Walter Frick Jr., Robert Frick, Vinnie Makinson, Allen Martin and Zabriskie Buck.

BETROTHED.

The bridge luncheon over which Miss Katherine Rhodes of Berkeley presided Wednesday for Miss Mildred Cook, betrothed of Ralph Thompson, and Miss Winifred Brown of San Francisco, was a most successful affair. Miss Rhodes, who is a member of the Alpha Xi Delta sorority, U. C. class of '22, is a U. C. graduate, is a member of the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority. She is the daughter of Captain and Mrs. Harry Willet Rhodes of Berkeley.

Mr. Chalmers' father is a retired capitalist of Honolulu, where the family home is located.

Miss Marguerite Cheever, who is in her senior year at the University of California, is to be married to Alvin Hamby following her graduation from the University of California in May. Miss Cheever is a Sigma Kappa and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Cheever of Los Angeles.

Mr. Hamby is a member of the Delta Chi fraternity.

The new home of the couple will be in Berkeley.

The latter part of May Miss Julie Bennett, daughter of the Richard Bennetts, will return to California after having traveled with the Denishawn dancers for the past year. Her sister, Miss Katherine Bennett, is now enjoying a motor trip through the southern part of the state.

Following the announcement of the engagement of Miss Ruth W. Field, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Jacquettes for

The matron of mature figure, who cannot wear slipover styles, finds the jacquette graceful and becoming, while the maid of slender build finds that the easy drape of the garment accentuates her slimmness. You must see the lovely jacquettes that Lucille is showing. They are invested with those little touches that set them quite apart.

George Warfield of Healdsburg, and Douglas Weatherston of Vera Cruz, Mexico, a number of intimate little affairs have been given for the bride—a member of the Alpha Xi Delta sorority, U. C. class of '22. Mr. Weatherston will graduate with this year's class—a Phi Lambda alpha man.

Small luncheon parties were the vogue on Wednesday at the Hotel St. Francis. Mrs. George Newhall just returned from a trip through the southern part of the state, was hostess to a group including Mrs. Walter Filer, Mrs. Robert Hayes Smith, Mrs. Laurence I. Scott, Mrs. Stanley Cloman and Mrs. Ross Ambler Curran. Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hockley of Baltimore, visiting in San Francisco, entertained a small group. Mrs. Jesse Whitehead of Palo Alto was hostess at a party of four and other small gatherings included Mrs. Alexander Rutherford, Mrs. Frederick Burnham, Miss Marjorie Josselyn, Mrs. Roy Bishop and Mrs. Harry Hill.

Less and less the line of social demarcation between the social cities appears.

One of the smart affairs of the week that brought together guests from both sides of the bay was the luncheon given on Wednesday by Mrs. Alfred Gimardelli at her home over the water, honoring Mrs. Ward Stanley Wells—Eleanor Parker, niece of Mrs. William Heron.

One of the large luncheons which many Eastbay society folk will attend in May is that for which Mrs. Rupert Whitehead, of Grand avenue, has sent out cards. It is to be a luncheon at the Fairmont to be attended by more than one hundred guests from either side of the bay.

Miss Margaret Lovgrove, whose marriage to Dohrmann Pischel will be a major summer affair, was the guest of honor of Miss Marie Louise Michaels at her home at Menlo Park. The guests were:

Mrs. Illiger Brown, Mrs. Proctor, The Mills, of Boston, Elizabeth Wright, Camilla Jelliff, Marie Louise Meyer, Antoinette Tucker, Mary Davis, Elizabeth Terry.

Miss Verabelle Treadwell, fiancée of Bennett Acker, will be the guest of her fiancée's parents much of this season.

Mills Alumnae To Hold Annual Campus Lunch

Busy days at Mills, with graduation in the wings. The annual meeting of the Alumnae Association of Mills College with its social features has been called for Saturday in Alumnae hall at 11:15. To be followed by a luncheon in Warren Olney hall. The most important business will be the election of officers. The nominating committee has sent in the following names:

President—Miss Rosalind Cassidy, '19.

Vice-President—Miss Katherine Simon, '20.

Recording Secretary—Marion Halsey Smith (Mrs. Don D.), '20.

Nellie Huff Downing (Mrs. O. P.), '20.

Ellen A. Smith, '07.

Eleanor Jones Shirrell (Mrs. E. L.), '12.

Martha Virginia Gahn, '21.

Much interest is centering in the class reunions which are arranged according to the Dix system used in many colleges today. The classes included are:

1879, '74, '75, '76.

1920, '21, '22, '23.

In addition the class of 1882 will hold its sixtieth reunion and the class of 1898 will gather for its twenty-fifth reunion. The class having its fiftieth anniversary is included among the Dix reunion groups.

A special feature of the luncheon will be the formal reception of the senior class into the Alumnae Association. In the afternoon the graduating class will give its annual reception in honor of the senior girls of the high schools in the Bay District. As a part of the afternoon's program the department of French will give a play under the direction of Dr. Cecile Reau, and Miss Isabelle Santana will give a piano recital in Alumnae hall.

The day will conclude with an evening concert by the students in Lasser Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Digby Sherman Brooks—Suzanne Pasmore—and Miss Dorothy Pasmore entertained Mr. Waldo Warner and Mr. C. Warwick Evans of London at luncheon at the Brooks studio in Vallejo street the first of the week. A group of interesting persons called during the afternoon to greet the guests, who are members of the London String quartet.

Miss Margaret Lovgrove, whose marriage to Dohrmann Pischel will be a major summer affair, was the guest of honor of Miss Marie Louise Michaels at her home at Menlo Park. The guests were:

Mrs. Illiger Brown, Mrs. Proctor, The Mills, of Boston, Elizabeth Wright, Camilla Jelliff, Marie Louise Meyer, Antoinette Tucker, Mary Davis, Elizabeth Terry.

Miss Verabelle Treadwell, fiancée of Bennett Acker, will be the guest of her fiancée's parents much of this season.

Debutantes Are Guests At Large Luncheon

The Misses Sally, Esther, Isabelle and Adelaide Robbins entertained at one of the smartest affairs of the spring recently at the Hotel Oakland. One hundred debutantes and younger married set were their guests. Miss Sally Robbins recently announced her betrothal to Carlton Osgood of this city.

Among the guests were:

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Bardley, who arrived in San Francisco a short time ago from the Isle of Jersey, were guests at the Hotel St. Francis during their stay. After visiting the Southern States the Bardleys will sail for home. This is their first visit to the United States.

Mrs. J. L. Stursatt was hostess at a tea given in the Fable room of the Hotel St. Francis on Saturday, honoring Mrs. G. Stulsatt.

The Misses:

Grace Pauley, Elaine Sutton, Mildred Taylor, Lucille Taylor, Gertrude Ewerth, Nancy Pace, Vera Lewis, Dorothy Foster, Ruth Bowley, Gertrude Ramcollins, Margaret Nobel, Irma Hicks, Carol Cook, Lema Milton, Florence Broad, Becky Gray, Rita Herbert, Leon Sims, Edna Bentley, Madeline, Grace Eber, William Du Val, William Vanu, Charles Alister, Russell Wilson, Arthur MacIntyre, James Roberts, Anna Tobias, Arthur Notlett, George Grant.

IN MONTEREY.

Miss Ned Howard is to be hostess at a large affair, a reception to her daughter, Miss Jane Howard, betrothed of Frederick Reimers, May 10, several hundred to be guests.

Mrs. A. J. Merle will be hostess the same afternoon to forty guests at luncheon at her home in Sherman street.

Out at Sequoyah Country Club Mrs. Kingman Putnam, of Alameda, will entertain seventy-five guests at luncheon and bridge, May 10.

The following day Mrs. William Langdon, who will return this evening from Mexico, will be hostess at luncheon and bridge.

WEDDED

Miss Elizabeth Hobdy, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William C. Hobdy, became the bride of Robert W. Hobart of Cincinnati on Thursday at the First Presbyterian church in San Francisco.

Miss Margaret Spear of New York, a classmate of the bride at Bryn Mawr, was maid of honor, and the other attendants were Miss Dorothy Rawson of New York, Miss Logan Shepherd of Honolulu, Miss Winifred Brown, Miss Helen Slaughter and Miss Elizabeth Peirce.

Mrs. James Hobart, mother of the groom, came from the East for the wedding with her son, James C. Hobart, Jr., who served his brother as best man.

The ushers were Russell Crothers, Mario Cooper, Warner Hobdy, Sidney Gamble of Pasadena and Benjamin Hammett.

Mrs. Edward Rawson came from New York for the ceremony, as did Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carter, uncle and aunt of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bunker left Wednesday for Ben Lomond in the Santa Cruz mountains to be away for ten days. While there they will superintend the construction of the new home which Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Alexander Acker are building.

Miss Farrell To Wed A Los Angelino

The engagement of Miss Kathleen Farrell and John J. McGinnis of Los Angeles is one of the outstanding announcements of the week.

Miss Farrell is the daughter of Mrs. James Farrell, whose husband was a successful mining man of the early '70s.

After her graduation from "The Madamers"—Sacred Heart Convent—she went abroad for travel and study, finishing her school days in the Sacred Heart Convent in Paris.

With a group of girls from well-known Catholic families, she has given much of her time to serve the Children's Aid Society, whose work among unprovided-for children of San Francisco has been a record of exceptional efficiency—largely because it talked so little, and reserved its energy for work.

Mr. McGinnis is a son of Mrs. Rose McGinnis and the late Edward McGinnis.

The wedding will be a June affair—month of nuptials the world over.

HAPPENINGS IN EASTBAY SOCIETY

Mrs. Harding Will Join Him on Alaska Trip

BY CONSOLIDATED PRESS
LEASD WIRE TO TRIBUNE
Copyright, 1923, by OAKLAND TRIBUNE
By BETTY BAXTER.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Society rejoices with President Harding over the great improvement in the health of the first lady of the land. She had a strenuous time of it this week. And she came through in fine shape. The result is that she asserts she will be perfectly fit to accompany the chief executive on his planned trip to Alaska.

Things generally were quite gay this week; entertainments even had a bit of a flavor. The most courted couple were the secretary of the Italian embassy and Madame Celestia, who will leave tomorrow for New York, whence they will sail May 5 for home. The military attaché of the Italian embassy and Marquis di Bernese gave a large luncheon party for them last Sunday at the Hamilton Hotel. Monday the counselor of the embassy, Augusto Ross, had a dinner, asking the guests "to meet" the Celestias—a farewell party.

Tuesday they were the guests of honor at a luncheon which Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh gave, and Wednesday no less a person than the Italian ambassador, Prince Caetani, was their host at a cabaret dinner, the guests dancing between the courses and several of them doing "stunts" when professionals were not entertaining them.

Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Sylvanus Stokes Jr. had a luncheon party for the Celestias—that is about all I can recall right now, but they were constantly on the go all week.

Other diplomats figured several times last week as hosts. The Italian ambassador, for one, gave a dinner party Monday night.

The new Japanese ambassador and Madame Hanahara were the guests of honor of the Princess Ghika Tuesday evening.

The Persian minister, Mirza Hussein Khan Alai, gave a charming dinner Thursday, when the counselor of the Polish legation and Madame Kwapiszewska were his chief guests. They are another much fêted pair who are sailing the 5th for home.

Juan Francisco de Gardena, counselor of the Spanish embassy, was a dinner host last Friday night. He is one of the most sought after bachelors of the diplomatic corps and now it is said that he is about to cease to be a bachelor. Rumor has it that the pretty young sister of Frederick Naro, secretary of the Roumanian legation, has captivated him, even though she has been in Washington something less than a month.

Another young diplomat, rumor

Mrs. George D. Baker, Jr., who was hostess at a bridge party on Friday, honoring her mother, Mrs. George Watson Cushing, who is leaving town for a vacation trip.

Smart Wedding Takes Place In Berkeley

St. John's Presbyterian church in Berkeley was the setting last night for a smart wedding, that of Miss Carolyn Horner, daughter of Mrs. J. M. Horner of Berkeley and Abram LeBaron Gurney Jr. The ceremony was read at 8:30 o'clock by Rev. Francis Russell, pastor. In the presence of four hundred guests. The church banked in greens and potted palms and delicate fernery, was radiant with the light of myriads of rose candles. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Harry W. Benn of Pittsburg, who came for the wedding, accompanied by Miss Carrie Benn.

Other out-of-town relatives who arrived yesterday were Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McCrady of San Diego and their daughters, Mrs. Willard Hage and Mrs. Nelson McCrady.

The bride wore an exquisite gown of white crepe satin elaborated in pearls, the gown fashioned after the straight lines of the Egyptian mode. The bridal veil of tulle edged in lace formed the court train and was held to the coiffure with a bandeau of pearls. Orchids, lilies of the valley and gardenia arranged with satin streamers and tulle made up the shower bouquet that completed the costume.

Miss Helen Horner was her sister's maid of honor, wearing a gown of pale yellow satin made with the old-fashioned hoop skirt trimmed with garlands of French flowers. She carried a quaint nosegay.

The bridesmaids were a quartet of attractive debutantes of the Eastbay—Miss Janice Kergan, wearing a frock of lavender georgette; Miss Rebecca M. Horner in green; Miss Rebecca Anne Gummer of Stockton in rose and Miss Marguerita Sanborn of Pasadena in maize georgette. All of the frocks were made with bouffant skirts in hoop effect with lace panels and bands of the lace adorning the square necked bodices. They carried old-fashioned nosegays with the varied flowers.

William J. Horner was best man and the ushers were Messrs. Milton Buckley, Miles York, Werner Schuur and Frank Hargear.

One hundred and fifty of the most intimate friends of the family assembled at the home of the bride for the wedding reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Gurney will spend a few days at Pebble Beach before sailing for Honolulu, where they are to make their home for the next two years.

The bride is a member of the Alpha Phi sorority and a University of California student.

Her betrothal was announced at a tea given by her sorority sister, Miss Janice Kergan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Kergan, a few months ago, for Miss Betty Barrows, fiancée of Frank Gibson Adams.

Mr. Gurney was graduated from the University of California with the class of '22. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Abram LeBaron Gurney of Honolulu.

He is affiliated with the Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity and a member of the Winged Helmet honor society.

Women in clerical occupations almost tripled in the decade between 1910 and 1920.

Marie Verone, leading woman attorney in France, is head of the suffrage movement in that country.

It is claimed that American women travel four times as much as women of any other nationality.

The Polish peasant woman is practically the only rich woman in the republic because her husband's property is exempt from taxation in order to encourage the raising of grain.

Because of the fact that the congregation was made up almost entirely of women, young women were called upon to act as ushers, take up the collections and read announcements at a recent Lenten service in St. Paul's Episcopal church, in Richmond, Va.

German women, recently accorded the right to sit on juries in criminal cases, have shown an inclination to impose even more severe punishment than men, particularly in cases where the defendants themselves have been women.

Cats Resemble Dogs
The origin of Manx cats is now attributed to the arrival of these cats on the Isle of Man from ships belonging to the Spanish Armada that were wrecked there. They were probably brought from Japan or Eastern Asia. They are a distinct species with short forelegs and elevated hindquarters, and differ from other cats somewhat in call, ways and character. They vary in color. People who have owned them for long periods say are not good mousers or hunters. In character they are rather similar to a dog, being highly companionable and having some of the qualities of guardian.

See This Painting In Our Window

"Wind Swept Veterans" is the work of Charles Morcom, a California artist whose desert landscapes have won him wide recognition.

The desert begrades life. It has seared, bent, and battered with strong, hot winds, these palms that have dared rear themselves upward. That clarity of atmosphere, that warm intensity, that magical riot of vivid colors that overspread the desert in the afterglow of the sun—these are the beauty of the desert that the artist has caught so realistically, as to make one "feel" them.

Loaned by R. C. Durant

"Wind Swept Veterans" was painted especially for R. C. Durant, motor-car manufacturer. Mr.
Durant holds quite as paramount a position in the world of art as in the world of industry and business. He is a connoisseur and collector of rare discriminations. Because of this, Morcom's persuaded Mr. Durant to exhibit this unusual canvas for the public to enjoy before hanging it in his own home.

Paint Absorbs the Echo
A hall which has conflicting echoes may be improved by rebuilding to the extent of changing some of the lining of the interior, but a second method is to make the reflecting wall a good absorber, so that the sound is swallowed up and little or none reflected. Painting the wall accomplishes this. It methods and can be easily done.
The paint, however, to have the qualities of porosity and flexibility; consequently thickness is a very important requisite. High plasticity is desirable for certain finishes. Several successive coats of paint may be applied, or one heavy coat with the special sand, coarse or sponge treatment.

WOMEN and THEIR WORK

Luncheon for Pioneer Women Set for Friday

Pioneer women of Oakland have set aside the coming Friday for a merry-making which will honor Founders' day. The annual luncheon will take place at the Key Route Inn, accommodating several scores of those who have made their residence in this city upward of forty years. Mrs. Sarah Farwell, president, will preside as toastmistress.

Honor was given to Mrs. Eunice Crabtree, 695 Twenty-fifth street, 160 years old, last week when the pioneer women elected her to honorary membership in their group. Mrs. Crabtree has spent more than half of her century of life in Oakland.

The gag which will fly from the staff of the Jack London memorial cottage in Glen Ellen is the gift of the local pioneers in tribute to the Oakland writer who attained international fame.

A dance and cards will assemble several hundred members and friends of Town and Gown club in the Dwight way clubhouse on Friday evening at the invitation of the board of directors. The evening party is being given at the close of the season that the fund which takes care of the house furnishings may be reimbursed.

Mrs. Charles Brock is chairman of the benefit, which will assume brilliant proportions. Assisting her are Mrs. Henry May, Mrs. Charles Derleth, Mrs. Frank Glass, Mrs. Charles Willits, Mrs. Lewis Harrier, Mrs. Oscar Barber, Miss George Barker, Mrs. Ralph Phelps, Mrs. George Kierulff, Mrs. John Nance, Mrs. Frank Wentworth, Mrs. Caroline Switzer.

The club will issue the annual year book next month. The data is now being compiled by the officers.

Two Days Set for Spring Flower Show

Thursday will launch the Spring Flower show of the College Women's club in the Twentieth Century clubhouse of Berkeley. For two days the attractive exhibit will be open, offering a bewildering collection of orchids, ferns, wild flowers and plants suitable for local gardens. Professionals and amateurs, club women and friends near and far, local organizations and botanical societies are cooperating in making so successful this innovation of the college women that it will come to be accepted as an annual festival.

Arrangements of flowers, the artistic choice of pottery in house and garden, will be featured along with the showing of blooms and plants. Men of reputation interested in conservation and those who have been listed among plant wizards will be heard in short addresses each day. Among the speakers will be Carl Purdy, whose subject will be, "Domestication of Wild Flowers"; Robert G. Sproule, who will talk to the general theme of conservation of redwoods; Chas. Keeler, C. L. Biedenbach and M. N. Bussano of San Francisco.

Flower dances arranged and directed by Mrs. C. C. Boynton will supplement the program. Miss Marian Scofield of Oakland will be seen in a rose dance.

The valuable collection of orchids owned by J. A. Carbone will be displayed. Mrs. Carlotta C. Hall will show a large collection of ferns. Florida of the Eastbay will enter professional exhibits. Mrs. Helen Bertha Camp, curator of the art section, is general chairman of the Spring Flower Show. Her active assistants include: Miss Edna Shuey, Mrs. Ella Stockwell Salsbach, Mrs. Sarah Brown Johnson.

Among those who are lending their patronage to the May exhibit are: Dr. and Mrs. David P. Barrows, Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Wade Wheeler, Mayor Louis Bartlett and Mrs. W. L. Jepson.

Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keeler, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Biedenbach, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Colby, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Rowell, Mr. and Mrs. Dore Coedige, Professor Armin O. Leuschner and Mrs. Leuschner, Mrs. Henry Hatfield, Mrs. Anna L. Saylor, Mrs. Elwood Mead, Mrs. Bertha Fisher Robinson, Mrs. Frank L. Woodward, Mrs. Arthur Rigg, Mrs. H. B. Wilson, Mrs. John W. Kimball, Mrs. Ida Blochman, Miss Lucy Ward Stebbins, Miss Mary Bird Claves and others.

The newly elected board of directors of the College Women's Club includes: President, Mrs. Bertha Fisher Robinson; Vice Presidents, Mrs. Dorothy Doyle Dismier, Mrs. Miriam Hecht Morris; recording secretary, Mrs. Margaret Honeywell Kieffer; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mary Ada Pence Underhill; treasurer, Mrs. Emma Holbrook Clark; auditor, Mrs. Emily R. Wright; historian, Miss Mary Bird Claves; directors, Mrs. Mary Robert Coolidge, Mrs. Kathryn Schaffer Fry, Mrs. Winifred Ohloff Heath, Mrs. Blanch Robinson Toland.

A NOVELTY.

One woman I know uses up her angel cake and sponge cake that is running dry in this unusual and yet delicious manner. She tears the cake into small pieces, butters each piece with fresh butter that has been softened and flavored with vanilla, and then rolls the pieces in finely chopped nuts. She serves them either at luncheon or tea.

BLACK LACE.

Wash black lace in a solution of vinegar and water, rinse in coffee, and iron while still damp with a piece of flannel laid over it. This process will renovate it like nothing else.

Mrs. Petray at Head of Ticket In Oakland Club

Election of officers will claim the interest of the Oakland club Wednesday. Mrs. H. C. Petray heads the regular ticket. Her successful candidacy will make her the successor to Mrs. Frederick Adams, who is completing a two-year administration.

Annual reports of officers and chairmen of standing committees will be presented during the afternoon. Mayor Louis Bartlett of Berkeley will review the water situation.

The installation luncheon, which will be limited to members, is announced for Wednesday, May 16, completing the club year. A benefit card party Friday will summon several scores of guests to the Montecito avenue clubhouse. Mrs. F. W. Kimball is chairman of the afternoon.

Berkeley Center will be hostess at the annual meeting of Northern Section, California League of Women Voters, Friday, May 18. Election rumors give to Mrs. Frank H. Boren of Oakland the place at the head of the ticket which will be offered for election. Mrs. Boren formerly was president of Oakland Center and has represented this group on the northern board for the past year.

California, in receiving no place on the executive body of the National League of Women Voters, is frankly disappointed. Although a candidate was offered from this state, which has generally been regarded as among the most progressive in the national body, she failed of election at the annual convention last month. Mrs. W. A. Shockey succeeds Mrs. William Palmer Lucas as regional director from California, an office held in common by the states.

My Marriage Problems

Clara Garrison's New Phase Of Revelations of a Wife

WHAT LILLIAN SAID THAT COMPELLED SMITH TO YIELD.

At Smith's shrine of fright, Lillian sat back the stiletto and nodded at me.

"I thought so," she said. "It's poisoned, all right, and he knows exactly the death he'd die if he got a thrust with it. Oh, this is too easy!"

She turned back to Smith, who—bound, yet struggling—was glaring at her as a cornered animal might have done.

"You've just one chance to escape this thing," she said, "and that is to tell me at once the antidote for the poison which is in this knife."

Into Smith's eyes flashed a gleam of cunning.

"Will you let me go free if I tell you?"

Lillian laughed grimly.

"Listen to him, Madge," she said. "Isn't he the clever little bargain hunter, though? No, my gifted friend, I will not let you go free. The only gift I will promise you is that you will not feel the kiss of this if you give me the correct antidote. So spill it quick, Madge, you'll have to remember it. I have no pencil here."

"It's easy to remember," Smith said. "Plenty of milk and eggs—that's all."

"Oh!" I started from the seat to which Lillian had motioned me. "Don't you think I'd better take some up right away?"

My voice trailed into silence as I saw Lillian's grim face and the expression of her eyes as she fixed them on Smith.

LILLIAN'S ULTIMATUM.

"You aren't a very clever liar," she said contemptuously. "And I'm wasting precious time listening to you."

She took a handkerchief from her dress, looked at it and laughed as lightly as if she meant to play a game with it.

"Only worth a quarter," she said. "I can afford to throw it away."

She bent down and laid the handkerchief upon Smith's cheek.

"Do you know what they've done to young Chester?" she demanded.

"They've cleansed his wounds with a red-hot poker and a sharp knife. And never fear if you should accidentally happen to be wounded in the same way, we should use every means in our power to save you, and those would be two of the means upon which I should insist. And I should imagine that the face would be a more painful proposition than the arm, besides leaving a bad scar. Now, sir—"

she suddenly pressed the stiletto against the handkerchief and gave her ultimatum:

"Will you give me the name of the antidote, the correct one this time? And may Providence help you if you give me the wrong dose. Quick now or I'll—"

I saw the point of the stiletto start and turned away my eyes, for I knew that Lillian would go through with the task she had set herself, if the man did not yield.

I think Smith realized it also, for he shrieked:

"IF YOU'VE TOLD THE TRUTH!"

"I will tell you the real one!"

"I thought you'd see the light," she replied grimly, lifting the stiletto, and the lines around her mouth were etched more deeply than I ever had seen them. "What is it?"

He pronounced what to me was an unpronounceable name, and Lillian and I looked at each other blankly.

"Spell it," Lillian commanded.

"Remember it, Madge."

Smith with one eye upon the dagger in Lillian's hand, spelled the word painstakingly, and I put it away in my memory.

"Make him spell it three times in succession," I said, and Lillian nodded to Smith. "You hear," she said curtly, and the man obeyed my suggestion. I mentally checked the three spellings with care, found they agreed, then locked the word away in my memory, sure that whenever I wished it again I could take it out.

"You have it, Madge?" Lillian asked, and as I nodded, she moved toward the mantel and again laid the stiletto upon it.

"If you're told the truth about this thing," she informed Smith, "you're safe from this."

"You scratched me already with it," he muttered.

"Oh, no, I didn't," she retorted, "or you'd be throwing seven varieties of fits."

She bent over, looked at his cheek closely. "Nary a scratch," she announced. "I'm sorry there isn't a tiny one at that."

"Oh, Madge!" she turned to me. "Will you take out your car right away, and get yourself into a warm cloak? You'll have to get the drug if it's to be had."

DEVIL DUST

Colonel Curtis Dall, eccentric millionaire opium importer, and Ho Fat Sen, master dope smuggler, evolve a plan to get a corner on opium.

A lady scientist, a woman's voice interrupts them and they are mystified until the doctor comes to them a doctor's time.

Realizing that the savedropers have overheard their plans and will ruin them, Dall and Ho Fat Sen set out in search of her.

In the meantime, Eleanor May Cullen, society debutante, plans to elope with Ted Seaton, a playboy chameleon. They discuss a far scheme of his to escape by an artificial lake and he flees. Eleanor finds that the hope has been leading to Dall's conversation through the drain pipe, where a voice seems to issue from the solid rock cliff.

Dall's scheme is to surprise Dall, and then flee, after promising to call for her on the following day. He and the colonel, however, toward Dall's villa, where she is a guest. Dall's plan is to wait until she is alone and then to enter her room and lock the door.

Then one day Dall disappears. Eleanor's agent is informed that she has been seen in the city at night. She is obliged to "uncover" the (colonel) to a sister son. She is told to look for him. She goes to the city and finds him. He is in a room. He is in a room. He is in a room.

CHAPTER 15
The Missing Trunk
(All rights reserved.)
"Waddie waddie!" greeted the policeman, looking the disheveled youth over from the tips of his dusty shoes to his ruffled hair.

Ted recoiled his powers of speech.
"I'm a friend of the family," he said, making a move to pass. The officer blocked the way.
"You can't come in here," he objected.

Ted sized up the policeman preparatory to a tackle. The tragedy had not subdued his daredevil spirit. The officer was a big fellow and he was armed. Certainly he would not hesitate to use his blackstick in case of a fight. There, too, if he had to battle his way through, he must knock this man out. Ted began to snap his fingers. It was a danger signal.

Through the door he caught a glimpse of a frock coated figure, Doctor Monroe.
"Hi there, Doctor," he yelled. Dr. Monroe came to the door and the policeman stepped aside.
"Admit this man, officer," said the Doctor. "He's a friend of the family."

Inside the house, Ted turned on Monroe. He slipped the newspaper with his hand.
"What is this rot?" he cried. "Where is Eleanor? What has become of Dall?"
Monroe clapped him on the back. "Come, come, my boy. Calm yourself. Dall has sailed on the Victoria."

"But Eleanor—where is she, Doc?"
"Hi there, Doctor," he yelled. Dr. Monroe came to the door and the policeman stepped aside.
"Admit this man, officer," said the Doctor. "He's a friend of the family."

Inside the house, Ted turned on Monroe. He slipped the newspaper with his hand.
"What is this rot?" he cried. "Where is Eleanor? What has become of Dall?"
Monroe clapped him on the back. "Come, come, my boy. Calm yourself. Dall has sailed on the Victoria."

"And suppose I refuse," suggested Ted, getting angry.
"Maybe you might make me feel bad," speculated the sergeant, "and then again you might land in jail. Land in jail? Why?"
"There you go, asking questions again."

As they talked they were walking up the stairs. The officer took out a key and unlocked a door.
"Don't recognize this room at all, I suppose?" he suggested.
Ted looked up. The police sergeant was staring him with narrowed eyes. It dawned on the youth then. This fellow really suspected him. It was too ludicrous. He laughed grimly.

"What's so funny?" demanded the officer.
"Your suspicions. You see I was asleep at my hotel when this happened if the newspaper statements are correct."
"You may have to prove that." "That will be easy. Just call up the Granada."

Ted's attitude seemed to convince the sergeant.
"The body lay over there on the floor," he declared. "When the guests burst in, this girl was standing by the bed in her night clothes with a battered candlestick in her hands. The blue coat pointed an index finger at a door. And that there was unlocked," he added.
"Where does it lead?"
"To her room."

The sergeant, who had become suspicious, opened the portal and admitted Ted into the room that had been occupied by Eleanor May on the night before. The youth entered it reverently. A lingering odor of perfume came to him and seemed to make him feel more strongly the presence of the girl he loved.

The nurse says she saw her going into Patton's quarters," continued the sergeant, "and everyone declares that her own bed was untouched."
"It's a lie," breathed Ted Seaton. "Well, maybe not. And then again, maybe not."

"Where are her things?"
"I don't know," answered the officer. "Here is the door she went out of. It leads down the back stairs."
"Who told her she could get out that way, do you suppose?"
"Perhaps she took a chance." "And after she got out, I suppose she walked to the car line in a pair of high heeled shoes and dition today."

a party dress with police cars buzzing by her.
"Maybe she took a bypath. Here's Doc Monroe. See what he says."
Ted addressed the physician.
"Did Mrs. Cullen get Eleanor's things?" he asked.
"I don't know," replied Dr. Monroe. "Why worry about them? That is up to her mother. I guess people with all their money wouldn't miss a trunk full of clothes."

Ted did not answer. Instead he went back downstairs, with the sergeant and the Doctor trailing. He found Mrs. Patton where he had left her.
"What became of Eleanor's things?" he asked. "The ones she had in her room?" He explained seeing the mother's blank expression.
"They are gone? She must have taken them?"
"But she had a big trunk." "It is gone," asserted Mrs. Cullen, again, disconsolately.
"Her painting is gone also from the house."

He walked out in the hall again with the police officer, opened the door and paused. He motioned mysteriously to the sergeant, who approached as if expecting a confidential communication.
"I know the murderer," whispered Seaton.
"Who is it?" asked the other, wide eyed.
"A girl who ran away from here with a trunk under one arm and Patton's body under the other." Ted hissed as he stepped outside and closed the door after him.

Rheumatism in Bones Is Found
LONDON, April 28.—"Every third ancient Briton, from the bones discovered, seems to have suffered from some form of rheumatism," said Mr. Arthur Keith when lecturing recently at the Royal Institution, on "Prehistoric Britons."

This was probably due to exposure, damp, and bad teeth. Rheumatism is certainly less prevalent now than then. The commonest form is lumbago, and lumbago was one of the chief complaints of the ancient Briton.

Mr. Keith produced the thigh bones of an ancient British woman suffering from rheumatoid arthritis, or "fixed joints"—a common condition today.

TELL? DECIDED CENTURIES AGOProfessional Ethics Based on Oath, According to History of Medicine.

By Universal Service.

LONDON, April 28.—The oft-debated question, "Should a doctor tell?" was decided by the medical profession 400 B. C.

According to Dr. Walter Libby, of Pittsburgh University, in his book, "History of Medicine," just published here, Hippocrates, the father of medicine, based his system of professional ethics on an oath written long before his time in which he swore to keep secret.

"Whatever in connection with my professional practice or not in connection with it, I see or hear, in the life of men which ought not to be spoken of abroad, I will not divulge, as reckoning that all such should be kept secret."

Dr. Libby traces the history of medicine from the priest physicians of Egypt and Babylonia up to the great war. He sketches the life work of great surgeons and physicians of many nations—Greek, Roman, Arab, French, Italian and German. One marvels not that they knew so little but that they knew so much.

The Greek anatomist, Diocles, for example, in his work on zoology described the heart and large blood vessels; he knew the oesophagus, the appendix, and the ureters, and he invented a head bandage and a spoon-like instrument used later to abstract or remove stones.

He used opium and distinguished pleurisy from pneumonia. Aristotle laid the foundation of comparative anatomy by dissecting about 50 species of animals and by performing many vivisection operations.

Galen (130-201 A. D.) was the greatest anatomist of antiquity. At 20 he had written three books on the lungs and a treatise on the uterus; at 23 as physician to the gladiators, he showed special skill in the treatment of open wounds, and at 32 demonstrated before the elite of Roman society, by experiments on living animals, the mechanism of nerves and muscles.

The Romans had a R. A. M. C. of their own. Each legion had six surgeons, and every troop of 200 to 400 men was accompanied by eight or ten men of honorableness. Each first aid carried a water flask and received a gold piece for every man he rescued.

An Arabian physician, Isaac Judaeus, (850 A. D.) wrote a "Physician's guide"—in it remarking with experience:

"Visit not the patient too often, nor remain with him too long, unless the treatment demand it, for it is only the fresh encounter that gives pleasure."

One of the most interesting illustrations in Dr. Libby's book is a dissection of a female figure made by the supreme genius of his time—Leonardo da Vinci. The artist filled a book with drawings in red crayon outlined with a pen, all the copies made with the utmost care from bodies dissected with his own hand.

There were some good surgeons even in the 16th century. One Pare, in 1552, amputated without etherization the "leg of a gentleman hit by a cannon ball."

"I dressed him, God healed him. I sent him home merry with a wooden leg," this cheerful surgeon wrote.

The process of painting makes interestingly told by Harry McManus, officer of the Builders' Exchange of Alameda County, in talking before the Home Forum Association last Thursday night.

McManus traced the beginning of paint from the crude lead, through its refinement into white lead, the basis of all paint, the coloring and application of the finished product. His talk was made from the standpoint of a practical user of house paints both for exterior and interior work.

McManus is one of several speakers supplied by the Builders' Exchange to present practical information to the members of the Home Forum, class maintained and directed by the Builders' Exchange. The Christian Association of which Ralph E. Wilson is the Oakland representative.

TRULY CAPWELLS fills every need of the modern woman! Besides the lovely things for personal adornment, there are household things, both practical and beautiful to make her little home a world of comfort and elegance!

—Today Nannette wants to tell you about her excursion to the Capwell Fifth Floor. As soon as one steps from the elevator she is transplanted into a store house of beautiful home furnishings. These days one considers the living room first, the place where family congregates for those sacred home evenings of intimacy. For this room, then, there are gorgeous drapery materials and cobweb-like curtains. Colorful corners where they are displayed so that you may see them to their full advantage in the daylight. Especially distinctive is the new Silk Gauze drapery which are preferred by many to lace curtains. Here and There

Keep your eye on the ball—

O H, dear! What a lot to remember when one is trying to play a game of golf—but most important of all one must remember to wear proper golf shoes! Shoes which are roomy and broad-toed—shoes which will support you and give you a firm stance—shoes that will carry you safely through brush and sand or downy greens—and stand the wear and tear! At BRODER'S there's a splendid selection of good-looking golf oxfords—in Elkskin with brown trimmings—in reindeer—or in soft brown leather. And they're so moderately priced that one is immediately sorry that she did not buy a new pair of golf shoes a long time ago. At Broder's, remember!

Narrow bracelets, to be worn above the elbow, are very fashionable with sleeveless frocks. With gowns of the old-fashioned type, girls are wearing black ribbons tied in bows about the wrist.

THE large woman need not worry over her clothes question any longer—McGLOTHLIN's do that for her. Mrs. McGlothlin is a large woman herself and understands the problems which confront her sisters. So she has selected for her splendid shop at 515 16th Street, togery that adds sequin and distinction to their wearers—slandering lines where they are needed—and that look of evenness which is so necessary these days.

Frocks or hats—
As you please!

YOU must be sure to include in your summer wardrobe several of those dear straight-line sport frocks. At the PROPER SHOP, up the stairs at 1330 Washington Street, Nannette saw some especially adorable models made of crinkly crepes with hemstitched squares, gay Romanas and crisp linens. You'll simply want at least one when you see them—oh, yes—by the way, ask to try on hats, as Mrs. Proper has reduced them very considerably!

NOW that it is May, we must consider seriously our summer wardrobe—and of course sport frocks take the lead. Nannette wants you to be sure to stop in at RENOLD'S, 535 15th St., and see their adorable models. Renold's has an established reputation for wraps, and just this spring decided to enlarge their scope and carry gowns and suits. And there's quite a selection of new sport things which you're sure to like!

DID you see the adorable little French velle frock in the window of the BUNGALOW MAID DRESS SHOP, 4109 Broadway? It was peach-color, with a raine check throughout—effective, you must admit! And an adorable Quaker collar, edged in white Ormandy ruffling, a cash and saucy bow, and side panels with Ormandy ruffling, too! There are such charmingly simple summer frocks at the Bungalow Maid Dress Shop—and at such moderate prices that you'll not find it worth your while to leave them at home!

ONE of the greatest charms of California is that one home every day of the year—great splashes of cheering color! The COPPER SHOP, 632 14th Street, makes a specialty of flower baskets that are different from the ones that are made in the Philippines and Italy by methods centuries old. There are baskets, too, for wood and linen—great comforts for every home! Oh, yes! While you're in the Copper Shop, stop at the Dollar Table of gifts.

In all cities of note you'll find a Peacock Bootery! OAKLAND'S Peacock Bootery is at 1447 Broadway—another lovely shop of which we are proud! One enters with great wing-back chairs, there is not a shoe in sight—each pair is brought out for your inspection separately! You may be sure, too, of finding the very newest at the Peacock Bootery!

All about Kalex! HAVEN'T you always adored the easy comfort of rattan and willow furniture? It is the most simple way of furnishing one's small apartment or bungalow—especially when colorful crotonas or hand-blocked linens are used for cushions and draperies.

At JACKSON'S Nannette found complete sets of Kalex—but perhaps you don't know what Kalex is—well, it resembles fine reed furniture in every way except that it is made of fibre and wire and therefore has a great deal more durability and solidity than reed. One may have her Kalex furnished any way she pleases—in the new tones of grey combined with orange or blue—in soft browns, in green, or in the natural shades. There are living room sets consisting of sofas and great wicker chairs and rockers—four, six, and eight—couches. And there are adorable dining room sets with even buffets and tea carts of Kalex!

My dears! Here's an idea, you can even decorate Kalex yourself if you wish—make your own cushions and draperies. Think what fun this would be and how inexpensively you could furnish your apartment, sunporch or living room for the summer!

And of course there's the JACKSON Inducement of paying for it while you are using it!

FRIENDS OF THE GRAY SHOP At 534 Fifteenth Street will be glad to hear that the Kennedys have opened a Gray Shop in Long Beach at 107 West 3rd Street. It is a charming place—finished in restful grays—and togery with the same color scheme.

The same manufacturers will be carried in Long Beach as in the shops at Berkeley and Oakland. You know how pleased you are with the Gray Shop—why not write and tell your southern friends about the Long Beach branch?

A lovely new grown-up story every minute, forgetting all about the children and their new toys! Nannette accidentally dropped into the Children's Section of TAFT & PENNOYER's the other day—she was looking for a gift for a little boy—and you would be as surprised as she was to see the lovely clothes for children—from when they open their blue eyes on this old world until they are six years old!

—Let me tell you about the little frocks first. Many of the prettiest ones are made of fine like smoke—shirred on a tiny yoke, with tiny flaring sleeves and great, flaring skirts which are just short enough to show tiny lace petticoats beneath. These are made of pongee, crepe de chine, and velvets—with peasant embroidery perhaps, or tiny touches of fine lace.

—And then there are the darling little swaggy coats of Scotch Tweed, camel's hair, broadcloth and various silks. These are both for practical and "Sunday" wear—with tiny pockets and raglan sleeves—just like yours!

—For the tiny babe there are lovely hand-made dresses and baby coats of crepe de chine, cashmere and Crepella. Just to sleeve will stir your heart-strings—and you'll go home with the cherished garment for your baby!

—There are ever-so-many other things in this children's section at TAFT & PENNOYER's—too many for Nannette to tell you about—but she wants you to remember that she wants it to be just as soon as you can!

The royal game Mah-Jongg. Copyright, 1923, by Hende & Fleming.

Of course you've all seen the Mah-Jongg score pads and this poem which appears on the cover of the game.

You know how complicated is the Mah-Jongg score system—a Mah-Jongg score pad is more necessary than even bridge score pads. You may buy them in any bookstore, gift shop or department store. By the way, this score pad is the work of two Oakland women who have already earned a good deal of money for their clever idea.

It was that fine welcoming home a wandering brother when the audience expressed their appreciation of the return of John Wherry Lewis at the New Franklin Theater a week ago. A hearty applause—encore after encore—sent stirring strains from a violin that to the most enraptured strains have ever used! Write or call on Mrs. Wherry at 2231 Broadway.

Fair women! WE women of California romp about in sun and wind, little thinking of our complexions—and we suddenly awaken to the fact that we have grown sallow and wrinkled, and that our skin is leathery. Mrs. Harvey, who has a studio at 2231 Broadway, tells Nannette the women of California need the same oils to preserve their skins as do the women of India. For centuries the women of India have used a certain preparation for their skin—and are known everywhere for the Orient for their beauty. Now Mrs. Harvey has decided to give her secret to the women of our country—you'll declare it the most miraculous cream have ever used! Write or call on Mrs. Harvey at 2231 Broadway.

Hubert-Robert

Exhibiting at Vickery's

By LAURA BRIDE POWERS

It has been said that to bear a distinguished name is a handicap at the outset of life.

It is—unless the bearer of it makes good on his own.

Thus it is that Marius Hubert-Robert who comes to San Francisco with a name that has stood for the loftiest traditions in the annals of French art for generations.

stands on his own feet—with all due respect to his great grandfathers, Hubert Robert, whose decorative landscapes of the eighteenth century established him among the creators of his time.

The young painter has been moved to paint chateau gardens, mellow old castles, and now and then the turbulent sea, by way of proving the masculinity of his art—aqueilles all, brilliant in color, and executed with the verve of a high spirit at play.

Particularly lovely are the chateau gardens, their colors gleaming like jewels in a setting of azure enamel. Only a lover of color could read into these intimate portraits of gardens such virile beauty.

Indeed, the glimmering bits of color suggest the Montecellian method—luscious and opulent.

Lingered dreamily in the languorous gardens of the Tuilleries, one suddenly remembers that the young painter had not always such serene subjects for translation. His paintings of the war—he was one of the official painters of the Luxembourg Museum—a poet's tale of the terrible years.

The painter should find inspiration in the gardens of California—particularly that part of it that hugs the blue bay. Already he is glowing with the beauty of the bay country, and with his interesting little bob-haired wife—herself a writer and a keen observer—they climb the hills of the town when they can steal away from duty to

Current Exhibition of Engravings at Print Room

An oasis in the desert of commercialism is the Print Room. The sun falls on the little Italian court with its fountain and its blossoming broom, as we enter to feast our souls upon the engravings of the primitives whose influence upon art was strong in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries.

David Keppel, in appreciation of the collection, says of it:

"The exhibition gives a very good opportunity for a general survey of the work of early engraving. Apart from certain very early masters whose prints the dealer and the collector can scarcely hope to possess, the exhibition is fairly representative. When one considers that most of these prints were engraved over four hundred years ago, it is a perpetual source of wonder that they are still to be had; and more surprising still that, in spite of their very great interest and beauty they are still within the reach of the collector of moderate means."

"In the Italian school, Pollaiuolo and Mantegna may be considered together, and perhaps nothing in early engraving produces quite so vivid an impression as their noble and serious art. Giovanni da Brescia and Zoan Andrea also belong to this group."

"Then there is another class of prints inspired by a quite different spirit, much less serious and more fanciful. This influence may be seen in the work of Nicololetto da Modena and also in the Nielli. While forming a sharp contrast to the austerity of the Mantegna group, it is none the less very close in spirit to the antique marbles which formed its inspiration."

"Of the northern prints in the exhibition the most primitive is feeling, if not in date, are those by Israel van Meckelen. His prints are quite Gothic. No influence from the south seems ever to have reached him. Schongauer's engravings may also be considered entirely Gothic, but Gothic of a less archaic type. A Refreshing Note From Art Center, New York

From the Art Center, one of the line centers of art in New York, comes word of an epochal exhibition of French Gothic sculpture and French and Italian primitive paintings from the Rene Gimpel collection. It's a long walk to the ledo, or St. Louis, or Chicago, or Washington, the bare and naked truth—that the San Francisco Bay people won't support a gallery.

And as for foreigners, most of whom find in the bay country the dreamland of the creative mind and soul—they are speechless when they discover the truth. Take M. Hubert-Robert, the visiting French aquatintist, for instance.

When he landed, one of his first questions quite naturally was, "What is your best gallery?"

And the wind echoed where? Incidentally, the fate of the Paint Rooms is interesting—our fate rather. If it goes, where we may sun our souls on a tired day?

Will the San Francisco bay people permit the last little home of pure art to leave for foreign parts? The matter of raising the money to keep it in San Francisco is now under discussion.

Incidental to the scandalous fact that San Francisco with 700,000 people has now no gallery devoted exclusively to the arts of painting and sculpture. It is embarrassing to a lover of San Francisco to have to confess to a visitor from New York, or Boston, or Philadelphia, or Pittsburgh, or Cleveland, or To-the Gothic spirit in its truest and most perfect form.

"With master Baldung and Cranach we come to a new type of Gothic art, the Gothic of the North."

With another fancy—the gnomes and goblins of the German forest—and we feel a highly imaginative and mysterious quality.

Apart from the main current stands Jean Duvel. The originality of his work makes one regret the Italian influence in France. Without it the French school might have come to itself much more quickly.

As it was, centuries were to pass before France assumed the leadership of the world of art.

The exhibition will continue to the middle of May—it will, unless the Print Room—the last surviving exhibition gallery in San Francisco dedicated exclusively to pictures or prints goes to Los Angeles.

Yes, sir, to Los Angeles. They are eager down there to acquire the biggest print depot west of the Rockies. They know its value as a commercial asset, as well as its educational. There are enough art lovers, seemingly, down there to pay the price that the owner, Edwin H. Furman—who has raised the institution to the nth degree in a few years—has asked—the price of equipment.

the Gothic spirit in its truest and most perfect form.

"With master Baldung and Cranach we come to a new type of Gothic art, the Gothic of the North."

With another fancy—the gnomes and goblins of the German forest—and we feel a highly imaginative and mysterious quality.

Apart from the main current stands Jean Duvel. The originality of his work makes one regret the Italian influence in France. Without it the French school might have come to itself much more quickly.

As it was, centuries were to pass before France assumed the leadership of the world of art.

The exhibition will continue to the middle of May—it will, unless the Print Room—the last surviving exhibition gallery in San Francisco dedicated exclusively to pictures or prints goes to Los Angeles.

BOYES HOT SPRINGS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—Your city, Oakland, has played an important part in the literary history. Both the people of Oakland and those of the State at large are apt to look at Oakland as a city that was born in a speculation over waterfront lands, to become the "bedroom of San Francisco," and then suddenly to become pitchforked into the center of industrial activity and manufacturing advancement through no fault of its own. While this is probably true to a large extent, for Your City, Oakland, was incorporated solely for the purpose of having its waterfront lands stolen; and later, the delights of home life on the east side of the bay caused the building of many fine residences therein; and, finally, the activity of a man of letters brought much business to your waterfront, still Oakland has played an important part in the life of many of those who gave California its literature. That part may not have been quite so large as that of Carmel, but, if it had not been for troubles among some of the writers of a dozen years ago, there might not have been quite so much Carmel intertwined with the literary history of our State. A rival to Carmel was planned for Oakland not so long ago.

Its Own Literary Colony

Ambitious plans for a literary colony on the Oakland side of the bay were made some years ago. They were made by Walter H. Leimert, then associated with Wickham Havens, and now in the southland showing the land boomers how to put over real estate deals in the approved manner. Leimert worked by no rule of thumb. In the then upper reaches of Piedmont there is a long ridge, which is today the dividing line between Piedmont and Montclair. It was then too far out of Piedmont to be marketable and Montclair had not yet developed. Several of the backers of the Realty Syndicate, notably the late Frank C. Havens, were interested in art and literature and the building of the Piedmont Art Gallery by Frank C. Havens formed a little nucleus around which it was not difficult to develop a literary colony. Walter Leimert was one of the original syndicate developers who had artistic and literary leanings, which were coupled with vision as to reality. Leimert evolved a shrewd idea. There was the ridge in question. It possessed all of the points that artists and literateurs were supposed to want—a wonderful outlook, forests, canyons and jungle. And then, literary chaps were supposed to buy what nobody else wanted, and nobody seemed to want this particular ridge. So the ridge was surveyed, and a road or two was graded, and the whole was named "Alta Piedmont," I think, and the colony was started.

Real Literary Style

A genuine start was made. The late Herman Whittaker bought and built, and, in building, he lived up to true literary traditions. He built his own house. Only in one particular did he depart from true literary building precedent, and that was in the fact that he made it two stories in height instead of sprawling it over the ground in one-story form. Still, he built it himself, and that gave a true Carmel smack to the place. It can be said that it was a good house barring the fact that he finished it with burlap and not with plaster, but when it was purchased after his death it only took a few artisans a few days to transform it into a home with all modern conveniences, which must have caused the writer to writhe in his grave. Following Whittaker came Xavier Martinez, the painter. It is not of record whether Martinez had a room or not, but he has a well equipped studio with top lighting, and, upon good days he can be found sitting in the street or on the bank with his canvases strewn about him. Herbert Bashford, then of the Oakland Free Library staff, and one whose works have had more than the usual literary flavor, also built, adjoining the Whittaker place. Jack London was one of the early buyers on the ridge, for Jack was a great friend of George Sterling, and Sterling lived in the old Sterling home that stood at the point where the ridge melted into Piedmont proper. And while the literary boom was on and an Oakland Carmel impended, Harry Laon Wilson was induced to invest on the summit. But Wilson did nothing but pay taxes on his lot, if he still owns it. Then something happened. No one seemed to know what, and all that remains is Xavier Martinez and his studio.

Novel on Oakland

It might be of interest to Your City, Oakland, to call attention to one novel written by the late Jack London that was built wholly upon Oakland. "Burning Daylight" is not one of Jack's best known stories, and if it were not for the personal history that is behind it, it could hardly be said to rank with his better works. The hero is Jack—obviously Jack—and the heroine is Mrs. Charmian London—not an invention, and the story itself is a strange composite of the Realty Syndicate and an idealized Swiftwater Bill.

Briefly the story is what Jack London might have done had he been in the place of Swiftwater Bill, who came to Oakland from Alaska with oodles of money. At this point Jack London, under the name of "Burning Daylight," a Klondyke millionaire, discovers Oakland. He falls in love with his stenographer, who tells him he is doing nothing "worth while," and in the search for something "worth while," and also the stenographer, who rides over the Piedmont Hills, he suddenly discovers the future of Oakland and how that future can be hastened by the building of roads, railways, water-works, ferries and the like. In working out the story of how the stock gambling, drinking Alaskan millionaire gets down to regular business, the author simply adopts the plans of the late Frank C. Havens for developing the Eastbay section. Some of his conversations outlining what he is going to do sound like sales talks or possibly a quotation from a ready booklet of a dozen or twenty years ago.

"Burning Daylight" gets into a stock jam. His old enemies set out to squeeze him. He finds himself slipping in more ways than one. An incident in a restaurant, which many will recognize as the old Forum, proves that he is slipping physically, and he suddenly makes up his mind to retire to a ranch at Glen Ellen and take up the simple life. When this decision is reached the young lady becomes Mrs. Burning Daylight. The story is undoubtedly that of Jack and Charmian Kittredge and those who know the two can testify to the way in which she and Jack used to meet on and ride over the Piedmont hills together.

London's Descriptions

In this story Jack London, alias Burning Daylight, takes the heroine to the summit of the very ridge about which we talked a few paragraphs back and, in his adopted method of trying to win her respect and admiration first, outlines his plans for the development of Oakland, which lay at their feet. No description ever written by the most enthusiastic Chamber of Commerce press agent could exceed in vividness Jack's picture of the future of Oakland. Take these two quotations from the book and see what you think of them today. They were written by Jack London more than a dozen years ago:

"You see, I give the value to the land, by building the roads. Then I sell the land and get that value back, and after that, there's the roads, all carrying folks back and forth and earning big money. Can't lose. And there's all sorts of millions in it. I'm going to get my hands on some of that water front and the tide-lands. Take between where I'm going to build my pier and the old pier. It's shallow water. I can fill and dredge and put in a system of docks that will handle hundreds of ships. San Francisco's water front is congested. No more room for ships. With hundreds of ships loading and unloading on this side right into the freight cars of three big railroads, factories will start up over here instead of crossing to San Francisco. That means factory sites. That means me buying in the factory sites before anybody guesses the cat is going to jump, much less, which way. Factories mean tens of thousands of workmen and their families. That means more houses and more land, and that means me, for I'll be there to sell them the land. And tens of thousands of families means tens of thousands of nickels every day for my electric cars. The growing population will mean more stores, more banks, more everything. And that'll mean me, for I'll be right there with business property at well as with people. What do you think of it?"

Before she could answer, he was off again, his mind's eye filled with this new city of his dream which he built on the Alameda hills by the gateway to the Orient.

"Do you know—I've been looking it up—the Fifth of Clyde, where all the steel ships are built, isn't half as wide as Oakland Creek down there, where all those old hulks lie? Why ain't it a Fifth of Clyde? Because the Oakland City Council spends its time debating about prunes and raisins. What is needed is somebody to see things, and, after that, organization. That's me. I didn't make Ophir for nothing. And once things begin to hum, outside capital will pour in. All I do is start it going. 'Gentlemen,' I say, 'here's all the natural advantages for a great metropolis. God Almighty put them advantages here, and he put me here to see them. Do you want to land your tea and silk from Asia and ship it straight East? Here's the docks for your steamers, and here's the railroads. Do you want factories from which you can ship direct by land or water? Here's the site, and here's the modern, up-to-date city, with the latest improvements for yourselves and your money.'"

Parts of Ranch to Be Sold

In this connection work comes that parts of the London ranch at Glen Ellen are to be sold. One of the most beautiful properties in the state, it was hardly to be considered as a productive property in the ordinary sense of the word. Had Jack lived it was his plan to put on the market a line of dairy specialties that, coupled with his name, would bring big prices in the San Francisco market. But with his death most of these plans were abandoned or found impracticable because of lack of capital necessary to start them on the proper scale. But the property itself is superb from a picturesque point of view. It consists of something like 1,600 acres, with two wonderful canyons denting its mountainous sides, and with a mountain more than 2,000 feet high—more than half as high as Mount Diablo—in one corner. Two parts of the ranch have been offered, for sale, the famous "Wolf House," and "Wake Robin Lodge." The "Wolf House" consists of the ruins of the great home that London had built for himself, and which was destroyed by fire the day before he was about to move in. The ruins of the building still stand and there have been some who think that a hotel or sanatorium could be constructed thereon. The "Wolf House" was given its name because it was built with the proceeds of the "Sea Wolf." "Wake Robin Lodge" was at one time owned by the aunt of Mrs. Charmian London, and it was here that Jack London wrote several of his most successful books and where he conceived the idea of buying the different ranch properties which he was about to weld into a harmonious whole when his death came. These properties are being handled by Mrs. Eliza Shepard, Jack's sister, who is living on the London ranch at Glen Ellen. Mrs. Charmian London, the widow, is at present in France.

Back to Bret Harte

Reference was made two weeks ago to the story that the late Sarah B. Cooper of Oakland was the proofreader who refused to read proof upon Bret Harte's story, "The Luck of Roaring Camp," which made his reputation in the east. I am told by people who claim to have had it from Bret Harte himself that this is the fact. That Bret Harte placed great importance upon that incident and was much provoked thereby, is shown by the general introduction written by Bret Harte to the only authorized edition of his works, wherein he said:

When the first number of the Overland Monthly appeared, the author, then its editor, called the publisher's attention to the lack of any distinctive Californian romance in its pages, and advised that, should no other contribution come in, he himself would supply the omission in the next number. No other contribution was offered, and the author, having the plot and general idea already in his mind, in a few days sent the manuscript of "The Luck of Roaring Camp" to the printer. He had not yet received the proof sheets when he was suddenly summoned to the office of the publisher, whom he found standing, the picture of dismay and anxiety, with the proof before him. The indignation and the expectation of the author can well be understood when he was told that the printer, instead of returning the proofs to him submitted them to the publisher with the emphatic declaration that the matter thereof was so urgent, irrelevant and improper that his proofreader—a young lady—had, with difficulty, been induced to continue its perusal, and that he, as a friend of the publisher and a well wisher of the magazine, was impelled to present to him personally this shameless evidence of the manner in which the editor was impugning the future of that enterprise. It should be premised that the critic was a man of character and standing, the head of a large printing establishment, a church member and the author thinks, a deacon. In which circumstances the publisher finally advised the author that, while he could not agree with all of the printer's criticisms, he thought the story open to grave objection, and its publication of doubtful expediency.

But the author-editor won; the story was published without change, it made the reputation of Bret Harte and the Overland Monthly, and, in after years, the author could not restrain his impulse to give a little fling at those who had protested thereat.

Miller, Markham and Others

There are still many on the streets of Your City, Oakland, who remember the tawny locks and high heeled boots of Joaquin Miller, and who have visited him upon The Heights back of old Fruitvale. There are still several hundred young ladies and gentlemen who attended the old Tompkins school in their youth when Edwin Markham was the principal, endeavoring to weld into a teachable mass the scions of some of the most aristocratic families of Oakland who lived along Adeline street, and the offspring of the large and growing foreign population that was even then creeping into that section. Markham lived in an old-fashioned home on the south side of what was then Frederick street (now Nineteenth) named so for the late Frederick Delger who lived in the block across the street. Bret Harte, himself, lived for a brief period in an old-fashioned house near the foot of Nineteenth avenue, and, it is said, that his mother continued to live there for some time. The office decoration in which your Mayor John L. Davis takes the most pride is a great frame in one corner containing the pictures of Bret Harte, London, Markham, Charles Warren Stoddard, Ina Coolbrith. These have really been identified with Oakland.

Bank Consolidation

The financial district was much interested in the reported negotiations for the amalgamation of the Wells Fargo Nevada National Bank and the Union Trust Company, known in California as the Hellman banks. The late I. W. Hellman, Sr., was president of the former while his son, I. W. Hellman, Jr., was the head of the Union Trust Company. Both died four years ago within a few months of each other and the latter left a son, I. W. Hellman third, who served in the war and afterwards was sent to New York to learn banking at one of the big financial houses of the metropolis. Several months ago he returned here and was immediately elected an assistant cashier of the Union Trust Company so that the Hellman name is likely to be perpetuated in the institution, where the family, it is understood, still holds the dominant control. The relationship between the two banks has always been maintained. After the fire of 1906 the Wells-Fargo occupied a portion of the Union Trust Company's building at Market and Montgomery streets and took over all of that plant when a new structure was erected for Union Trust in the heart of the retail district. At that time the latter did a savings business almost exclusively while the Wells Fargo-Nevada was a commercial bank. Now both handle all branches of the business, as have most banks during the last few years. The move for consolidation is the result of competition in the banking field, which is being felt throughout the West.

Luck and Baseball

Lady Luck has certainly smiled on the owners of the San Francisco baseball club, not only in the matter of the sale of players to the major leagues, but also as regards the playing schedule this year. When the season opened there was a big murmur from the enthusiasts on this side of the bay by reason of the fact that while the team opened at home, it started immediately thereafter on a three weeks' road trip. But no complaint was heard from the owners. The Seals had the good fortune to be one of the contesting teams at no less than three openings of the season on the Pacific Coast and their coffers were filled in consequence. They started in here with more than 16,000 paid admissions. Then they were opponents of Oakland for the opening across the bay when 8000 fans paid to get in. Saturday and Sunday of that same week there were nearly twice as many in attendance. The next week the local club moved along to Portland, where they began the season as contestants against the Beavers. There were more than 21,000 persons present—the largest crowd in the history of minor league baseball. It is not generally known that the visiting team receives 40 per cent of the receipts and the home team 60. The profits therefore to the Seal management is apparent when it is realized that the three opening days saw nearly 50,000 people drawn to the parks. This is more than were on hand at most of the major league openings and, of course, a team in the majors can hardly figure in more than one opening. But the luck of the San Francisco owners goes further. They sold Kamm at $100,000 and O'Connell at $75,000. Shrewd baseball men say that there is another $175,000 tucked away in three other youngsters still the property of the club—Valla of San Francisco, Rhyne of San Jose and Buckley, the rookie from Pittsburgh.

Close Fight in View

There is going to be a real fight for the office of district attorney at the August primaries. Moreover it seems likely that the battle will be along carefully drawn party lines and not distinctly of the non-partisan tinge that characterizes municipal politics to a great extent. Judge Mathew Brady, the incumbent; his predecessor, Charles N. Fickert; Lewis F. Byington, public prosecutor of nearly a score of years ago, and Albert F. Roche are the most likely contestants. Of the four, Fickert is the only Republican. Byington is one of the foremost Democrats of the community and Judge Brady and Roche are also Democrats, although they take little active part in the affairs of the party. It will be the first time in the city's history that three men, all of whom have at one time or another been district attorney, have competed for the post. Political crossing predict a hot fight, in the event that Byington elects to run. The latter is popular in the Native Sons, has always been high in the counsels of his party and while in office made a favorable record.

Roche has been an assistant district attorney as well as a member of the city attorney's staff and is a brother of Police Commissioner Theodore Roche.

Drury Melone

The reference to Woodward's Gardens serves to remind of still another personage who must be more or less remembered by the older generation. Drury Melone was prominent in politics 50 years ago. He served a term as Secretary of State, and was a well-known figure in all Republican State conventions of the times. He figures in this hark-back because he married as his second wife a daughter of R. B. Woodward. When Woodward passed on he became the dominant figure among the heirs. There was disagreement somewhat hinted at in the accounts of the day, but coming more to public attention when Woodward's Gardens began to suffer from lack of proper attention and care. Melone was of a contentious and litigious disposition, and there was such disagreement among the heirs that the beasts in the zoo were in danger of starving, if some did not starve; and finally the institution was closed and the attractions dispersed. Woodward owned a fine estate near Napa, known as Oak Knoll, which Melone acquired. He had that faculty that some people possess rather unaccountably of getting himself frequently mentioned in the personal columns. After he had taken up his residence there, the notice so often appeared of his arrival from Oak Knoll that Ambrose Bierce, in his "Prattle," announced as a take-off that "Drury Melone arrived from Oak Knoll on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday."

Drinking the Evidence

That it is the thirst of some of the prohibition agents rather than any real cupidity on the part of the higher officials working under Enforcement Director Samuel Rutter which has caused the rumors of graft and scandal so freely bandied about these last few weeks is the word that comes from the inside. I am told that Rutter has the situation well in hand and has the absolute co-operation of his superiors at Washington in the matter of the quiet investigation that has been going on. Rutter is the first of the many officials who have had charge of Volstead enforcement hereabouts to remain for any length of time at the head of the department. The work requires more or less detective ability and many shrink from the spying activities that form a necessary part of it. For that reason from time to time men are hired who do not prove worthy of their trust. The temptation to consume some of the liquor seized and to take a bit of some of the "old and precious" brands home to their families has been too much for many of them. They have developed a thirst under fire quite at variance with their previous reputations for sobriety and orderliness. One instance is cited of where a squad of officers obtained their evidence immediately after entering a soft drink parlor, but nevertheless continued to remain and drink freely of the cheer provided by the unfortunate host for several hours, only to astonish him by arresting him in the end.

R. B. Woodward

In mentioning this instance of cheap living another is brought to mind that will be remembered throughout the Pacific Coast—the What Cheer House. You could get a very good meal there for 20 cents, a meal such as a hearty man needed. Very many visitors from the interior of the State and from other Coast states went there to eat. Tourists from the East took account of it, and frequent mention of it appeared in print as one of the unique institutions of a famous state. But the proprietor did not maintain it as a philanthropic institution. He was strictly business and made it pay. R. B. Woodward was also proprietor of Woodward's Gardens, whom all Californians, especially if they were children here in the seventies and eighties, will fondly remember. There was nothing like it before nor has been since. It combined a museum and zoo, with a vaudeville performance, roller skating and other diversions. Woodward had a genius akin to that of Barnum. The curiosity that was the vogue he acquired and installed in his museum. I remember that public attention at one time was directed to what was declared to be a haunted window. It was maintained in sensational accounts that a human face appeared at it. Woodward purchased the window and had it conspicuously set in the front of his museum, with a sign telling about its uncanny quality. I have often thought that a place similar to Woodward's Gardens would attract the crowds even to this day.

Tourist Tide Coming

A tremendous flood of tourist and vacation travel, both East and Westbound, is expected by the railroads with the inauguration of the summer season. Companies believe that their resources will be taxed to the limit to care for the summer business. One reason is the placing of the reduced rate tickets on sale a month earlier than heretofore, allowing vacationists to spend two months in the East and Middle West before the hot spell begins. Another is the fact that there is no strike this year, and many of those who wanted to take advantage of the cheaper tariff in 1922 were restrained by the fear that the railroads might be crippled. Last year was the first since the war that the summer fares were substantially reduced. The government removed the war tax on transportation with the advent of 1922, saving 8 per cent, and the western railroads cut the summer price to the pre-war figure. Then came the shopmen's strike and many persons, especially women, were timid about traveling, postponing their trip until this year. A large percentage of them had not been East since 1917, due to the high rates and congested conditions. True, the eastern roads have made no reductions, but it is now possible to go to Chicago and back as cheaply as before the war, and the cities on the Atlantic seaboard benefit by that reduction in the through rates.

NEW RECORD TO BE MADE BY '23 CLASS

California Will Graduate the Greatest Class in Its Long History; List of Degrees
Will Number Nearly 2478

BERKELEY, April 28.—World's records in educational progress are to be shattered once more by the University of California.

The largest number of degrees ever conferred by the State University or by any other educational institution will be awarded at the sixtieth annual commencement exercises to be held in the Greek Theater on Wednesday, May 16.

According to preliminary figures of Recorder James Sutton, the list of candidates for degrees of all kinds totals 2478. Of this number approximately 1700 will represent undergraduates. The remaining degrees will be those conferred in the professional colleges associated with the university as well as other higher academic honors.

The number of candidates for degrees is greater than 400 students than last year. Last year's bachelor's degrees totaled 1519 and an increase of approximately 250 is expected this year among undergraduates. The total of 2478 candidates for degrees as prepared by Recorder Sutton is expected to be cut somewhat by last-minute failures on the part of students to meet academic requirements but, says the university official, California will still lead the world in the size of the graduating class.

CAPACITY TAXED.
Owing to the large number of graduates and winners of degrees, university officials are facing a problem in caring for the relatives and friends of the students who form the center of attraction at the monster commencement exercises.
Last year hundreds of kindfolk and friends of the graduates were turned away from the Greek theater, many of them unable to see

COLLEGE WOMEN TO EXTEND THEIR ATHLETIC SPHERE

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, April 28. (By International News.)
—Women are extending their sphere in college athletics. The day may come when football will be the only college sport barred to the fair ones.

This conclusion was rendered tonight after interviewing the score or more women physical directors of the leading colleges and universities of the West assembled here to discuss the athletic advancement of their charges.

The Western Athletic Conference of American College Women went on record as approving intercollegiate competition when confined to interclass competition between the colleges and universities.
Track athletics were approved by the physical directors and the delegates to the athletic conference.
Several of the coaches regarded wrestling as all right. None was in favor of boxing, or judo.

"Hockey is the best game for the development of women and provides the best fun," said one of the coaches, adding that basketball and track athletics came next.
Varsity competition was not approved by the physical directors because it tends to develop a few, while college athletics for women, they said, are intended to bring general development for all.

Here are the track events approved for women's competition:
50, 75 and 100-yard dashes;
60-yard high hurdles, with four hurdles each two feet, six inches high;
55-yard low hurdles, with six hurdles each two feet high; 200-yard relay, with teams of four runners;

MADE DESPERATE BY HUNGER, BOY TRIES ROBBERY

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—
Another Market street jewelry holdup by a 16-year-old boy made desperate through hunger was frustrated today and the youthful offender captured by traffic police.

The lad claims to have been living in a cave in Golden Gate park near the bear pit and to have had no food for three days.
He entered the jewelry store of George Franklin, 929 Market street, armed with a wooden club and asked to see a watch. He was about to use his weapon when a pedestrian looking through the show window saw him and cried a warning. The boy's nerve failed and he ran.
Traffic Officer Frank Gaddy took him into custody after a chase.

"I've had a kind of a tough time of it," said the lad at the city prison after he had been booked for attempted robbery.
"I arrived here April 13 with 35
in my pocket. Since April 15, I've been sleeping in Golden Gate park."

"My father died five years ago in New York and my mother a year and a half ago. I had been working on a ranch near Los Angeles and made $35. I spent most of it looking for a job down there."

REALTY EXPERT CHIEF ANNUAL CITY OF OAKLAND TO TUBE ISSUE

F. F. Porter Declares the Taxpayers Need Not Fear Bridge Cost

The taxpayers have nothing to fear from the passage of a bond issue for the construction of a tube between Oakland and Alameda.

Such was the statement today of F. F. Porter, head of the real estate board, who gave his approval to the proposition which will come before the voters on May 8.

Porter said he was not trying to commit the real estate board to the proposition, but that he merely voiced his personal opinion.

"I am always against spending any more money for a thing than we can help," said Porter. "Nevertheless it is an axiom that you have to spend money to make money, and it is necessary to lay out cash if a city is to develop properly. Los Angeles certainly proves this."

WORTHWHILE INVESTMENT
"I have devoted some time to investigating the tube matter since it has been brought to my attention at a recent luncheon. I find that a bridge can be built for about $1,200,000 and that the tube will cost $4,300,000. This is a great difference, but I have come to the belief that the investment would be worth while."

Porter said he was not trying to commit the real estate board to the proposition, but that he merely voiced his personal opinion. "I am always against spending any more money for a thing than we can help," said Porter. "Nevertheless it is an axiom that you have to spend money to make money, and it is necessary to lay out cash if a city is to develop properly. Los Angeles certainly proves this."

THE BOND ISSUE
"The bond issue of nearly $5,000,000 would add ten cents to our tax rate for five years, but the increase in assessed valuation that will probably accrue from the tube might easily reduce this increase to the vanishing point."

"If new plants can be erected in the inner harbor, and if our largest ship can pass easily up and down the channel to load and unload grain, lumber and other products from those wharves, it is worth while for us to build the tube and settle this estuary transportation problem once and for all."

"For these reasons I have decided that I favor the tube over any other bridge."

TUBE PICTURES PREPARED
The "tube-the-estuary" committee today submitted the first birdseye drawing, giving a popular conception of what the tube will look like when completed.

The drawing taken in the tube, which is shown in the drawing, depicts big ships passing in the estuary channel in the exact spot now blocked by the Harrison and Webster bridges, and the tube runs along Harrison and Webster streets. The tube is shown crossing Harrison. The tube traffic passes beneath these tracks. At present much delay is occasioned by automobile drivers waiting for the trains to pass. The shore is shown to indicate how large ventilating towers on either the air will be kept pure in the long tunnel.

The committee said other pictures will be submitted before the end of the campaign showing details of the interior of the tube and an artist's conception of certain aspects of the construction.

All of Alameda county votes on the tube. Members of the Speakers' Bureau are carrying the message to organizations in the cities affected.

Tully, president of the University of Santa Clara, has been appointed as dean of the new College of Commerce and Finance which will be inaugurated at the university in August. ILLINOIS FUGITIVE FOUND BY POLICE

BERKELEY, April 28.—Found at a hotel in South San Francisco by Inspectors A. R. Mehrtens and A. S. J. Woods of the Berkeley police department, Charles Egan, convicted burglar wanted in Illinois for parole violation, is being held here for the Illinois authorities. Egan, who is known to the Berkeley police through operations in the bay cities, is wanted in Sterling, Illinois, for violating parole from the state penitentiary there after being convicted on a burglary charge. He was traced by Berkeley officers through the comparison of fingerprint records between a San Francisco jail where Egan was held at the time and the Illinois penitentiary.

PULLMAN GAINS CITED IN PLEA TO CUT SURCHARGE

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—The State Railroad Commission in a communication today to the Interstate Commerce Commission called attention to the fact that Pullman traffic within the State of California is increasing at a rapid rate. The commission has gathered considerable evidence to present to the Interstate body in connection with a hearing to consider a proposal to repeal the surcharge.

In a communication addressed to George B. McGinty, secretary of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Railroad Commission asked for an early hearing on the subject. As illustration of the increasing Pullman business the communication says that during 1921 the Owl of the Southern Pacific carried 79,327 Pullman passengers between Oakland and Los Angeles and the Lark 115,258 Pullman passengers between San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Final Decree Here; Weds in New York

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—With the granting of a final decree of divorce here today Jose de Acuna, American representative of the La Insular Tobacco company, was scheduled to be married in New York tonight. The Acuna is the son of the former governor of Seville and scion of a distinguished Spanish family.

He was divorced a year ago, obtaining an interlocutory decree from his wife, Josefa, whom he married in the Philippines. Today Superior Judge Trott signed the final papers and his attorney announced that he would immediately telegraph De Acuna in New York where he is to be wedded to Miss Josephine Johnson, secretary here for some time to a local dentist.

City Water Pump at Santa Clara Regained
SANTA CLARA, April 28.—The crew of men who have been working at the Santa Clara municipal plant for the past two weeks, endeavoring to raise the pump, which recently was sunk due to a cave-in of the well, have succeeded in raising the pump. A crew, under the direction of Superintendent J. I. Dixon, hope to get several hundred feet of casing out within the next few days, when it will be seen just how serious the cave-in had affected the well and the water supply.

Water District Election Is Held Most Important

The importance of the election on May 8 to form a utility water district in the nine municipalities from San Leandro to Richmond is emphasized in a statement by Clinton B. Hickok, city manager of Alameda who yesterday issued a review of the situation, based on several years' study of the water needs of the Eastbay. Hickok declared that every city of any size in America now owns and operates its own water system, and held that the coming election is the most momentous event in the history of the district. He continued: "When any locality reaches a point where its water supply is at the low ebb evidenced in this community, action must be taken without delay. The water supply in the east bay area for several years has been so inadequate as to be a decided hindrance to the development of the district. Industrial expansion has suffered acutely as a consequence, all the accompanying developments such as residential and commercial activities have been hindered."

SITUATION REALIZED.
"In the summer of 1916 the residents of this district were brought to a full realization of the acute situation, when they were unable to water their lawns and gardens. This demonstrated to the laymen that some remedy must soon be forthcoming. The local sources of supply, such as surface water from the nearby hills and underground rivers from wells, is limited. Hence the problem of an adequate water supply must be solved by bringing in a supply from an outside source. Such a project will be of such enormous dimensions that the public, rather than a private corporation, must attack the problem."

"Almost every city in the United States of any considerable size owns the local water system, and these public water projects are universally successful. This is one function that, even corporation officials, acknowledge should be publicly owned. The city of San Francisco and the cities of the Eastbay district are unique among large cities in that they do not own their water systems. The election of May 8th affords the people of this community an opportunity to step into line with other American municipalities, and to reap the consequent benefits."

INADEQUACY SHOWN.
"The inadequacy of the water supply in the Eastbay cities is illustrated in the last column of the tabulation which shows the per capita consumption of water per day in the various cities. In this district the per capita consumption is only 65 gallons per day as compared to the average of 150 gallons for cities in other parts of the state. The city of Sacramento has a per capita consumption of 255 gallons per day. This low consumption in this district is the result not only of an inadequacy of water supply, but is also due to the high rates charged for water. Both of those objections will be remedied by the public taking control of the water system."

The food was sold to the children at the noon hour by members of the school's Parent-Teacher association, under the direction of its president, Mrs. George Steberling. This action was taken after it had been reported to the school that a widow in the district, with two children to support, was destitute as the result of having had to quit work to take care of one of the children, who was sick.

HOUSING LOOMS LARGE AS N. E. A. MEET PROBLEM

Bureaus in Bay Cities Busy Finding Roofs for Many Delegates

Housing one of the world's greatest conventions is no mean task even when two cities of the size of Oakland and San Francisco are joined in the undertaking. This is the convention of the committees in charge of the arrangements for the reception and entertainment of the National Education association convention which meets here from June 28 to July 7.

Housing bureaus in both Oakland and San Francisco have been established to see that the most efficient use is made of the hotel facilities of the two communities. It is estimated that every available hotel and apartment room in both cities will be required and arrangements are being made to list rooms in private homes should it be found that the former are inadequate.

Providing sleeping accommodations is but one phase of the convention's housing problem. The other is to see that proper provision is made for the various day and night meetings of the convention. Already 45 halls and auditoriums in both Oakland and San Francisco have been obtained and the committee is still at work in the belief that additional hall space will be required. The halls so far listed have a seating capacity ranging from 500 up to 12,000.

Under an agreement adopted by the representatives of both Oakland and San Francisco, the day meetings will be held in this city and the night meetings in San Francisco.

A comprehensive system of information is being developed to take care not only of the business of directing convention visitors from one hall to the other but also in giving information regarding points of interest in and around the convention cities. These information bureaus will be at the main convention halls, in the leading hotels, depots and other strategic points. In order that all of the attendants may become properly informed as to their duties it is proposed to conduct a school of information at which the attendants will be drilled on the various questions likely to be asked by the visitors.

PLEASANTON MEETS LOCALS.
SAN LEANDRO, April 28.—The Pleasanton baseball club will make its initial appearance here tomorrow when it meets the San Leandro nine on the local diamond in the afternoon. A large delegation of Pleasanton rooters has promised attendance.

BILLION OF U. S. MONEY INVESTED IN CUBAN SUGAR

Crop Control by Americans is Estimated by Probers at 70 Per Cent

BY CONSOLIDATED PRESS LEASED BY TRIBUNE

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Evidence that New York financial and sugar refining interests have an investment of more than $1,000,000,000 in Cuba and control a large part—believed to run as high as 70 per cent—of the Cuban raw sugar crop has been unearthed by government investigators at work on the $5,000,000 weekly sugar holdup of the American public.

The government's detective are seeking information with respect to charges that the sugar holdup was planned, engineered and carried out by New York financial interests, closely related to the great sugar refiners. The most recent evidence, which comes from a representative of the refining interests in the nature of testimony given by Henry A. Rubino, of New York who in his own words, represented American "interests engaged in the production of raw sugar in Cuba," before the Senate finance committee in the latter part of 1921. At that time the committee was holding hearings on the proposed tariff law and Rubino placed before the committee various tabulations outlining the extent of American financial interests in Cuba sugar.

HOW BILLION INVESTED.

"We have attempted," said Rubino in filing his exhibits, "with the greatest care and with all the data available and at our command, to show you the extent of that American investment today reported by stocks and securities, widely held and distributed in the United States amounting to more than $1,000,000,000 in the sugar industry in Cuba according to actual figures."

According to Rubino the $1,000,000,000 was made up as follows:

Sugar mills and estates, owned by Americans $671,219,768.

Sugar estates controlled by Americans by reason of their being financed by Americans, $128,000,000.

Investments in Cuba owned by Americans dependent entirely upon the sugar business $156,250,000.

Amounts due Americans for machinery, merchandise and supplies and secured in part by equipment trusts, etc., $128,000,000.

Total, $1,031,669,766.

The tabulation is taken from the finance committee's report on proceedings of hearings on schedule that the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill, that schedule coming sugar, molasses and manufacture of sugar and molasses.

Rubino placed other American investments in sugar outside of the United States, Cuba, Hawaii and Porto Rico at $54,000,000 and added:

"The American industry in Cuba has twice as much at stake as all the other industries."

COMPANIES INVOLVED.

Fourteen American owned corporations alone, according to Rubino's figures, had an investment of more than $128,000,000 in Cuban sugar mills as follows:

Cuban-American Sugar company, a New Jersey corporation, controlling six Cuban corporations with total assets of more than $69,000,000.

Manati Sugar company, a New York corporation, $21,500,000.

Punta Alegre Sugar company, a Delaware corporation, $30,345,422.

Guantanamo Sugar company, a New Jersey corporation, $12,670,247.

Cia Azuc Andres Gomez Mexa, a Cuban corporation owned by Americans $29,889,304.

United Fruit company, a New Jersey corporation, $42,000,000.

Miranda Sugar company, a Cuban corporation owned by Americans, $20,728,493.

The Americans, $20,728,493. The which Rubino was connected officially at the time of his testimony.

His list of other American corporations with investments in Cuban sugar includes also:

American Sugar Refining company, a New Jersey corporation, $30,000,000.

Hershey Corporation, owned

Delaware corporation, $11,500,000.

All told, 48 American-owned corporations are included in Rubino's list but the foregoing companies are the largest, in point of assets, with more than two-thirds of the total American investment.

The 48 companies cited by Rubino, according to his statement, "owned or controlled" 4,543,407 acres of Cuban cane sugar land. MUSIC AND MUSICIANS

By ROY HARRISON DANFORTH.
The shut-in and the hospital may participate in music week there has been arranged a special committee to provide musical programs for the benefit and pleasure of the sick. Mrs. Blanche Ashley as committee chairman, called a meeting of her helpers Thursday afternoon and steps were taken to get in touch with every shut-in and hospital in Oakland. The assisting committee members are: Mrs. A. P. Matson, secretary, Caro Roma, Mrs. B. A. Clauson, Mrs. A. Kaufman, Mrs. C. King Graham, Miss Garrison, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hoyt, Mrs. Unico Marcell, Mrs. Isabelle Martin, Mrs. Wolpert-DeLuchi, Mrs. Noble Sherborne West, Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. Weissman and Miss Fannie Vaughan. The committee in toto will hold another meeting on Thursday, May 3, at the Athens hotel, room 204. Miss Vaughan is representing the musical needs of the Salvation Army. That no hospital or shut-in may be deprived of music during music week from May 6-13 inclusive, for the children, is going to be for it. Music in the homes is coming in for special attention and this week every child in the Oakland schools will receive a leaflet to take home to his parents asking that they have some family songs or recitals for their own children and invite in other children if convenient. This leaflet also calls attention to the big events that are scheduled for the municipal auditorium.

Miss Edna E. Binard, president of the Soroptimist club, has a way of making a program planned for their Monday luncheon, May 7, Carl Anderson, with his double quartet will give a group of songs; Mrs. (W. F.) Violet Wheeler Rucker will play a group of her own composition, and Mr. William Johnson, a famous singer of songs, will contribute some numbers. The other service clubs are all having programs arranged for their weekly luncheons.

Motion picture houses are co-operating and will insert musical numbers between pictures. At the Chinese theater, Irving Krick, a talented young pianist of Berkeley, will appear.

Madame Gabrielle Wood, orth, an opera singer, has charge of music in the hotels. At the Hotel Oakland she will be heard one evening during the week, and with a company of singers, all in Italian costume singing Italian airs.

ROCK RIDGE WOMEN WILL OFFER SONGS.

to Oakland's Music Week will be one of varied interest.

Among the numbers will be three piano solos by members of the music section, Miss Hazel Such, Miss Anneline Hervey and Mrs. B. C. Dykes.

Soprano solos by Mrs. Frank Butler and Mrs. Milton Ish will be featured.

A quartet chosen from the choral will render several selections. The four women comprising the quartet are Mrs. Frank Butler, Mrs. L. S. Holchins, Mrs. Etta W. Brooks and Mrs. Henry Usinger.

The choral will sing selections by Schubert, Macy, Ambrose, Warner, Foster and other well known composers, and Mrs. U. C. Hohuan, director of the choral, will give a brief talk on Music Week and the community spirit.

NEWS of the LABOR WORLD

"We all look to our morrows, some with one dream, some with another; but we all look for something better, for some more adequate and satisfying," said Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, in a message to the annual convention of the Workers' Education Bureau of America, "The future is endorsed by the federation, which has representation upon the bureau's executive board.

President Gompers said he regarded the work of the bureau as of unusual and lasting importance. "Knowledge is one of the most potent sources of power in all the world," he said.

At the last meeting of the Carpenters' Union, Local No. 2523, a concert was given, the talent all being members of the union. Several prominent speakers from the building trades industry were present and spoke of the organizing campaign that is now in progress.

The Oakland school for apprentice carpenters has been taken over by the woodworking unions affiliated with the Building Trades Council and will be financed by these organizations. Charles Gurney, secretary for the local building trades council, has been elected secretary-treasurer of the committee in charge of the project. All communications seeking information on the apprentice school for carpenters should be addressed to Gurney at the Labor Temple, Eleventh and Franklin streets. No effort is to be spared in the instruction of young men in trade. Competent instructors are in charge. No fee is charged the students.

The Retail Clerks' Union of Oakland have resumed their early-closing campaign and are visiting all of the labor unions in the county, requesting their co-operation in assisting in the movement to shop before 5 p. m. James Griffin, business representative for the clerks, states that the movement has the endorsement of the largest stores in the city.

At the last meeting of the Building Trades and Central Labor Council a communication was received from the Police and Firemen's committee, thanking the members of organized labor for its aid in securing a copy FREE OF CHARGE by Building Dept. 14.

At the last meeting of the Auto Mechanics' committee was appointed to arrange for the annual high jinks. This organization is one of the largest labor organizations in the county, and has only been organized for a short time. Reliable authorities after scientific investigation have brought forth the startling fact that more illness is caused by sickness and industrial accidents, most of which are preventable, than by industrial disputes—strikes—according to a statement issued by an official of the International Cigar-makers' Union. The statement issued at San Francisco is called "Strikes or lockouts account for loss of time which is equal to about one-twelfth of the loss caused by illness."

A call has been issued by Secretary Sanford of the Butchers' Union, Local No. 120, for a special meeting to be held Tuesday evening, May 1, 1923, at 8 p. m., in the local labor temple.

The entertainment committee of the quarterly meeting of the executive committee of the California State Federation of Butcher Workmen was held in the San Francisco Labor temple last Sunday, and was attended by all of the committee. Reports were received from all sections of the State and showed that the butchers' organization is progressing rapidly. Secretary Sanford of the State organization, who is acting as the secretary for the Butchers' union of this city, submitted a detailed report of the activities of the local organization. He showed in the report that the conditions in the meat industry in Oakland during the past few months have greatly improved, and that it would only be but a short time that the local organization would have affiliated with it all of the people employed in the local meat industry.

Organizer Danbacher, who was present at the meeting, reported that the Asiatic Exclusion League had definitely established headquarters in Oakland and that a campaign would be inaugurated in the immediate future.

STAND ON HIGHWAY GIVEN

would do the same if you were in their place.

They credit the Lincoln Highway Association with the good work it has undeniably done in pioneering transcontinental highway development, but they also resent the call sent out by that association urging its friends to use all their influence upon the federal government and its bureau of public roads to force the designation of their line as a seven per cent highway.

I have been intimately associated with the bureau of public roads and its engineers for the past ten years. From Director MacDonald down they are all men of the attainments and high ideals. They have gone over both routes from Salt Lake City West. They don't care a rap for either of the organizations which you bring into the issue and their interest is only to see that the state selects such roads for its 7 per cent federal aid system as will best serve the interests of both government and state and best enter into that plan, now in the background but coming closer each year, which in time will put all transcontinental highways under federal control and give us what we all want, a national highway system.

And lastly again once more the country procher who use to have more than one "lastly." Here I am, a Californian, in charge of a national organization with headquarters at Topeka, Kansas, interested in developing a way across this country which the automobile owner can travel in safety and comfort, not envious of or inimical to any other organization engaged in doing the same thing, believing honestly that our line is the best and knowing, beyond the shadow of a doubt, that the growth of this country, and its requirements supplies the best reason for the development of more than one transcontinental highway.

There is room for the Union Pacific and the Western Pacific railways. California wants both of them and appreciates how they function in the development. There is room for two transcontinental highways also serving Oakland and San Francisco, each with its own convenience and each paying its way from the west into the west.

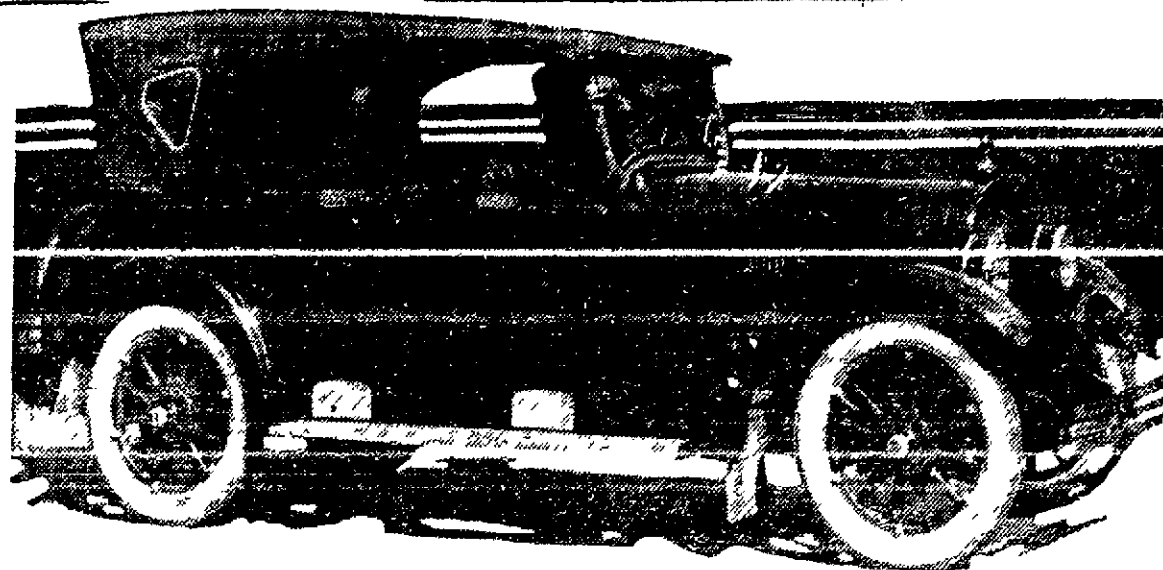

Insofar as our organization is concerned, we are not competitive with any other line. In the selection of route we have been governed by the advice of our building engineers, pavement and state. In selecting our line across western Utah and Nevada we took their advice. We believe, more firmly every day, that this advice was good.

Very truly yours,
BEN BLOW,
Vice President and General Manager.

T. S.—In all fairness it seems to me as if you should publish this letter, for the facts set forth are based upon the truth. The foregoing is a rather lengthy letter from Ben Blow vice-president and general manager of the Victory Highway association. Blow made the request that it be published in full and his wish is being carried out. By way of review of the Utah controversy which is occupying considerable newspaper space, let it be said that the Oakland Chamber of Commerce in its meeting last Tuesday night in introducing the plan to raise $10,000 for the Victory Highway association, which money is intended to be spent in Nevada and Utah, also went on record urging that Utah give the Lincoln Highway federal recognition west of Salt Lake City.

This action is declared by Gail Hoag, field secretary of the Lincoln Highway association, to be an agreeable plan in the opinion of this organization.

Now, getting into Blow's letter. He comments upon the state of completion on what is known as Route 2, a new road across the state of Missouri. The writer declared in a signed story appearing in this section on April 8, that the Victory Highway across Missouri was not yet built. Blow answers that remark by saying the Missouri section of this highway is 45 per cent complete or under contract and in all probability it will be completed under contract by the end of this year. This particular section is 256 miles in extent. Using Blow's own figures, no more than 115 miles has been completed.

Very reliable reports from Missouri say that a bare fraction has been finished. In the fifth paragraph he says, "When this line is completed, and it will be finished at least two years before the road you are advocating is paved across Iowa, the Victory Highway will be paved from New York City to Salina, Kansas, with the exception of 50 miles which will be gravelled. Remember, the frame of the road is to be put in concrete. Information from the highway authorities in Iowa justifies the statement that Iowa will very likely be paved across its entire distance in two years' time."

The route across Illinois on the Lincoln Highway is 225 miles in extent. All but 15 miles is paved. The 15 miles embrace three sections on which controversies have existed which have now been cleared up. Contracts have, or will be let for their completion during 1923. So, while Blow is correct in saying Illinois' portion on the Lincoln Highway is not entirely finished, he also neglected to mention that portion which is yet unpaved. In Ohio all but 40 miles is paved and this 40 for the most part is good macadam or gravelled. Back up to the condition in Utah, Blow says "Do you suppose the state of Utah as a state can any more for the Victory Highway than it does for the Lincoln?" I can assure you that it does not. With all of Blow's knowledge of Utah conditions, he should by this time be well informed of the contract existing between Utah and which have not been lived up to. He is up to the condition in Utah, was association officials, and this belief is borne out by every fair-minded person who has read the contract. The writer is inclined to think Blow also agrees that Utah should make good its promise to complete the Lincoln Highway contract.

The writer knows the state of Utah cares considerably more for the Victory Highway than it does for the Lincoln. The only reason organizations or officials outside of Utah comment on Utah's road policy is mainly because they believe Utah has failed to live up to its promise made to the Lincoln Highway association.

The writer is just as anxious as Mr. Blow is to see more than one he improved its prosperity is to last. That is the statement of a prominent financial commentator. Today's prosperity comes from the leading centers of living, and is in a way, a continuance of last year's record-breaking business in the automotive field. That cannot go on and on indefinitely, and the automobile manufacturers realize that fact. True, that Los Angeles, San Francisco and other Pacific coast cities prove that the more cars there are in the center the more will be sold. But the statement has been made that the great city of New York is today "fed up" on cars and dealers of the great metropolitan centers state their conviction that the saturation point in New York City, at least, has been attained. In other cities of the East there have been similar reports and little straws show which way the wind blows.

Shrives was here in the large cities and that made for good times this year. In the present night-riding era shows will be kept bare to an extent, for it is believed that later on there will be a recession in prices. This situation will develop with a falling off in demand.

There has arisen some comment with relation to officials reported in connection with some manufacturers in the automotive field during these record-breaking business times. As has been stated before, many manufacturers have been badly hurt by the war, and are now endeavoring to hold prices. With materials always going up manufacturers see profits dwindling rapidly. Demands upon them to liquidate "profits" of the war are coming at an inopportune period and cause troubles. Prosperity for many has brought losses, and the period of increased prices of cars looms in the offing for the very reason that conditions compel it.

WILMER GIVEN LARGER PLACE

Directors of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company have approved a plan proposed by E. C. Wilmer for the executive management of the company. Wilmer, chairman of the board of directors and the executive committee, will permanently relocate in New York continuing to assume and carry full personal responsibility for the supervision and management of the company's operations. He will retain the presidency of the California and Canadian companies. It is emphasized that the arrangement now consummated preserves the present personnel intact.

HIGH POWER IS WOMAN DRIVER'S AID

"The advantages to the woman motorist of driving a high-powered car are being emphasized in demonstrations by Chandler dealers with cars equipped with the new Pike's Peak motor," states Charles L. Hebrank of Hebrank, Hunter & Peacock Co., Chandler and Cleveland dealers here.

"A high-powered car ordinarily is associated with the idea of a man's car." Unthinking motorists simply associate power with speed. "As a fact, a reserve of power at instant command is of as much, if not more, advantage to the woman driver as to the man."

"This was demonstrated recently in a striking way. A physician buying a car for his wife told a Chandler dealer that he wished his wife would become less reluctant to drive the car. She always had hesitated to take a car through city traffic because of the frequent shifting of gears required and constant need of guarding against stalling the motor."

"The result was that the physician was invited to let his wife drive one of the Pike's Peak powered cars through the thickest of city traffic. As she sat in the driver's seat headed toward the most congested districts of the city, the salesman dropped her a word that the simplest way to avoid shifting gears was not to shift them."

"How do you mean?" she asked. "Leave the gears in high throughout this demonstration!" "This was done, and to the amazement of the physician and to his wife, and after each of the man stops the car was started up again without touching the gear lever. Of course, this manner of driving was not recommended as the constant practice for the customer, but it was effective as a demonstration of how a high-powered motor may give assurance to the woman driver."

"Stalling a car is what most women seem to dread most, and at the same time have been a reluctance to shift gears. Every woman fears being made conspicuous at a busy street intersection by stalling her car where it will block traffic. The gentle attention given to the stalling car by the traffic policeman does not add any to the fair driver's composure and usually results in a longer delay than would otherwise result."

"Business was never better and cars are in big demand in spite of the inclement weather this month, and will be better from now on."

This is the way Tom Carney, well-known used car dealer, explains the situation.

Business in March was even better than in February, and April, in spite of the inclement weather, will be the best month this year," states Carney.

"The demand for good used cars has shown a great increase in the last few months, and we look for increasing trade throughout the summer."

"As the vacation season approaches, we find that the demand always gains, and we are preparing for that."

The STAR Car Riding comfort

Riding comfort is more than big springs—although the STAR Car's springs are semi-elliptic and 48 inches long.

Riding comfort is more than low seats and well-pitched high backs—although the STAR Car's seats are exceptionally well placed and well pitched.

Riding comfort is more than low center of gravity, well-braced frame, and ample leg room—although the STAR Car has all these features, to an unusual degree.

Riding comfort is the COMBINATION of ALL these features, plus good seat springs, plus convenience of arrangements for the driver.

The STAR has this COMBINATION. That is why it is the most comfortable of all low-priced cars to ride in.

Prove it by demanding a ride!

Studebaker LIGHT-SIX

THE Light-Six is the Studebaker Corporation's answer to the public's demand for a car that combines the four great basic requirements of any automobile—efficiency, comfort, durability and economy—yet at a price within reach of the masses.

Since the Light-Six was designed in 1919 it has gone through refining processes that only a great organization like the Studebaker Corporation could apply. Through the most severe tests of stamina and efficiency to which any automobile could be put the Studebaker Light Six has come triumphant. It is now firmly established as a car of outstanding value and lasting satisfaction.

It is a perfectly balanced six-cylinder car of 40-horse power, refined and improved to the minute. It was designed for economy.

An Invitation To Motorists TODAY is the last day you can SEE THE NEW PERFECTED MAXWELL CHASSIS in our salesroom

A Surprise Awaits You if You Have Not Seen It

Do You Know That

The Good Maxwell has a three-bearing crankshaft. It is the only car in its price class that has full force-feed lubrication through a drilled crank shaft. It has two flexible disc type universal joints that require no attention or lubrication. It has semi-floating over-sized rear-end of the finest construction with chrome nickel steel gears, drop-forged, hardened and heat treated. Pressed steel housing with removable inspection plate. The ease of riding is due to the unusually long springs—semi-elliptic type, 36 inches long in front and 53 inches in rear.

COME IN! SEE WHY

Come in and see why the Good Maxwell has taken its place in public regard and favor. You can not fully realize the marked changes which have been made in the Good Maxwell until you examine this cut open chassis. It has much too many refinements to describe.

AUTO BILLS SUPPORTED BY OWNERS

By Percy E. Towne.
(General Counsel California State Automobile Association.)

The interest of the motorists of California is now centered on two items of pending legislation. One is Senate Bill No. 115, introduced by Senator Arthur H. Breed of Piedmont, president pro-tem of the state senate, the new motor vehicle act, which is to be amended to change its name to "California Vehicle Act," and the other is Senate Bill No. 131, also introduced by Senator Breed and popularly known as the gasoline tax act.

These two measures have the support of the State Supervisors' Association, the California Farm Bureau Federation, the California State Automobile Association, the Automobile Club of Southern California, the Peace Officers' Association and other organizations.

ACT IS PASSED.
The California Vehicle Act has been passed by the senate and is now before the assembly for consideration. The opposition to this measure has been eliminated to the point where there is practically no organized effort to defeat any portion of it. The only portions of the act which were seriously questioned involved the matter of fees, weights and lights.

The antiquated horsepower tax has no adherents. This tax was never logical, just nor equitable. It was arbitrary and afforded no differential between vehicles in constant use and those which were seldom operated, except on Sundays and holidays. It never was a satisfactory method of metering the use of the highways.

The present law permits a weight of 30,000 pounds on four wheels for trucks. In conference the representatives of the truck people agreed to a reduction to a 22,000-pound weight limit, with a proper arrangement insuring to them the right to continue the use of their present equipment for a certain period. They desired assurance of the right to operate with the same weight limit on state and county roads, with certain exceptions where a reduction of weight might be necessary in order to preserve some particular section of state or county highway, which would not sustain the maximum weight.

The so-called gasoline tax, as provided in Senate Bill No. 121, amounts to a collection of 2 cents per gallon at the source from the people who handle the business of distributing gasoline in this state. This does not include the retail distributor, and the expense of collection is reduced to a minimum because of the small number of taxpayers with whom the department must deal.

It is anticipated that all these matters will receive the attention of the assembly next week, and it is hoped that the favorable reception of the approval of both houses without any further material change.

Export Man Goes To Other Concern

Colonel Fred Carway, formerly vice-president and general manager of Packard Motors Export Corporation, and well known in the automotive export trade, has been appointed director of exports for the Haynes Automobile Company, with offices in New York city.

New Car Arrives In Oakland

This is the new Chalmers touring car, which was received by the Mustar Motor Company last week. There are many changes in the motor but few in the chassis and so only slight. A new car is completely equipped.

THE SUNDAY MOTORIST

An Abridged Magazine for Car Owners
EDITED BY WILLIAM ULLMAN

Isn't it about time to feature the automobile in art work? The cow has been lapping up the babbling brook for centuries; and it's no longer accurate. Brooks are now used to refill empty radiators.

X-RAYING A PROPHECY.

The announcement that production for the year will reach 3,000,000 new cars and trucks seems to worry a lot of people who cannot see what we are going to do with this enormous increase in membership of the motoring clan. "Three million more cars!" they exclaim. "And traffic is already a serious problem."

Calm reason refuses to become alarmed. There may be 3,000,000 new cars sold, but there will not be 2,000,000 more cars on the streets. Nor 2,000,000. If his story means anything there probably will be 1,500,000 more cars to worry about; and most of these, it should be recalled, will be sold to people living outside the large cities.

In 1921 production reached 1,680,000, while registrations increased from 9,118,000 to 10,000,000, or 882,000, a little more than one-half of the year's production. In 1922 production reached 2,527,000, while registrations went ahead approximately 1,500,000. This increase in the proportion of registrations to production was largely due to improvement in business conditions, intensive selling and a revival of the under-a-thousand-dollar class of cars.

Business is still improving, as demonstrated by the recent income tax returns, but there should be a great many more cars for the junk heap this year. The increased production of cheap cars means shorter lives for machines and quicker replacement sales. Much of this will come into evidence within the next few months. There also will be the usual percentage of replacements, which in the past has averaged from a third to a half of the annual production. For about 1,500,000 of the new cars sold this year, therefore, one will find an equal number passing into the ob-lition of the junk heap, where the traffic problem is as foreign as Sanskrit.

THE OLD MECHANIC SAYS:

"It's certainly a puzzle to me why so few drivers can shift gears without disturbing the peace of the neighborhood. Just listen to that fellow now. You'd think he had never handled a car before, and I'll bet he's been at it for five or ten years. He's shifting the gears by main force—when they shift. It's just about as sensible as trying to start the engine with the ignition off."

"When Joe Brown was in here with some trouble last week I told him point blank that the actual mechanical trouble with his transmission didn't hold a candle to the trouble with his gear shifting. I showed him that his habit of pulling and pushing on the shift lever wasn't helping him a bit. He could do more with one finger if he would learn at just exactly what position the clutch pedal actually releases the clutch."

If you shift from "low" to "second" the idea is to get the engine running slower with respect to the speed of the transmission drive shaft, the propeller shaft and the rear wheels. But you can't slow up your engine quickly unless you try some trick business; therefore, you release the engine and make the gear change with the clutch driving the main gear (pinion gear) of the transmission. If you wait too long in the process the clutch comes to rest and hesitates to allow the gear combination to be changed. If you try to shift too soon, as you do when you force the gears into "second" when the clutch is not fully released, the clutch and main driving gear are turning too fast.

The same sort of reasoning applies when you shift from "second" to "high," in which case you've got to slow down the engine and clutch suitably. But when you shift "down" from "high" to "second" you reverse the process. Get your speed relations right, know when the clutch is really released and the gears will almost shift themselves. Try it."

CLIMBING AND TIMING.

When your car does some remarkable piece of slow hill-climbing in "high" don't be too ready to lavish praise upon it; there may be something wrong with it.

Bear this in mind: If the engine pulls exceptionally well when being driven uphill slowly it should pull equally well when driven fast. If its power seems to be confined to slow pulling you're not likely to be wrong in suspecting that the timing is late.

Late timing will improve slow hill climbing very much, as very advanced timing will improve speed. In the former case the engine will lack speed; in the latter it will lack power on hills.

THOUGHTS IN PASSING.

From results it seems that the reckless driver is invariably the "reckless more" sort.

The price of gas never could compare with the price of carelessness in using it.

New tires are a great attraction to the car—and to the tire thief.

"To be careful or to be more careful"—that is the question.

The last word in motoring is invariably "Have we got gas?"

The automobile recently celebrated its twenty-fifth birthday. Did you notice twenty-five million headlights on the birthday cake?

Never strike a tire when it's down.

WORTH REMEMBERING.

It requires much more time to fit new bearings to a crankshaft than to re-fit old ones. The new bearings have to be hand-scraped and laboriously fitted so that no points of their surface bear upon the crankpins more than the old ones. The work cannot be done right if done hastily, so don't blame your repairer if the time charges on the bill seem excessive.

When some part of the motor is out of alignment it is best to replace new parts all around, for one new part—perfect in itself—combined with an old one frequently develops just as bad results as were had with the old defective parts.

WATCHING GAS SUPPLY.

The speedometer is a very valuable piece of equipment but don't depend upon its odometer reading to tell you when the gas supply needs replenishing. Mileage is not the only indication of gas consumption. All the "miles" the engine idles are never recorded, nor the leaks in the carburetor, tank or gas line.

NEW CAR HAS POWERFUL MOTOR

The first of the new Chalmers cars, new throughout, has arrived here, and has been thoroughly tested by W. W. Smith, sales manager of the Mustar Motor Company, Chalmers and Maxwell dealers here.

"The new Chalmers is new throughout, from rear end to fly-wheel and dian," states Smith.

"The differential and rear axle construction is heavier and better balanced. It is Timken throughout, built to stand tremendous strains. The universals are of the new all-metal type running in oil and require no attention. They are lubricated automatically.

"The clutch is of the disc type of velvet softness and operates with slight pressure and engages smoothly and efficiently.

"A new transmission eliminates gear box noises and gives better driving power throughout.

"The motor is a brand new power plant throughout. The engine has been completely re-designed, from fan belt to flywheel. There is a new water pump provided now, and the whole has much more power than was ever built into a previous Chalmers automobile.

"One of the remarkable features of the new motor is the Oliveac system of gasoline feed which provides constant gasoline supply and regulates the circulation of oil in the motor by the pressure on the control throttle. This device so regulates the oil pressure that when the motor is turning over rapidly there is more oil supplied and vice versa. When anything happens in the oil line which stops the free circulation of oil, the motor stops until the trouble can be located. This eliminates the chance of burning out bearings and scoring cylinders.

We have tested the car on the hills of Oakland and find that it has great power and is mighty economical on gasoline, too.

HANDY EQUIPMENT.

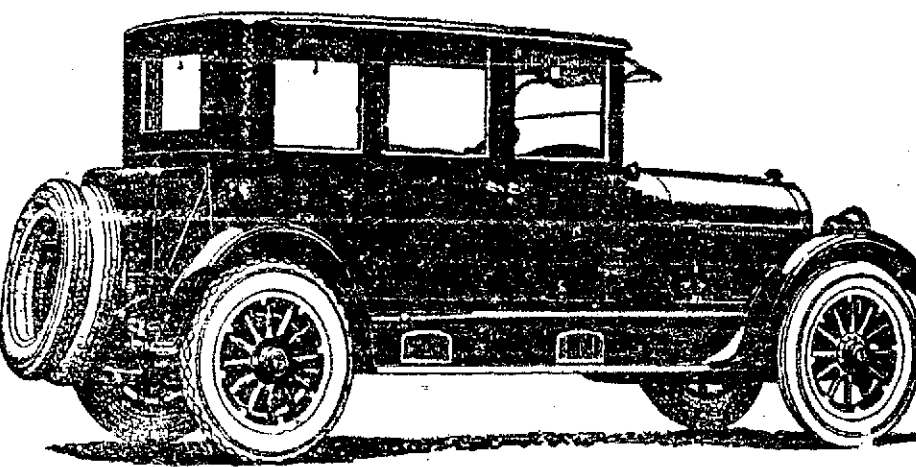

A rubber mallet for hammering polished surfaces should be a part of the tools of every car. This tool is found invaluable for taking out dents in the fenders or similar disfigurements.

STANDARD OF THE WORLD

After all, the test of value is demand;—the increasing public preference for Type 61 is clear evidence that the public is convinced of the car's unapproached value.

When Speed, Power and Reliability Count

What Stronger Proof Could Be Had Than These Two Wonderful Records?

The entire motor world was astounded when Joe Nikrent last week dashed over the sands of the Mojave desert with his six-cylinder, 1923, model 45 Buick nonstock car, establishing a new record of 100 miles per hour in 100 seconds.

Last year Mrs. Z. Kathleen Ayers thrilled the public by hanging up a new inter-city record between San Francisco and Portland of 22 hours 43 minutes, in an absolutely stock model four-cylinder, 1922 Buick coupe. This nonstop record run never has been equaled despite many attempts to lower same.

These tests of speed, reliability and endurance are not made with the intention of having the Buick re-enter the racing game. They are for the sole purpose of demonstrating the power and economy of the Buick Valve-in-head Motor, and the sturdy construction and easy-riding qualities of both the four-cylinder and six-cylinder Buick models, under the highest speed attainable.

SEE WEST ALL WHO FIRST, NEW AUTO CALL

By H. I. PRESS.
(A Former Easterner.)
"Go West, young man!"
"The sunshine and climate of California," "The visible crags of the Cascade Mountains and the white domes of the Olympics, those two towering sentinels of Washington." "The tall timbers of the Northwest," "Stately trees, centuries old, large enough in circumference to permit a truck to drive through," "The climate of large California cities, more climate and then some more climate!" "The world renowned Crater Lake of Medford, Ore.," "El Camino Real, the road of missions," "Portland, the city of roses," "Towering mountain ranges of unsurpassed beauty with the little top-like villages nestled safely in the valleys and foothills."
These are only a few excerpts from the many expressions one hears from the westerner the moment he hits the East. To the cautious Easterner who has never been west of the western boundary of his county or state these sentimental descriptions mean nothing. He has heard them before; he has read all about the "Golden Glorious West" and he gives the Westerner credit for being a booster, but secretly he grins and winks and thinks that nothing can outdo the wonders of his own native state.

Sport Cars Prove Popular Type

when he sees that word of mouth or printer's ink can never do justice to the rare beauties of our glorious West! It does not take him long to fall in line and become as ardent a booster as the native son—in fact, he wants to be considered a native son.
Is it any wonder that the tourist feels as he does towards the West? Is it any wonder that countless thousands of people visit the national parks and other points of beauty and interest each year? Is it any wonder, considering the natural advantages, that thousands of camping enthusiasts fall in line and answer the call of the open road? The Western Auto Supply Company keenly appreciates the needs of the camper. In selecting their most complete line of camping equipment in the West they keep constantly in mind the comfort of the man or woman who will use this equipment. Thousands of campers, transient and resident, turn to the Western Auto Supply Company for assistance in selecting the just right thing for the contemplated trip, whether that be a few hundred miles away from civilization or the community camp ground.

NEW SLOGAN FOUND.
This season the Western Auto Supply Company, through its displays and its salesmen, hopes to stimulate, within the hearts of thousands of "stay-at-homes," a desire to get out into the open and a desire to learn more about their own section of the country; a desire to enjoy the health and happiness that God intended us to enjoy when He gave us this most beautiful West.
It matters not where you live, turn east, west, north or south and your eyes will gaze upon some work of nature, so invigorating in its beauty as to extract exclamations of surprise, pleasure and amazement.
This season make your slogan: "See the West First!"

RECORD MADE FOR GAS SAVING

A Star car piloted by T. Adolph Oss of Eureka, Cal., has put up a record for gasoline economy that will make the other "little fellows" envious. To be exact his feat was none less than a demonstration that a Star could give 27.85 miles to the gallon.
This remarkable performance was accomplished not in a short run, but on a long journey of 188 miles, this being the distance from Eureka to Garberville and return. Oss has made an affidavit before a notary public that in covering this 188 miles he used only 6.75 gallons of gasoline, an average of 27.85 miles per gallon.

BATTERY MAN ENLARGES STORE

R. E. Graham, well-known battery expert, who has been connected with the Exide agency here for two years, has taken over the business under his own name and has moved his shop and service station to Twenty-third street, from the old Broadway store.

The firm was formerly known as Dooling & Graham. Thomas Dooling left this year to take a big position with the Electric Storage Battery Company, makers of Exide batteries, and sold his interest in the local firm to Graham.
"We have installed the constant potential charging system which reduces the time required to charge a battery from a few days to one, and makes certain that the electric current goes into the battery in the right direction," states Graham.
"In addition to the battery department we have arranged to have an electrical expert in the shop, too. This department will be in charge of B. E. Thomas, who has been doing electrical work in this city for many years.
"Our new establishment on Twenty-third street, between Webster and Valdes street, is completely equipped for electrical and battery work, and we have experts on hand all the time to see that the work is done carefully."

PROMOTER RECEIVES PRISON SENTENCE

Samuel J. Pandolfo, convicted $3,000,000 "Ponzi" left Chicago in custody of Federal marshals April 8 to begin a 10-year sentence in Leavenworth penitentiary for an alleged fraudulent stock sale.

Pandolfo, head of the Pan Motor company of Minnesota, was found guilty two years ago. Twelve alleged associates of Pandolfo were tried with him and acquitted. Since his conviction his attorneys have unsuccessfully tried in every way possible through legal methods to secure a new trial or reversal. Pandolfo made extensive use of the mails in his stock schemes. He testified at the trial, however, that the company had more than $100,000,000 in orders on hand for cars when the government interfered and would have begun production immediately. He declares he is the victim of "newspaper assassination" and that reorganization of the concern will be effected despite the fact that he is in prison.

MOTORIST NEEDS HEAVY CLOTHING

The motorist, leaving Denver, Colo., on a warm summer's day and planning to drive to Rocky Mountain National Park and cross the Continental Divide over the Fall river road, should be prepared with suitable clothing for rapid changes in the temperature as they leave the plains region, represented by Denver, altitude 5273 feet, pass through the mountainous region, represented by the villages of Estes Park, altitude 8000 feet and Long's Peak, altitude 14,260 feet, and climb to the crest of the Continental Divide at Fall River Pass, altitude 11,787 feet, only 30 miles from Denver.

Mean temperature observations by the United States Weather Bureau, extending over a long period of years, give Denver an annual mean temperature of 50.1 degrees; Estes Park, 41.7; Long's Peak, 37.8, and Fall River Pass (records are for Corona, Colo., 137 feet lower), 26.1. It will be noted that with the increase in altitude there is a corresponding decrease in average temperature. Estes Park is eight or nine degrees cooler than Denver; Long's Peak is four degrees cooler than Estes Park, and Fall River Pass is eleven degrees cooler still. April is the month of spring on the plains; corresponding temperatures are reached in Estes Park toward the latter part of May; at Long's Peak in June, and at Fall River Pass they are not fully reached even in midsummer. Similarly, the autumn temperatures come earlier in the higher elevations.
Designed for fast freight service, an eight-wheel motor truck is operated in San Diego, Cal., with a speed of 35 miles an hour. The chassis is built with four rear driving wheels and four front steering wheels.

TWO MONTHS SALES EQUAL 1918 TOTAL

The tremendous recent growth of Hupp mobile sales is perhaps best illustrated in a factory announcement that sales throughout the entire world for March and April alone will be nearly equal to those for the entire year of 1918. This record has been achieved, although the Hupp Motor Car Corporation has been making automobiles for 15 years.

"Hupp business has grown with great rapidity during the last five years. Only in the '02 years of 1921 has it failed to show a substantial increase over the previous annual business. Even during 1921, which was a lean year for every motor car manufacturer, the corporation's sales showed a smaller decline than those of almost any other automobile company," states Charles L. Hebrank of Hebrank, Hunter & Peacock Co., Hupp dealers here.

"Hupp sales figure for the last five years show that 1918 business was nearly double that of 1918, 1920 materially exceeded 1919, and 1922 domestic sales were more than twice those of 1920. This year the corporation is again breaking all former records and though capacity production has been maintained since January, the demand for its cars is exceeding the supply.

"Officials of the corporation believe that practically every one of those 1918 cars is in active service today, together with thousands of still earlier models.

AUTO TOP HAS GOOD FEATURES

One of the first automobile companies in America to introduce the permanent top on its open models without adding to their price was the Peerless. Several noteworthy exclusive features are used in the design and manufacture of the top and curtains of the new Peerless cars, according to A. K. McLuney, president and general manager of the Pioneer Motor Company, local Peerless direct factory branch.

"Each Peerless top must conform to the precise specifications," explains McLuney. "Each top is fitted to the individual car by hand as the bodies are completed. Peerless builds all its open model bodies in its own plant at Cleveland."

Vaudeville Man Makes a Lyric

FRANK SANFORD, manager of the Howard Automobile Company, Buick distributors, has broken into print again with a vaudeville stunt, that should cost him a dollar a line.

Here is the story:

At Sheam, of the vaudeville team made world famous by a song, recently bought a Buick sedan for his son, Larry.

The Buick factory lyricist ventures that when Sheam informed his partner, Ed Gallagher, of the purchase, the conversation that ensued was probably about as follows:

"Oh, Mr. Gallagher!"

"Yes?"

"Oh, Mr. Gallagher!"

"Well?"

"Let me take you in my son's car out to dine; it's a beauty, I declare—it will pull me anywhere—in fact, I'll say it's running simply fine."

"Oh, Mr. Sheam!"

"I'm listening."

"Oh, Mr. Sheam!"

"What is it?"

"I'm not sure I know the motor car you mean, but you say it is so choice, can it be a new Rolls Royce?"

"It's a Buick, Mr. Gallagher."

"That explains it, Mr. Sheam."

AGENT PROMISES CAR INSPECTION

"We have had many requests during the last 30 days from Chevrolet owners to look their cars over to see if they were properly performing," claims Harold D. Kaudson.

"When we have done so without charging for such inspection we have been quite surprised to know that the majority of owners do not know that our service department is so operated."

"Many times when there are a number of adjustments to be made our service department is instructed to quote the price if an extra charge is necessary. If the owner then decides to have the work done we do it quickly and as inexpensively as possible. If the owner decides not to have the work done there is no charge for our inspection."

Missouri leads all other states with 18,800 motor trucks on farms; Pennsylvania is second, with 12,631, and Iowa, third, with 7313 trucks.

SAFE GUARD FOR HIGHWAY HELD UP

An injunction was secured during the past week by two of the abutting property owners of Colma who are seeking to prevent the construction of the concrete protection curb in front of their property.

The curbing along the one and one-half mile section of the state highway south of Colma is being installed by the State Highway Commission as a means of preventing collisions between automobiles and interurban electric cars.

The good roads bureau of the California State Automobile Association had ascertained that twenty-seven people had been killed at this point during the past eight years, and it was due largely to their persistent efforts that the state and United Fruit Company finally agreed to construct this protection.

The work has been going on for the past several weeks, and except for that part now in controversy is almost completed. That it will be effective in preventing future accidents is the unanimous opinion of those who have viewed it.

"It so happens that the most dangerous place," stated H. J. Brunner, chairman of the good roads committee of the C. S. A. A. is one where the controversy exists, and we have instructed our attorney, George B. Lindford, to do everything possible to assist the highway commission to get this matter settled that the work may not be delayed.

REPAIR EXPERT WILL NOT MOVE

A G. Ham well-known automobile repair expert, with headquarters on Twelfth street, will remain in his present quarters and has no plans under way to move as was erroneously stated in The Tribune last Sunday.

The G. Ham is well known as Ham & Otis, but I purchased the interests of Otis and am now operating the business under my own name," states Ham.

"We have worked out a system for repairing cars quickly and efficiently, and in addition have a system of loaning cars and trucks to men who need them while their machines are in the shop. The rates for this loan system are low. We are still in our old location and have equipment to do all kinds of repair work rapidly, and at minimum cost."

Push rods should be examined when the engine is hot.

Highways Get Care In National Parks

Great care has been given to the national parks of the United States. Roads have been built through deep-cut canyons, across towering mountain ranges, beside rippling streams filled with the fighting trout and into primal forests. Hotels and camps have been erected to provide comfortable accommodations in the most distant and inaccessible places. Free camp grounds have been provided for those who wish to enjoy the beauty of the equipment and camp out.

Foreign Cities Ask Bids From America

One hundred and twenty-six foreign cities are planning to purchase American-made fire-fighting apparatus. Ninety-five of the cities have asked American manufacturers to enter bids on motorized equipment.

Just Take the Wheel of This Car It's the Nash Six Touring

There's no way to put in words the new vigor and fineness of this car's performance.

But an hour at the wheel in traffic and on rough roads, through heavy going and up hills, will open your eyes.

First you'll sense the ease with which the steering wheel answers your touch. The new steering mechanism does that.

Then you'll note a hair-trigger response to the throttle. That, while instant, is also perfectly smooth. The motor and carburetor improvements account for that.

And you'll find, too, a great wealth of vigorous power that swings you easily and buoyantly up stiff grades.

Beside these features there are such betterments as the tubular-type, cross-member frame construction; the new clutch; the great brakes; and a score of others you must be sure to inspect.

Phone us if you like, or come in and arrange for a real demonstration. We'll let the car give the selling talk.

One of the most gratifying benefits of a Nash ownership, is the excellent character of service we back up the car's performance.

Every advantage that the great Nash resources can command is constantly employed in emphasizing prompt and skillful attention.

A local Nash, for instance, is serviced in remarkably commodious and completely equipped quarters, manned by a corps of expert and veteran Nash mechanics. And each Nash is guarded by a doubly sufficient stock of parts.

Come in, and see how admirably Nash owners are protected.

BIG SHOP BUILDING IS UNDERWAY

The demand for service throughout the automobile industry has led to the erection of adequate buildings and specially designed structures to house these stations.

It is now recognized that service is the first consideration in the automobile industry and that it is just as important to provide adequate service for motor car owners as it is to have a good automobile.

"We have been hampered for space for our service department and repair shop in the past because of the growth of our organization with three men and now have fifty. Our business has grown so fast that we have been forced to get larger quarters. We have in the past leased a large part of a garage for service, but that is not satisfactory."

NEW BUILDING.

"In order to provide adequate facilities we are now erecting a drop-proof building immediately in the rear of our present quarters on Broadway which will be 59 by 150 feet with adequate space for service work."

"In order to save time, we have built a pit, 60 feet long, which will be covered with boards and lined with concrete. Cars can be run over the pit at any time and repairs made. Individual pits have been found to be unhandy because the car has to be placed over the hole accurately. Under our new system we simply drive the car over the boards and cover the pit and get out the boards under the car, leaving those under the wheels to support the machine."

TURNABLE FOR CARS.

"In addition there will be a turntable in the front part of the new building which will eliminate delays in getting cars in and out of the building."

"The new building will be of brick and concrete and will have an entrance on Twenty-third street so that there will be no interference with the present entrance to the used car department on Broadway. Part of the building will be used for the repair shop and the rest for service. There will be a parts department there and a large accessory department, too."

"The new building will have plenty of light and will have four-teen skylights, so that all work will be done in daylight. The service department, with our present building, will give us adequate space to handle our mechanical departments."

Capitol Women Don Overalls to Build Roadway

INSTEAD of buying silk dresses when long skirts came back into style to be ruined in crossing muddy streets, the women of Capitol Heights, a suburb of Washington, D. C., led by Mrs. Grace Stansbury, president of the Capitol Heights Civic League, donned overalls recently and improved the streets and nearby roads.

Capitol Heights is just across the District of Columbia boundary in Maryland. The state would not give any aid for the muddy, rutted roads, but the highway commission consented to lend a road scraper. The husbands contributed the overalls. Then the women gave a series of dinners, carnivals, dances, card parties and popular contests. In this way they raised funds to buy a tractor and a quantity of road material.

Armed with these things and such picks and shovels as they could beg or borrow they went out and, among other things, built a stretch of road one and one-half miles long to link the Marlboro and Annapolis highways. While women mayors, street commissioners, inspectors, contractors and owners of gravel pits have been engaged in highway work for some time this is the first instance on record of voluntary labor on the roads by a group of women.

MOTOR TRUCKS VITAL TO U. S.

What motor trucks mean to outlying districts, as well as to the drayage business, is evidenced by the experience of the Santa Fe Express and Drayage Company of Oakland. This concern has equipment selected to meet almost any requirement. It includes ten motor trucks, sixteen wagons and thirty-five horses. One-half of all the trucks are Macks.

This firm is one of the oldest drayage concerns in Alameda county, according to Chris Rasmussen, manager of the company, at one time he was not thoroughly sold on Mack equipment, but continued use of his first truck showed him the superiority that has led to the realization it is good business to buy high grade equipment exclusively, although the original cost may be more.

The company keeps its trucks in first-class condition and this largely accounts for the fact that excellent service is rendered customers. The company operates under franchise from the Railroad Commission and probably covers more territory than any other Oakland drayage concern. One of the routes is to Martinez by way of the Rodero-Martinez highway. Another route is from Oakland to Hayward and two or three round trips are made daily.

Howard Fredericks, the Oakland Mack representative, endeavored to get a photograph of all five Mack trucks, but this proved impracticable, as Rasmussen told him he did not feel like taking a chance on his other equipment and lay off all the Macks, even for as short a period as would be necessary to have them photographed.

BANNER YEAR FOR AUTO IN AFRICA SEEN

The year 1923 promises to be a banner year for automotive business in South Africa, according to reports to the Department of Commerce from Trade Commissioner P. J. Stevenson, Johannesburg.

burg, and Vice-Consul A. H. Cawston, Cape Town. In spite of the general depression during 1922, there was a steady increase in demand for automobiles in all kinds. Stocks of cars held in bond, which have so hampered the import trade since 1920, have practically disappeared, the 270 cars still located at the principal centers at the end of 1922 representing current stocks which will be cleared and replaced by new models coming in.

While the total number of cars imported during 1922 was more than double the number in 1921, the value was only about one-third greater. American cars, manufactured in the United States and Canada, comprise over 90 per cent of all cars brought into South Africa, and this shift in ratio of values to numbers reflects chiefly the results of lowered prices on the American output, as compared with prices in 1921.

The most gratifying feature about the comparatively heavy shipments received in the last year was sold shortly after arrival. The unusually large number imported during November and December—546 and 538, respectively—in each case more than quadrupled the 137 received in February. Shipments received in the period, January-May, ranged between 137 and 237; in the period, June-October, between 441 and 490.

The best selling car in South Africa is an American designed, Canadian manufactured, light-weight sedan selling for $2200 to $2600. Next to this the best sellers are lightweight American cars selling for $350 to $500. American manufacturers will find difficulty in disposing of cars in South Africa which sell for more than $1200 in the United States. There are more five-passenger touring cars sold than of any other type. A fair number of two-passenger roadsters have lately found the four-passenger sport model very popular.

Although closed cars have had little demand heretofore, a number of American makes were imported recently and sold practically on sight, their lowered prices, together with favorable ocean freight rates, making it possible to quote them at an attractive figure. In spite of the warm weather which prevails during most of the year, the wind and dust and the heavy rainfall in many sections make a closed car desirable, and the demand for that type is likely to

Receiver Named to Conserve Assets

Upon application of bond holders the superior court of Elkhart county, Ind., has appointed a receiver for the Huffman Bros. Motor Company. The action was taken to conserve the assets of the company pending reorganization and refinancing during which the company is continuing to operate without change in management. Earl R. Huffman, general manager, says the cause of receivership is not due to present conditions, but dates back to a previous receivership during which the company became delinquent in its payments on an outstanding bond issue of $165,000 and has not yet caught up.

OIL PLAYS BIG PART IN SPEED TESTS

When Joe Nikrent drove his non-shock Buick at the rate of 100.25 miles per hour it created no little attention in automobile circles, not only in California, but all over the country.

Nikrent is one of the oldest racing drivers and best automobile mechanical experts in the game today and it is a tribute to his skill and ability as well as to the sturdy Buick that he was able to accomplish such wonderful results.

This expert is a crank on detail—every precaution must be taken—everything must be right. He pays special attention to lubrication and the fact that he has used nothing but Pennzoil for the last four years and that he used it for this speed test is a lasting tribute to this high quality lubricant.

NEW AIR RECORDS SET.

The flight of the giant air service monoplane at Dayton, piloted by Lieutenants Kelly and Macready, established two new records, one for endurance and the other for distance. This great transport of the air flew continuously for 36 hours, 5 minutes and 20 seconds, over a distance of 2541 miles. During this flight the Liberty motor did not falter. Dispatches show that its action was perfect and that when taken down after the flight the condition of the motor was truly remarkable.

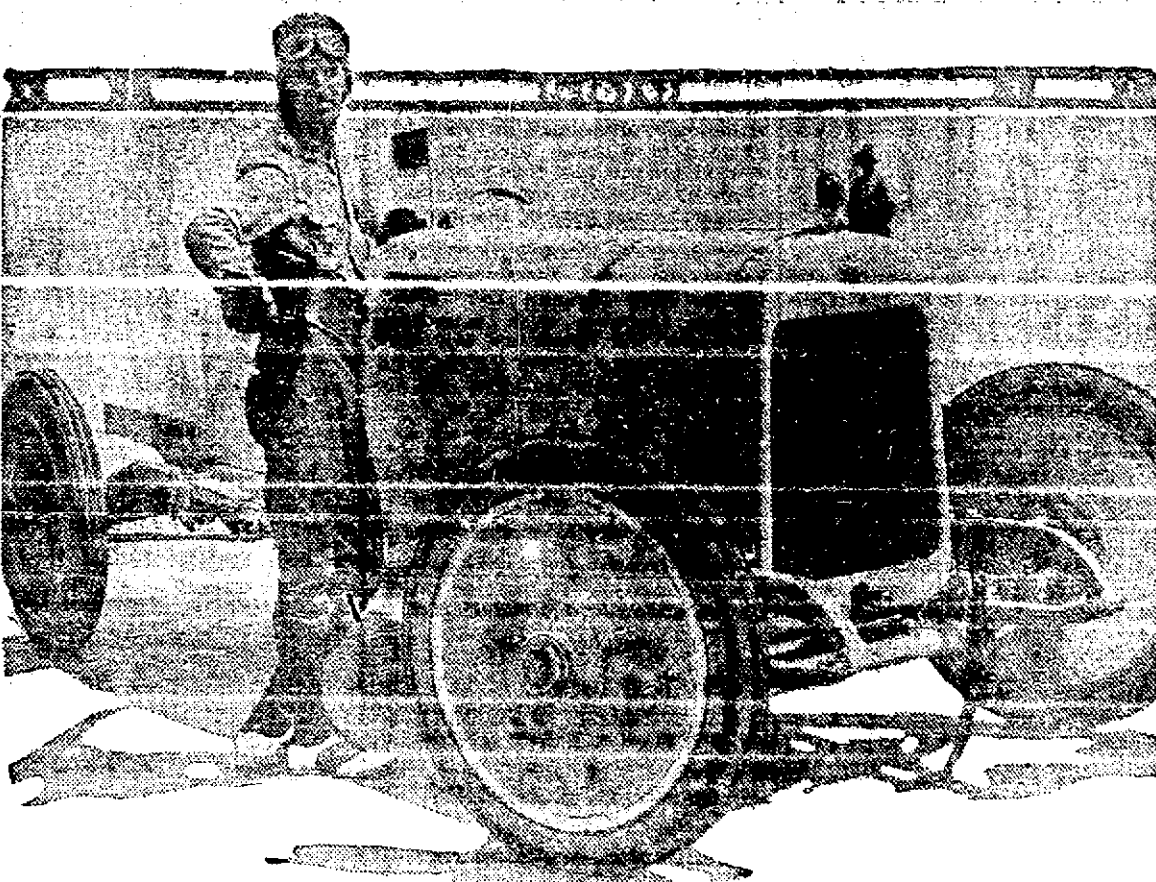

CAREFUL ABOUT OIL.

In this, the longest flight ever accomplished, the motor was subjected to more than ordinary stress and because of the heat developed and the length of the run, an oil of more than ordinary durability and of an extremely high fire point was required. The fact that the aviators from their wide experience and technical knowledge chose Pennzoil for this great flight and for other previous flights of endurance is a tribute of great significance to all interested in automotive development and maintenance.

A telegram received by the local representative of the Pennzoil Company indicated that these aviators will make a transcontinental flight within the next week or two.

"We were indeed glad to receive news of these two great events on the same day," states H. J. Darnley, representative of the Pennzoil Company of California. "But, really, I am not at all surprised at the results."

Fast Time For Mile Run in South
JOE NIKRENT and his Buick Special in which he traveled over 100 miles per hour, on a dry lake in southern California. The car was non-stock machine, and was timed by A. A. officials with electric timing device. The motor was lubricated with Pennzoil.

By DUDLEY GLASS.

Wake me early, wife darling,
for it's near the first of May.

All the highways are improving, growing better every day.
I long to leave the city streets and range the hills afar.

But first there are some little things to fix about the car.

Wake me early, wife, darling,
though I kick and cling to slumber;

I've got to patch that leaking cave and change the timing number.

I faint would sleep till 9 a. m., but loudly duty calls;
Oh, say, do you remember where
I put those overalls?

Wake me early, wife, darling,
make me quit the cozy hay,

For these little jobs will last me
nigh the livelong day.

For I've got to drain the crank-case, and time up the carburetor;

I may get through at supper time, but maybe I'll be later.

Wake me early, wife, darling,
rush the kids to Sunday school,

For my language when I'm working's rather lurid, as a rule.

For I've got to build her over,
and some little things beside.

And then perhaps next Sunday
we may get a chance to ride.

One reason an automobile costs so much, perhaps, is the number of superfluous parts they put into 'em.

We took all the interior anatomy of a rear axle out last Sunday and after we had got it back together again we found eleven pieces there was absolutely no place for.

One of the most satisfying experiences about playing amateur mechanic is taking an engine down, finding something busted you can't fix, and then having to put the whole works together again so she'll limp up to the repair shop.

But, gosh, think of the fun you had before you mashed your thumb!

Bill Grimes was fond of racing trains.

Today, to gather his remains His mourning friends worked all the day
Along six miles of right of way.

—My idea of a real optimist, with the courage of his convictions, is the chap who tinkers up an early 1918 bus so she'll hit on six when she feels like it and then take his trusting family out into the great open spaces eleven miles off a railroad without a tow rope.

SALES MANAGER

ANNOUNCED HERE
BY UNITED PRESS

A new appointment has been made to the staff of A. Greenfield, Broadway Velle dealer, which indicates in a very marked way the strides which that concern is making with its new line.

The new members of the force is E. F. Lewis, who comes in as sales manager. Lewis is a well-known figure in the Oakland automobile world, where he has figured since 1910.
Prior to 1904 he was with the Don Leo organization in San Francisco.

E. F. Lewis and the eight years following he spent as service manager for the Overland people in Oakland.

He has had a wide factory experience with the Franklin, Cadillac and other high grade cars, and is thoroughly posted on the mechanical and engineering qualities of these lines. He has been watching the Velle development for a good many years, but especially in the past three or four years, when their newly organized plant made possible the production of the car which is now recognized throughout the country for its high quality of motor construction.

It was this long established and steadily increasing interest in the Velle record and performance which induced Lewis to prefer the Greenfield establishment.

NEW CAN RECORD

In these days of tremendous volume of automobile sales, it is more than difficult to establish a personal record, and yet this seems to have been done in March by A.
M. Schmidt, salesman for Field & Lee, East Oakland Chevrolet dealers. Schmidt has to his own individual credit for last month the sale of nineteen cars, which makes some beating.

Behind this success there is ten years of intensive training in all departments of automobile experience.
Starting out with the E. R. Thomas factory makers of the Thomas Aler, the first car to tour the world in the far-off days of 1903, Schmidt remained with this firm until their dissolution. There followed factory training in the Pierce-Arrow plant at Buffalo, and later valuable experience when he went on the road as traveling service supervisor for Pierce-Arrow.
He has handled, too, the Cole eight and the Liberty.

For a time Schmidt was superintendent of the C. P. R. short line between Lagan and Lake Louise, Alberta, where Pierce-Arrow motors were used as passenger transportation medium between the two points in the heart of the Rocky Mountains. Altogether he has had a wide and varied preparation, and brings to his work a thorough understanding of the points that matter in motor selling.

SEVEN-PASSENGER TOURING CAR
$3050, Here

That comfortable feeling of safety is one of the prime factors in the Packard owner's deep satisfaction.

Such complete reliance is something that money alone cannot buy. For back of the product itself, there must be experience, tried engineering skill,
and the highest manufacturing ideals.

A safe car must have brakes of the utmost efficiency. Packard Single-Six brakes operate with the minimum of effort. There is positive action without jacking or screeching, whether running light or fully loaded.

As with brakes, so with every other part. Standards of safety built into the Single-Six have been developed through twenty-four years of practical experience in which every engineering and structural feature has been put to the severest possible test.

TRACTORS MAKE HIT IN SOUTH

An enthusiastic account of conditions in Southern California is given by L. J. Tescher, manager of the tractor department of H. M. Lawrence, local Ford and Fordson dealers, who has just returned from a four days' trip to Los Angeles, Long Beach and Pasadena in the interests of his firm.

"Things are booming down there and I was met with praises of our tractors on every hand," says Tescher. "One of the pleasantest interviews I had was with W. Sledson of the Southern California Trailmobile Sales Corporation, formerly manager of the Packard truck department. Sledson is strong for Fordsons and trailers, and especially delighted with our Lawrence wheels. Another firm from whom we have had excellent business is the General Petroleum Company, who are using eight Fordson tractor trucks in regular daily runs from Los Angeles to Long Beach. This trip, which is thirty miles, is made in four hours, each tractor carrying eight tons and replacing other equipment. All the tractors are equipped with the Lawrence Fordson wheel.

"Haas-Buruch, wholesale grocers, are using similar equipment for their delivery. They have five Fordson and ten trailers with Lawrence wheels and these are kept constantly on the go in the Los Angeles city delivery for this big concern.

"The city of Pasadena has purchased two tractors equipped with Lawrence wheels for road work.

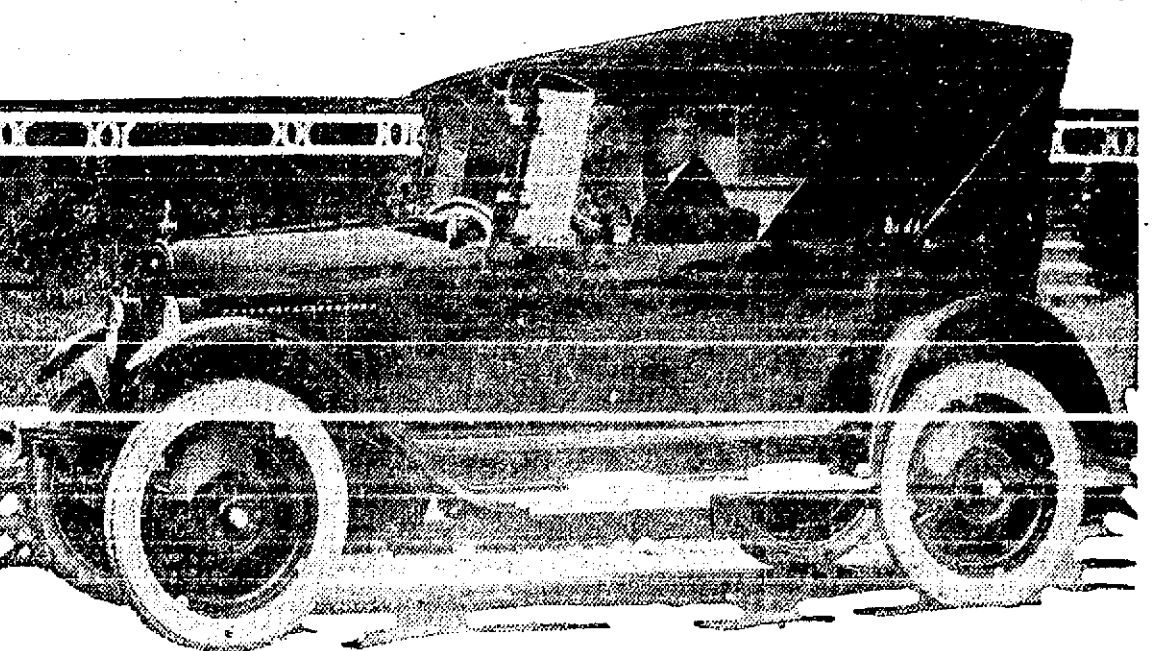

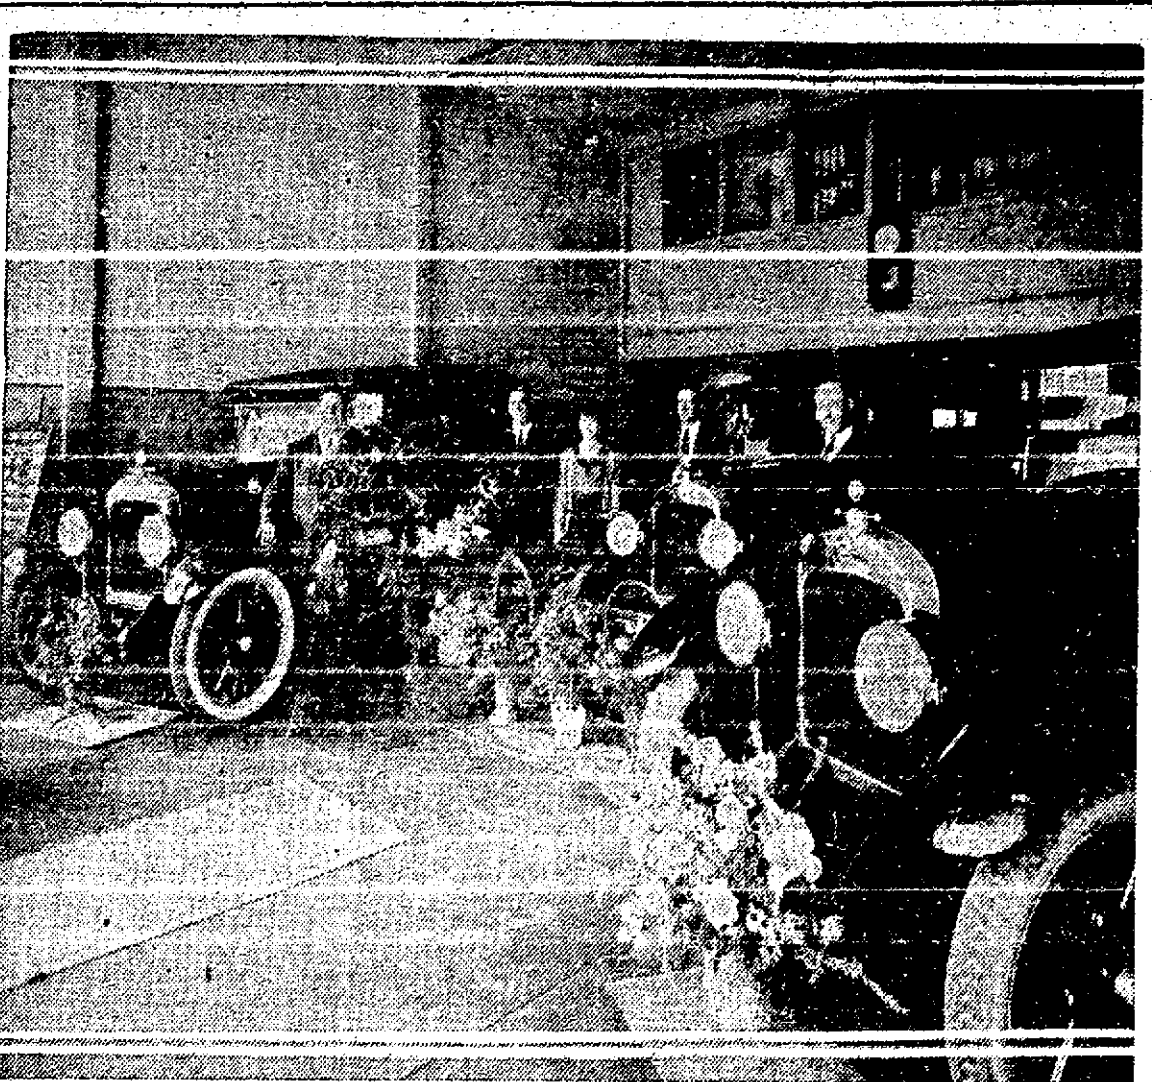

"These Lawrence wheels for Fordsons are built entirely in the Lawrence shops, every bit of the work being done there and all deliveries made from there, no matter to what part of the country. The wheel has attained much general recognition. It is altogether gratifying to note from what distances inquiries and business comes to us. There were twenty inquiries from people east of Chicago, and one from as far off as London, England, following the delivery of an unusual job for the Lawrence Terminal Company, consisting of a small switch engine, the base of which was a Fordson tractor."

MOTOR TRUCK A NECESSITY NOW

"Wholesale grocery businesses simply cannot get along without motor truck delivery. I have found," says T. Masuda, president and manager of Wanto Company, Inc., of Eighth and Franklin streets. "We have just bought a Garford truck, one ton, equipped with grocery body, and are noticing already a distinct betterment in our service and consequently in our business returns. Retailers have no patience for the wholesaler or jobber who fails to keep his promises and makes late deliveries of goods that are needed."

Masuda bought his truck from W. C. Morse, local Garford distributor, who has a number of Oriental customers on his books. He realized years ago the prominent place which would inevitably

HERE'S RUN FOR DAY'S FROLIC

"One of the most beautiful and most varied tours in Central California is to the redwood district taking the Coast highway down and coming back by the mainland. I took Mrs. Greenfield and a party of friends last Sunday, and they, being used to the prairie country, were simply overjoyed at the variety of scenery," says A. Greenfield, Valle distributor for Oakland.

"Crossing to San Francisco, the run down through Colma, Montara and Princeton to Halfmoon Bay is a delightful series of views over sea and valley. At Halfmoon Bay there is spread out a vast acreage of artichokes, a veritable forest for this is the center of the artichoke belt. Continuing along the coast for a further eighteen miles, one comes to Pescadero and at this point leaves the seashore and plunges into the wilderness of the hills, through Pescadero Canyon and into La Honda.

"The density and infinite variety of growth here is beyond description. The creek bottom is a mass of ferns, berry bushes and underbrush, while the slopes of the hills are clothed with evergreen and deciduous trees in glorious profusion. There are to be seen the wonder of the redwoods, trees of such height and such girth that the stranger stands aghast at the marvel of them. Oaks, sycamores, laurel, eucalyptus, pine and a host of others mingle their branches into a resplendent, shade-giving cloud.

"La Honda is the ideal place to lunch, and there are both picnic grounds and adequate restaurants aplenty. The return trip affords a wonderful vista of the Portola Valley from Summit, which is nine miles from La Honda. At Portola

DEALERS PRESSED FOR CARS

The demand for automobiles has increased tremendously in the last few months and all the factories are hard pressed to build enough of them to meet orders that are coming from all parts of the United States.

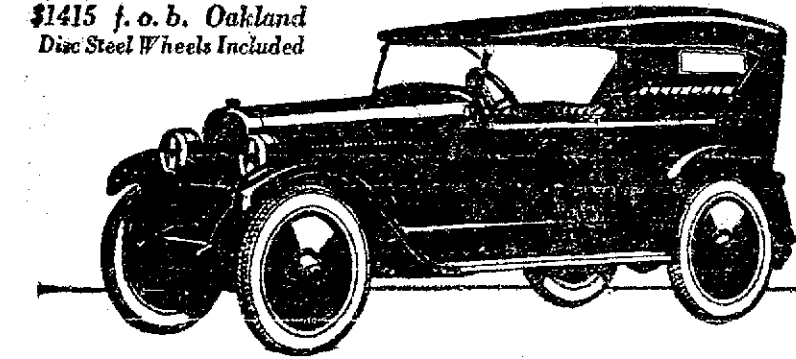

"We have been trying to get enough Hupmobiles to make deliveries in the last few weeks, but have had trouble getting them," states Charles L. Hebrank of Hebrank, Hunter & Peacock Co., Hupmobile dealers here.

"The rush of business came after a winter that required all the cars we could get to make deliveries. The factory was in much the same state. They were building cars all winter long, but were unable to get ahead rapidly enough so that they could score them."

"Instead of entering the spring selling season with a surplus of cars they were short and consequently the dealers throughout the country have been short, too."

"We hope to get more cars in the near future, however, and have hopes that we can make deliveries in the near future."

made its appearance on the Pacific coast, and last winter he bought his second Durant—a sedan—one of the models exhibited at the Los Angeles Automobile Show.

When asked how he liked his Durant sedan after he had driven it some 5000 miles over the highways of California, Hearne said: "My choice for the highway is a Durant sedan, and my choice for the speedway is a Durant special. This should be proof enough that I realize that the Durant is 'Just a real good car.'"

HILL TESTS OF INTEREST TO DEALERS

Tests of stock Auburn cars on the famous Uniontown (Pa.) testing hill by Jim Crawford, chief engineer of the Auburn Automobile Company, proved to be of great interest to Uniontown dealers and to a large number of Western Pennsylvania automobile men who had been gathered together by J. A. O'Malley, the Auburn distributor in Pittsburgh, to witness the tests.

"The first run was made with the 6-63 stock touring car with the new Auburn overhead valve motor, which has been attracting a great deal of attention in the trade," states Jack Lloyd of the Oakland Garage, Auburn dealers here. "It went over the top in high at 42 miles an hour with two passengers."

Tube Repair Kit Held Important

Important accessories for every motorist to have in his car is a tube repair kit. It is very much like life insurance in that it is no good at all until needed. When it is needed, it is indispensable. This fact is particularly true when tires are punctured many miles from any repair station. Considering the kit's small cost, Miller tire men say it is the cheapest insurance possible against country road delays and expense.

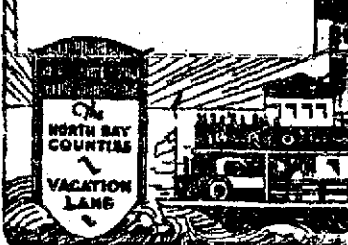

Again the same car was started carrying four passengers at five miles an hour at the "water-trough," which is at the base of the steepest and most difficult parts of the hill—and it picked up steadily in high gear going over the top with the speedometer registering 35 miles an hour. The Auburn 6-43 touring car showed 31 miles an hour at the top. With four passengers it made this famous hill and registered 27 miles an hour at the top. The 6-43 touring sedan carried three passengers over the top at 23 miles an hour. This is an amazing record for a low-priced closed car. All climbing was done in high gear only.

“CE SERVICE”
FREE EARLY AUTO PLAN

By PERCY CHAMBERLAIN.
“Once upon a time”—some twenty-odd years ago—a man whose name is lost to posterity, invited another man, name also unknown, into a cafe. The first man bought the second a bottle of wine (this was twenty-odd years ago, remember) and told him a fairy story.

He told him of a wonderful new vehicle which would run by itself. He painted the invention in glowing terms. He was trying to sell it. He was the automobile salesman of twenty-odd years ago. The second man was his prospect—a rich man.

To that conversation—and many similar ones during the next few years—may be traced the “free service” idea in the automobile business.

The rich man's son was skeptical. He wasn't sure the thing would run if he bought it. The salesman wasn't sure, either. But he promised to do everything and anything necessary to make it run—free of charge.

As the automobile was improved until its final acceptance by the public as a practical means of transportation, the idea remained—ever after the need had been removed. It is an idea, peculiar to the automobile trade. For instance, the delivery of your package rather than making you carry it yourself. These services are not really “free” because they are paid for in the cost of the merchandise, as an expense of the business.

But “free” in connection with automobile service has meant a direct contribution to the maintenance of the automobile. The SERVICE of a merchant is something entirely different from GUARANTEE or MAINTENANCE of the merchandise he sells.

SERVICE DEFINED.
The real meaning of the word SERVICE was not changed simply because it has been misused by the automobile business.

Service is the ability to serve, with all that the words imply. It means understanding of the part played by courtesy and friendliness, as well as buildings, equipment and stocks of goods.

In the automobile business SERVICE has come to mean a technical department of operation—the repair. Thus the use of the word “free” with it, generally means “free repairs”—or a contribution to the maintenance of the motor vehicle.

The entire automobile dealer establishment offers a “service” to the public—the facilities and understanding with which it can supply the public with its automobile needs. Included in this service offered are the sales, parts and maintenance departments. Just as the bank offers a “service”—at the department store.

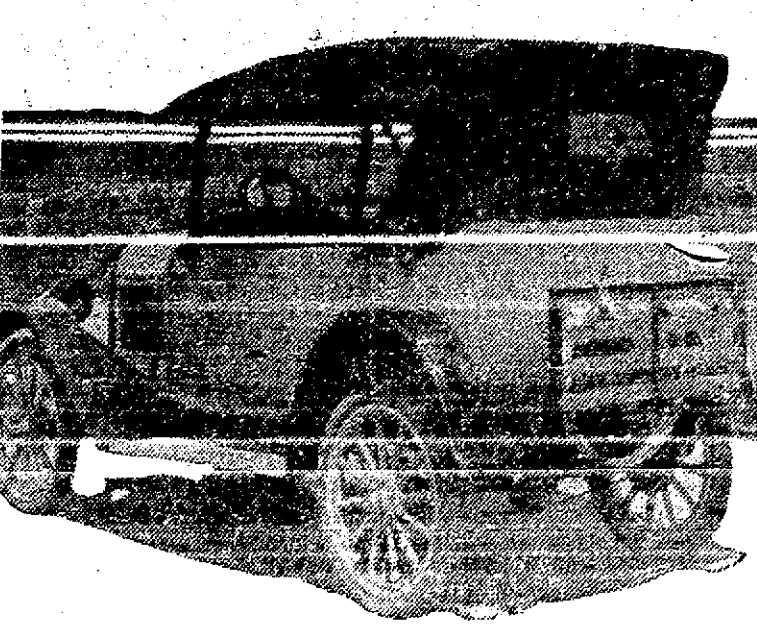

The service offered does not contemplate free goods or free work in bank or dry goods store. Customers tell their friends of the “good service” without meaning that they do not have to pay for the services rendered.

CONDITIONS CHANGED.
In the early years of the automobile it was hard to draw the line between “Guarantee” and “Maintenance.” Automobile engineers were experimenting the same as everyone else—including owners. Today, engineering is sound. It is easy to trace causes and determine whether the expense is a result of defective workmanship or material or is simply maintenance.

Maintenance is a purchaser obligation. This is fundamental. The price of the article itself presumes that the purchaser will pay for upkeep due to his use thereof. If the merchant pays for any of it he must either raise the price of the article itself, take out of his earnings or cripple his real service.

You price your own clothes, or pay for having it done. If you tear your new suit the first day you have it, you expect to pay for having it mended. You buy furniture, police and pay servants for using it—or use it yourself. All expense of the upkeep of your home comes out of your own pocketbook.

DUTCH LICENSES
SHOW INCREASE SPARE TIRES ARE CITY THIEF'S LOOT

The registration of motor vehicles in Rotterdam on January 1, 1922, totaled 751 passenger cars, 381 taxicabs and omnibuses, 311 trucks, 44 postal service cars, and 6 ambulances, which represented an increase of 432, as compared with registration of the previous years. Most of the omnibus services have been established in the last few months between Rotterdam and various small towns and villages in that vicinity. The chassis of a low-priced popular American car is being used to locally built body of rather heavy construction. The business is apparently profitable, and it is expected that it will expand rapidly, says Consul General George E. Anderson, in a report to the Department of Commerce.

Police and insurance statistics on automobile thefts taken in the larger cities of the country show that more spare tires are stolen than cars. It is rather curious to note that owners will guard things of less value than tires while inviting thieves to help themselves to spare tires.

A spare tire should be guarded carefully, according to Miller the men, not so much for its monetary value as for accessibility when it is needed. Therefore, it is planning to note that the inventiveness of man has developed several strong locks for spare tires which are proof against all the tools of the thief. As automobiles flash by on the street one sees tires secured with bits of wire, rope, strap, or some cheap iron chain and padlock that any boy with a knife or hacksaw could sever quickly.

JUST A LITTLE GOSSIP
ALONG AUTO ROW

H. A. Fulmer, advertising manager of the Moreland Motor Truck Company, was a visitor in the East for six months and had his fill of cold, frost and mud. Now he is back at the plant in California. Just to show how glad he was to be back, he stepped into the court at the factory, where the workmen had their automobiles parked. He counted 107 automobiles ranging from the lowest priced car to a type selling for over $3,000. He thought again of the cold and snow and ice of the East, and wondered if there was another place in the whole wide world where such a sight could be seen. He estimated that the workmen in that plant had $100,000 worth of automobiles parked in that small factory parking place.

TIRE OUTFIT REACHES BIG PROPORTIONS

The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company announced on Saturday, April 14, that the output of its Akron, California and Canadian factories had totaled 63,824 tires the previous day. The Akron plant turned out 43,592 tires, Los Angeles 8,648 and Toronto 6,584. The previous high mark was made on April 14, 1922, when the Akron plant output was 35,780 tires. In commenting on the production increase, company officials pointed out that it took 31,000 men to establish the 1922 record, while only 14,550 men were employed at the Akron factory on Friday, April 13. Due to the tremendous demands for Goodyear product throughout the country, the management was forced to put every effort into producing the maximum number of tires possible, so as to take care of dealers’ orders received, and commitments and anticipation orders in sight.

All three Goodyear plants at Akron, O., Toronto, Canada, and Los Angeles, broke their respective

Whether or not you are included in the majority of Pacific Coast motorists who already use Zerolene, you will be interested in the facts presented here.

Realizing that we have in Zerolene as good an oil as it is scientifically possible to produce, and that many people do not use it because of its low price, not appreciating its actual superiority to other oils costing sometimes twice as much, we began about a year ago a series of laboratory and road tests with Zerolene and other oils. We wanted to obtain for you an absolute check on the merits of Zerolene as compared to other oils. These tests, numbering many hundreds, were recently completed, and we here present for your consideration—

Our Authentic Findings

1. Zerolene reduces friction and wear to a greater extent than any other automobile lubricant we have seen and tested or been able to produce.
2. The Zerolene-lubricated car averages 5% more mileage from the gasoline consumed, because Zerolene, giving better lubrication continuously, permits the delivery of more engine power to the wheels on the ground.
3. Zerolene yields highest oil mileage consistent with efficient lubrication. It was found that oils yielding a higher oil mileage do not reduce friction and wear to the same degree, as proved by the fact that when these oils are used the gasoline mileage is reduced.
4. Zerolene contains 30% less carbon than other oils. The carbon is soft and fluffy and most of it blows out with the exhaust. For this reason the Zerolene-lubricated automobile may be driven from 25% to 50% farther without having the valves ground or the cylinders rebored. Zerolene forms less carbon than any other motor oil known to us.
5. Zerolene is stable. It is a fact, well known to engineers, that the selected Western Naphthenic Base Crude, from which Zerolene is made, has heat-resisting qualities which are not excelled by any other crude so far discovered. These natural heat-resisting qualities of the crude are preserved by our exclusive high-vacuum process of distillation. Zerolene does not break down.
6. Zerolene has the right body at all operating temperatures. It thins down properly under engine heat, conforming to the reduced bearing clearances in the cylinders, due to the expansion of the metal, and it thickens again as the engine cools and its bearing clearances increase in size due to the contraction of the metal. For this reason Zerolene keeps the bearings constantly protected by an adequate film of oil at all the varying temperatures of engine operation. This reduces friction and wear and delivers more horse-power to the wheels on the ground and gives greater mileage from the gasoline.

A Better Oil Even If It Does Cost Less

Zerolene costs less than other oils because of our facilities for producing and distributing it in great quantities on the Pacific Coast. We do not have to pay long-haul transportation and high merchandising costs to make it available. All that you pay for Zerolene goes to buy high quality only.

Zerolene will reduce your upkeep cost, add years to the life of your car and give you greater satisfaction in driving. Ask for Zerolene by name—at Standard Oil Service Stations and at garages and supply stations displaying the Zerolene sign.

It begins to look that the great force that will knit all mankind together, bring nations to oneness, is the screen. For look who comes to Hollywood—not mentioning Pola—but one Svend Gade, a Danish producer. Headed this way is said to be Henry Hasselquist, Sweden's film favorite. Ramon Novarro, known in filmdom, belongs to one of the old families of Mexico, and when one of his pictures is shown in his native country, all his countrymen recognize the fact that he is receiving the same opportunities and rewards as Americans.

And what do you think of the screen that "American" film men shy at making pictures in Holland, where the weather is far from Hollywood-y, and where the actors are too busy on the stage, meaning either that we would have to import actors or they'll have to accept our films to some extent, and so one more chance of uniting the nations.

Again comes Dorothy Jordan, opera singer, avowing she'll enter pictures and bring with her the French method, and maybe she'll help make Hollywood all the more French in method, and go far toward averting the coming world war!

And finally Doug is said to be looking for locations in Australia. Long live the films!

Time hangs fairly heavy on Mrs. Fabel's hands, she avers, and she has to diet to keep from getting over fat from lack of hustling after the evidences. And if its policeman defends the film men, how about you, who

James Cruze is making splendid progress with "Hollywood," a new Paramount production, by the man who made "The Covered Wagon." Thomas J. Gorchy adapted Frank Condon's story and virtually every well-known star will be seen in this cast. Walter Woods is producing.

Miss Terry, who made herself famous in "The Four Horsemen" and "The Prisoner of Zenda," continues to climb upward, through the co-operation of her talented husband-director, Rex Ingram, one of the greatest of the screen directors. Miss Walton, Universal's flapper star, is seen here in something cozy in the way of wraps, and Hazel Deane, she of the luring eye, sits for the photographer immediately after signing a contract to appear in Christie comedies.

This part of the great Southwest, Los Angeles and thereabouts, is again in the throes of a "boom," the biggest and the best, etc., etc. All the old farms available, that have not already been taken up by motion picture studios are being converted into subdivisions, miles and miles away from the postoffice and the city hall.

Realtors—as they call 'em here—vie with each other as to which movie idol will appear at their sales tracts and offer tea and cake, or make a little speech, as an inducement to get a crowd. Of course it is said that a picture actor or actress is willing to have his name used in order to get a bit of free publicity and is not at all averse to the personal appearance. So newspapers bulge with ads saying that a certain beautiful and talented flapper star will appear at such and such a tract on Sunday from 2 to 5 and give away a Ford car, or that the big and burly screen hero, one, monarch

Kenneth Harlan has been loaned by B. P. Schuyler to Principal Pictures, for the leading part in their production, "East Side, West Side." Simultaneous with the filming of this feature, the popular Kenneth is spending half his working day at the Schulberg Studio, where Tom Forman is directing him in the "Wing."

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., April 28.—And speaking of Rodolph—who isn't, no—that he is making personal appearances round the nation—his last word to the press indicates that he is rather an innocent, worthy of the adoration that is heaped upon him, this new era matinee idol, or else he is deeper, far, far deeper than any one ever suspected him of being.

"I am not qualified as a judge of women," Rodolph avows. "Any man who says he understands women is either a fool or a liar," he states further. The reporter who brings in this news fails to state whether

for FANS

Al St. John has finished work on his latest Fox comedy, "The Author."

Arline Pretty is the feminine lead in Dustin Farnum's latest picture, "Bucking the Barrier."

John Gilbert, who just finished a new Fox picture, "The Madness of Youth," is taking a short vacation previous to beginning work on a new feature.

Tom Mix has begun work on a new thriller, "Tempered Steel," having just completed "The Journey of Death." Billie Dove is opposite the star.

"Where There's a Will" is the title of a new Fox Sunshines comedy which has just been completed and is scheduled for an early release.

Shirley Mason's new picture, formerly called "Inside The Door," then changed to "Balance Due," will be released soon under the title of "Lovebound."

A British producer has arrived in Hollywood to offer Matt Moore a contract. He stated that American stars are necessary to foreign productions. Matt Moore is playing the title role in Fred Niblo's "Captain Applejack" for Louis B. Mayer and Metro. He will be unable to accept a contract, although he may be asked for three pictures when "Captain Applejack" is finished.

Francis X. Bushman, Beverly Bayne Staging Come-back

THERE are but few who can "come back" and repeat a hit on the screen, but from all reports hot on the wire, the come back is being staged by Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, and with acclamation, both as to the film and personal appearance.

After anything under the sun moved and widened as rapidly as motion pictures? The fashion of minute before last is dead and gone. The film of last year is a joke that seldom bears repeating. The actor who stems down and out is soon forgotten with the horde of new faces that ever come to the screen.

Yet the fact that unabashed comment attributes to Bushman and Bayne improvement, a surer note of stability, brilliance, magnetism, indicates that screen audiences are not all of fickle fancy of the moment but that they have developed along with the screen, and are coming to know merit, even when it comes back, improved by the interim.

Hollywood announces itself as staging some other "come backs." A theater is to be erected in Hollywood, says the report of the minute, which will encourage the ex-stage stars, now movie stars, to appear on the "legit" once more in their old time successes. For instance there will be Douglas Fairbanks in "The Cub," Barrymore in "The Jest," Nazimova and Elsie Ferguson in their old triumphs. It isn't stated in said report whether or not the actors have consented or yearn to be revived thusly, or whether or not they are to get pay or just glory.

It is said too that there is to be given a chance to appear on the boards film folks who have never before appeared in the ceased film roles—another case of getting from the 3rd to the 4th dimension. It takes a clever actor to get the screen business, as well as the stage business, to eliminate jerkiness. For instance, which do you consider the smoothest in photoplay technique, Guy Bates Post or Mary Pickford? Have you thought of it?

Jane Murfin has begun production work on her play, "The folks in Mexico didn't have the funds to advance for her return; the Los Angeles police department is hard put to it to pay the passage of numerous star-struck damsels out of Hollywood back to the home town; and while the delinquent one waited in Juvenile Hall, she created a rumour that wasn't nice. Mexico for hers and quick, said the police.

They are saying that "his latest is his best"—not the press agents but the impartial ones—the inside. His recent five-reeler, "Safety Last," is said to have broken the record for attendance almost. He has yet to make a picture that outdoes Chaplin's "Kid" in that particular. Evidently Harold is "getting there" literally and figuratively by leaps and bounds. And the reason, of course there is a reason, and the public's got to know it, at least this is the reason given by the betters on Lord. Harold is a good boy who works hard all the time and aims to make every picture a top picture and succeeds in doing so, they say, while Chaplin, temperamental, makes a good big picture like the "Kid," and then does one not so good, they say.

However, it is an interesting side comment that certain old films of Chaplin's are to be released, with a little editing.

PICTURE PEOPLE

Marshall Neilan is now hard at work directing his own film story, "The Eternal Three." Among the players are Claire Windsor, Robert Bosworth and Raymond Griffith.

Returning from Balboa, California, where he had been "shooting" scenes for his forthcoming Fox production, Al St. John, comedy star, arrived in Hollywood recently to learn that he was the owner of a potential gold mine. For the past few years the comedian has been associated with a syndicate of Los Angeles business men who have been buying city and farm properties in California, and St. John's power of attorney to his associates recently when he expected to be away from the city for several days. During the comedian's absence, the syndicate purchased an eighty-acre tract of land which at one time was considered a valuable gold claim, and at Al's suggestion the group will now endeavor to rejuvenate the once famous property. A crew of miners will be dispatched to the discovery within the next thirty days and a new shaft will be sunk to bedrock.

Ernest Torrence, who is scoring a sensational success in "The Covered Wagon," recently made his debut on the United States lot, Hollywood, when he appeared in his initial scene in Maurice Tourneur's "The Brass Bottle," a forthcoming First National attraction.

The first appearance at this studio of Torrence was made the occasion of the day. Headed by M. C. Levey, president of the United and Maurice Tourneur, Torrence was greeted by all the players working on the lot including Harry Myers, Tully Marshall, Bert Lytell, Helen Lynch, Marion Ave, Charlotte Merriam and others, and continued into the fold. After riding "Jumbo," his trick mule appearing in "The Brass Bottle," the actor was put through a series of other initiation stunts which he survived with all limbs intact.

In "The Brass Bottle," Torrence will portray the leading role of the Jinee who causes all the trouble for the young architect, whose acquisition of the causes him no end of trouble.

The thousands who witnessed these productions are promised an even greater treat in the performance of "The Faithful Heart," and Miss Clara Joel, leading lady at the Fulton, also is to have a much stronger and more exciting role, as the heroine of the play, than any she has hitherto portrayed. Talbot Henderson will be a tipsey old retired army officer, while Emilia Melville, especially engaged for this play, will be the quaint proprietress of the inn in question. Mark Harris will be the owner of the inn, and the heroine of the play, a lively lass of the seaport. Frank Darlen will portray a faithful servant of the inn, and George Land, and John Ivan will be ex-army officers and men about town. Jerome Sheldon will be a lively and a comedian, and Louis Morrison will have the part of an ancient war veteran.

FRANKLIN

D. W. Griffith's "One Exciting Night" is held over at the Franklin for another week. This is to accommodate the crowds who were unable to get seats last week. An extra show has been added, making it four complete shows a day. In order to get the full entertainment value out of this dynamic thriller, it must be seen from the beginning. Griffith shows a new side in this picture. There are no big settings or huge mob scenes, no moral to teach, no sets out to entertain and does it thoroughly with a mixture of puzzling mystery and side-splitting comedy and winds up with a terrific hurricane, through which a girl and a boy struggle to get the man of mystery, whose unmasking is the surprise climax of the stirring story. John Wharry, who has been the star of the picture, will give a short concert before the feature.

AMERICAN

The modern girl with too much money and too much amusement was never more characteristically presented on the screen than in "Prodigal Daughters," Gloria Swanson's latest picture, which opened at the American theater yesterday for a week's engagement. "Swiftie" Forbes, enacted by Miss Swanson, is the heroine of the tale. Given the privilege of squandering part of the fortune which her father made during the war, she indulged too recklessly in the sports which her set thought only innocent. The real serious aspect of her deeds did not occur to her until she staked her heart over a gambling table and lost just when a man she was really in love with appeared. Supporting Miss Swanson is a fine cast including the popular Theodore Roberts in the role of her father, Ralph Graves, Louise Dresser and others. An original musical idea is offered by Owen Sweeten and his orchestra as well as other dim features.

KRAUSE WEATHERS THREATENED STORM IN NINTH INNING

Oaks Get to Fritz Coumbe For Enough Runs to Maintain Safe Lead; Bees Start Belated Rally That Falls One Short

By FDDIE MURPHY.
Harv Krause, Oakland southpaw, showed much respect for Paul Strand as a hitter in the ninth inning of yesterday's ball game, and he walked the big Bee when the bags were full to force a runner over the plate and put the visitors within one run of tying the score. Krause felt that if Strand connected for a base hit, it would mean two runs and a tied score, and rather than have that happen take a chance on Joe Wilhoit, who was a left-handed batter. Krause's judgment was good, as Wilhoit hoisted a long fly to Frank Wetzel in left field and the ball game was over with the Oaks on the long end of a 5 to 1 vote. The Bees were 5 to 1 short-ends when they went to bat in the ninth, the result of the Oaks bumping Fred Coumbe for four hits and three runs in the second inning, and Jimmy Buchalky for one run in each of the seventh and eighth innings.

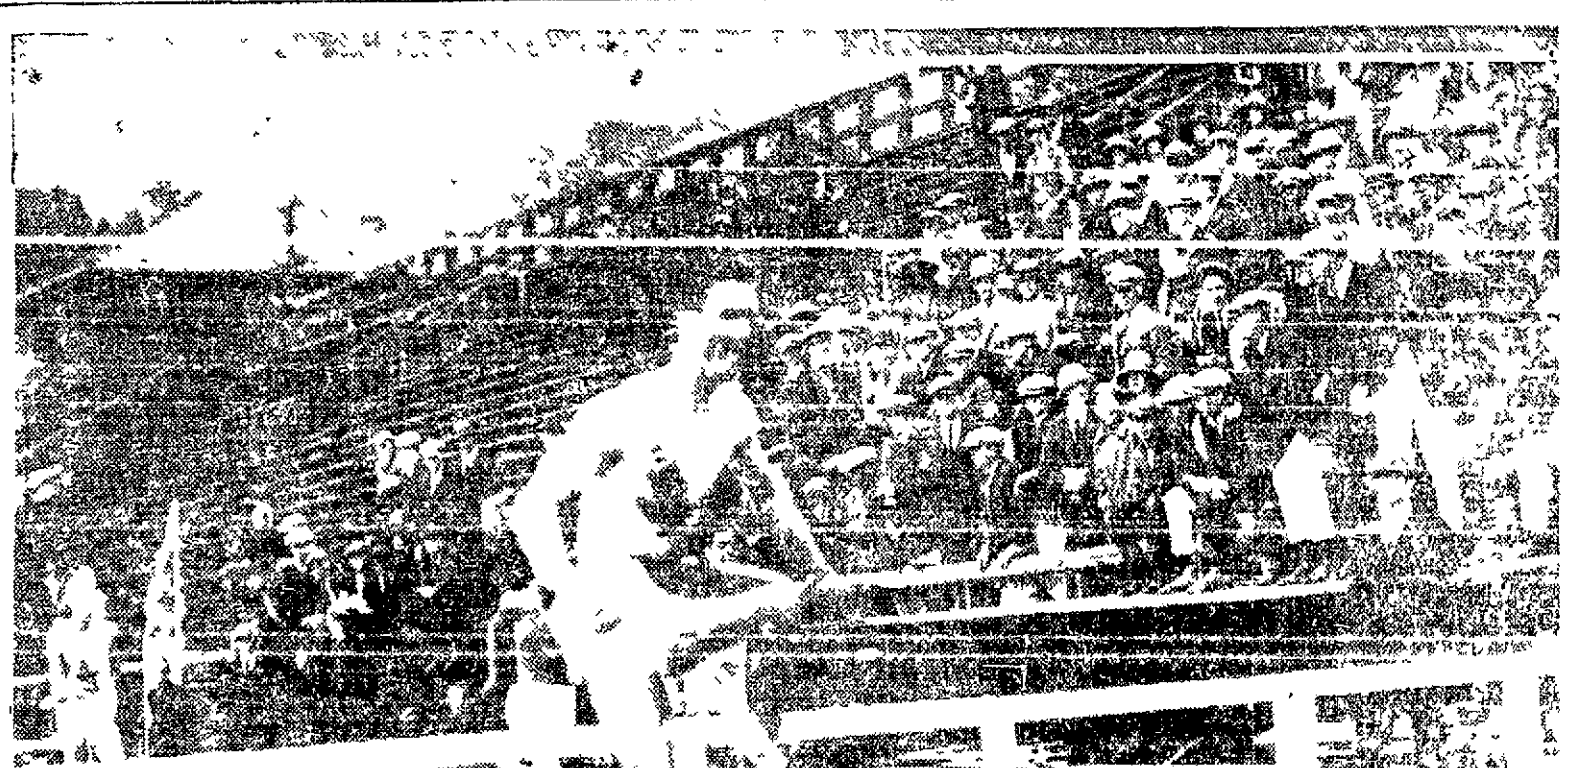

The Oaks have a chance to win the series. They would have to win both of today's games which will be played on the local field at 10:30 this morning and 8:15 in the afternoon. Mader and Krause are slated to do the hillwork for the Oaks. It was a great rally which the Bees staged in the final frame and it helped them to come within one run of tying the score. Mader, Krause and Al Mader had pitched a beautiful game up to that time. Mader took out of Lou's the Buchalky cracked a hit to center. Peters hit to center and the latter was in such a hurry to make a double play that he threw wide to center and Buchalky reached third, and Peters first. Mader then singled to right, scored Buchalky. Sheehan hit to center who made a nice stop and throw to Mader for what looked like a force out at second but Mader dropped the ball and the bees were full. But Mader's throw was full. But Mader's throw was full. But Mader's throw was full.

Technical Captain Who Led His Team to Victory

Technical high school won the championship of the Oakland Athletic League for the second time yesterday afternoon on the California Oval, upsetting the dope which rated them among the "also rans." CAPTAIN TED McARTHUR is shown here on his way to a win in the hurdles. The Purple and Gold leader showed a clean pair of heels to the obstacle leapers of the other three contending schools in both high and low sticks, and his wins were largely responsible for the triumph of the Broadway institution.

GEORGE RITCHIE TO MEET JOHN McHUGH IN AMATEUR FINALS

Sam Conlan Jr. Eliminated in Semi-Finals, While Charles E. Foley Meets Defeat; Championship Will Be Hard Fought Match

The Olympic Club of San Francisco is to hold the Northern California Amateur Finals at the Berkeley country club yesterday afternoon, when Johnny McHugh and George Ritchie, both members of the Winged "O" organization, triumphed in the semi-final matches of the title race. The finals will be played today over thirty-six holes and the contest should be worth a day's trip to see. The morning round will start at ten o'clock.

McHugh defeated his fellow clubman, Sam Conlan, two up and one to go, while Ritchie made a runaway of his match with C. E. Foley, former Claremont, winning eight up and six to go.

Both the final and the semi-final rounds were played on the San Francisco municipal links. McHugh being the nephew of the famous old pros, Sam Snead and Ben Hogan, and Ritchie being the son of a famous old pro, Ben Hogan, the contest is expected to be a hard fought one. Youth told by the press that the match will be a hard fought one.

Pacific Grove Wins C.I.F. at Stanford Oval

Berkeley High Runner Up in Annual North Coast Section Track Meet.

STANFORD, OVAL Palo Alto, April 28.—Pacific Grove high won the annual track meet of the North Coast section of the California Interscholastic Federation yesterday afternoon at the Stanford Oval. The leading high schools of this section participated. They scored 20 points in one of the most hotly contested meets ever held with Berkeley High and Salinas High tied for second place with 16 points each.

Despite a cold wind, three records for the federation were shattered and two tied in spectacular track and field performances. Work of Pacific Grove set a new record for the high jump when he leaped five feet 11 inches, breaking the record Brick Muller established of five feet, 6 inches, when he was a student at Oakland Tech in 1919.

In the distance throw, Regil of Mountain View broke his own record of 127 feet 1-3 inches by hurling it 127 feet, 3-4 inches. The javelin record held by Regil of Berkeley was broken by 152 feet, 3 inches. The old record was 146 feet.

The Oaks were determined to get out of the Coast League's basement, and they took the field. A home run by Peters failed to get the Bees out of the basement. The Oaks started the firework for the Oaks in the half with a single, and he went on to score. Knight's single, Peters' double, and Cooper's triple, gave the Oaks a 5 to 1 lead. Tech Repeats Win on Track; Records Fall

Fremont Is Runner Up, Oakland Third; Walker Star in Sprints.

My MARTIN ROTHE
The track and field athletes of Technical High School, romped off with the 1923 championship of the Oakland Athletic League when they defeated Fremont High by a slim margin of a point and a half yesterday afternoon at California Oval. The Purple and Gold men gathered 45 points, Fremont 46 1/2.

Four O. A. L. records were broken during the course of the meet. Mitch Walker, the colored Oakland flash, came through with the first thrill of the day when he traveled the century in 10 flat to break the record formerly held jointly by Johnson Blume and Walker, all of Oakland. Emil Schuster, diminutive Flue and White Miller, furnished the next thrill for the benefit of the huge throng by traversing the mile in 4:47.3 to break the record of 4:50 made by Crawford of Oakland in 1920.

With a strong wind against him in the 220-yard dash, Walker surprised the spectators by establishing a new O. A. L. record of 22.6. The former record was held by Johnson of Oakland, who made it in 23 seconds in 1920. The fourth and final record to go before the boards was accomplished by Kinsley of Fremont, who heaved the shot put 44 feet, 9 1/2 inches to break the record formerly held by Ramo of Tech. According to many of the old time high school fans, the meet was one of the most spectacular and thrilling ever staged by Bay City high schools. At the end of the twelfth event Fremont led Tech by a half point. The relay which was the final event, decided the meet when the Tech team, composed of McArthur, Bertillon, Schelder, and Roehrik, led the entire distance and finished in the last time of 1:36.2. Fremont came in a half point behind.

Penn State Relay Team Sets Record

Oxford's Defeat Marks First Loss in U. S. by Any English Team.

By DAVID J. WALSH, International News Service Sports Editor.
FRANKLIN FIELD, PHILA., April 28.—Pennsylvania's relay team, which was defeated by Oxford, England, yesterday, marked the first loss in U. S. by any English team.

The previous record was 7:49.2-5. The relay team made a romp of the race through the last two laps and won the relay in front of Oxford at the finish. Allan Helfrich easily holding the big field behind him despite the violent efforts of Miller of the Oxford star, to come from behind.

The remarkable running of Enck, on the third relay, in which he came up from third place to beat Miller of Oxford, and Gagan of Georgetown by 27 and 30 yards respectively, decided the issue then and there. It was a record for a British relay team has suffered in this country, the four-mile relay team in 1914 losing to Pennsylvania by inches and the combined Oxford-Cambridge two-mile team of 1914.

King Hits Pair Of Homers When Portland Wins

Portland 4, Seattle 3. The Portland Beavers and Los Angeles Angels played evenly in the first game of the season yesterday, but the Beavers got away with a 4 to 3 win. King hit two home runs, 111 and 113 feet, three singles for the home team.

TRIBUNE MEDAL TOURNEY NEARING END OF FIRST ROUND

CHICK EVANS WILL BE MISSED FROM AMERICAN GOLF TEAM IN PLAY ON ENGLISH LINKS

Final Matches In First Round Are Scheduled

Tuesday Night Will See Only 32 of Original Starters in Tribune Tourney.

Thirteen matches will conclude the first round of play in the annual TRIBUNE diamond medal elimination tournament at the Maryland links next Tuesday night. The results of the first nineteen matches rolled during the past week have run true to scheduled date, but upsets are more than likely to feature the remaining first round contests.

Local bowling fans regard the Tom Lawler-George Kennedy match as the best on Tuesday night's schedule, figuring it a contest to be decided by the breaks. On averages Lawler, anchor man of the P. T. & T. team, has a shade but Kennedy of the Golden Cigars is too formidable an opponent to be counted out.

OTOOLE SHOULD WIN.
H. Sopher and Marty O'Toole will provide the second best attraction of the evening. Both are teammates on the Broadway Barbers and it will be a bitter duel to see which survives the first round.

E. G. Parker, one of the veterans of Oakland, and Jack Hughes, who is no youngster, are testified to by the fact that he is the holder of one of the TRIBUNE diamond medals. A previous year, will offer the third headline attraction of the night. Either of these stars is apt to get the decision.

Johnny Rossi, figured by many as a logical man to go to the semi-finals, will roll George Whitestone. In as much as Joe Whitestone was eliminated George will attempt to keep the team represented in the tourney, but has his work cut out against Rossi.

Louis Schmidt is conceded an edge over C. Ethell, while W. Sperrling should take E. Daley into camp, barring upsets.

RICHMOND REPRESENTED.
E. J. Pinkerton will come in to oppose Ed Barnadou, one of the Maryland boys who has been shooting the eyes out of them the past few months. Herb Patterson, another Richmond star and former Santa Cruzan, will tackle Otto La Franchi. La Franchi is probably the steadiest of the lot, but it should be a close match. W. J. O'Brien of Richmond will try conclusions with Charlie "Noisy" Newman, former Auditorium maple crasher.

Sammy Smith and H. Swope of Richmond will put an even contest with M. Maddock and J. Rovee shooting at the same time. Rovee is as dangerous a man in this type of competition as can be found.

M. East and R. Sutton are not definitely scheduled for Tuesday night and may roll their match today or tomorrow if they get together. If not they will probably follow the regularly scheduled pair off on Tuesday night to wind up the first round.

Drawings for the second round will be made immediately after the final match of the first round is shot, but play will not start until after the P. C. B. C. at San Jose, probably May 15, to see the 32 survivors start the second-round matches.

Alameda Elks to Meet Crystal Nine

Alameda ball fans will be given the opportunity of comparing the respective merits of the Alameda City Midwinter League and the TRIBUNE midwinter circuit by the afternoon when the Alameda Elks play the Crystal Laundrys at Lincoln park. The game will start at 1 o'clock.

The Elks romped home with the pennant in the Alameda circuit, while the Crystals were the winners in the TRIBUNE League. Owing to advanced bookings a post-season series played for the two clubs was postponed, but the extra inning should conclusively prove which of the two was the fastest league.

The Crystals made a good showing Sunday when they defeated the Diamond Motors, Milton Seeger and all, 2 to 1. Logan, who has allowed a dozen hits in 27 innings, will fling for the Elks and Theiss for the Crystals.

Oakland Fanciers Will Bench Dogs at S. F. Show

Judging from present indications there will be a veritable exodus across the bay of Alameda county fanciers to the Golden Gate Kennel Club Show which will take place next Friday and Saturday, May 4 and 5, in the Civic Auditorium, San Francisco. A legion of Boston and Shepherdies which make their homes in Oakland will be trotted out for the event. The following fanciers will also exhibit their dogs: Mr. J. Sterling Ballard will show his sterling Airselle Omar. Mr. G. W. Bacon will bench his Collie Tazewell Traveler; Mr. B. L. Rogers, the Irish Terrier bitch West Line Molly O. J. C. Tex Rickard Has Problem About Bouts

Top Line Attractions for Milk Fund Show May 12, Cause of Much Worry.

By SPARROW MCGANN, Special Correspondent of the Oakland Tribune.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Tex Rickard's problem as regards the top line attraction for the milk fund bouts which will be held at the Polo Grounds May 12 has at least two different angles.

Primarily, of course, the object is to draw a bumper crowd to the arena. It is pretty well established now, as a result of Floyd Johnson's disappointing showing against Fred Fulton, that a more attractive opponent to Rickard's showman lieutenant could be picked for Jess Willard. A Willard-Firpo battle, for instance, would prove much more of a drawing card. On the other hand, Willard himself has applied to Rickard's showman lieutenant as having all sorts of pulling power and Firpo, too, is a strong attraction.

CUSTOMERS WILL SHOW.
Thus, even while they are not to meet each other, they are on the same card and the chances are that the customers as they are now called will turn out in sufficient numbers to see Jess and Luis in action against each other. But enough to pay all purses and give the milk fund a great boost.

It should be understood, therefore, that while the possibility of a last minute shift of opponents has not yet vanished, it is remote. The chances Rickard would run in fitting Firpo against Willard would bulk significantly in his mind, for unless the battle happened to be a draw, it would mean that one of Dempsey's logical opponents would be eliminated. And while Rickard is willing enough to put on a charity show, he does not wish to show to deprive him of future prospects valued at many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

NOT GOOD BUSINESS.
If Willard met Firpo, a certain future bout which Rickard has a million-dollar attraction—Dempsey and Firpo, in Buenos Ayres, New Jersey or New York—would be the great promoter's forfeit were Jess to play the part of butler in the bull of the Pampas. If the tables were turned and Willard were beaten a projected battle between the champion and the Potomac giant would go floozy. And there you are.

All things considered, good showmanship would suggest that Willard and Johnson be permitted to proceed as per schedule. For, make no mistake, Jess would gain stature were he to stow his rugged young rival away. Johnson may not be a world beater, but anyone who knocks him out is going to get all necessary excitement.

Activities in behalf of Tommy Gibbons and the clearing up of other heavyweight contenders as a result of the May 12 carnival, it looks like, are foregone conclusions. We shall see Jack Dempsey in action more than once before the snow flies.

Japanese Tennis Players Are Feared by Americans

By VINCENT RICHARDS, National Tennis Doubles Champion (Universalist Service Staff Correspondent).

NEW YORK, April 28.—Despite the fact that some fifteen nations have agreed to compete for the famous Davis cup this coming summer, the United States probably fears Japan more than any of the rest.

Although a nation from the right to challenge this country for the famous international trophy last year at Forest Hills, it was only because Japan was unable to send its full strength to our shores at the time.

With Krumpholtz, Shimidzu and Kashio here and ready for the tennis season to get under way, the Japanese invasion becomes a real menace for the title holders during the coming tournament year.

CREDIT DUE KUMAGAE.
To the famous and popular "Itchy" Kumagae must go the credit of having been the first to introduce the game of tennis to this country.

His rise to fame in the tennis world was rapid. He was termed the "father of the tennis blossom" at the present time. "Itchy" came to America for the first time in 1915, possessing simply a back-court game and nothing else, but he had the extent of play to his fullest extent and during the first season that he played here he gained an enviable place in American lawn tennis circles.

His rise to fame in the tennis world has advanced steadily until now he is placed in the coveted "first ten" by the ranking committee. It will be very interesting to watch Kumagae in action after his two year layoff.

SCHIMIDZU IS BEST.
Many tennis critics are of the opinion that Zensho Shimidzu is a better player in every sense of the word than his fellow countryman.

And immediately every negro was a sprinter. The backwash of that movement is still with us today the negro being thus inclined as much by choice as by the suggestion of Drew's prominence. Even Butler and Gourdin themselves started out to be sprinters. They merely drifted into broad jumping as a side issue when they found the going a trifle too fast for the particular kind of brunette heels they wore.

At that, it is doubtful whether they would have amounted to anything if they had not taken a whirl at the sprinting game. More than ordinary speed of foot is required to get up above 25 feet in the broad jump.

Michigan Is Making Plans For Big Event

ANN ARBOR, Mich., April 28.—Plans are well under way at the University of Michigan for the entertainment of a large number of high school athletes on the occasion of the 23rd Annual Interscholastic Track and Field Meet to be held on Ferry Field on May 15th and 16th.

Last year high schools were represented from points as far distant as West Virginia and this year invitations have been extended to 1000 of the leading high schools from coast to coast.

High schools from Salem, Oregon; Little Rock, Arkansas; Baton Rouge, Louisiana; Chicago, Illinois; and Altoona, Pennsylvania, have signified their intentions of entering a team in the meet besides a great number of teams from Michigan, Ohio and Indiana and it is predicted that the meet will develop into the greatest ever held at Michigan if not at any college or university in the country.

Special Interscholastic medals have been designed for the Michigan Interscholastic which portray a figure of Carl Johnson, Michigan's premier track star, competing in the broad jump.

America to Have Tennis Stadium Soon

America is to have a permanent tennis amphitheater. On the historic turf of the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills, L. I., the new stadium will be a colossal structure worthy of the traditions of tennis and United States players who have won many of the world's championships.

The scene of the international triumph of Maurice E. McLaughlin over Norman E. Brookes and Arthur G. Whitling in 1914; the dash to the fore of William T. Tilden, II, in 1920 and the victories of a host of other racket stars is to bear perpetual testimony to the popularity of tennis.

Before autumn arrives a reinforced horseshoe shaped concrete stadium will have been erected to accommodate the thousands of tennis devotees who will gather for the challenge round of the 1923 Davis cup matches. For a decade to come it will be the scene of the most important tennis contests in which the leading players of the world will compete.

A tennis stadium is still a novelty. The West Side Tennis Club structure will be the first permanent amphitheater constructed in the world. With the exception of the concrete structure built at Wimbledon, England, last year, it is the first of its type in the world of tennis. There are many football, baseball and athletic stadiums, but none of these is similar to the tennis stadium to be constructed at Forest Hills.

In some respects, it resembles the famous Yale football bowl, although on a smaller scale. The size of the enclosure, approximately oval in shape, will be 145 feet in width and 195 feet in length.

ABSENCE OF CHICK EVANS WILL BE FELT BY AMERICAN TEAM

Evans and Other Golf Stars Left at Home Would Compare Favorably With Any of the Men Who Will Play For Us On England Links.

By WALTER CAMP, (Special Correspondent of The Oakland Tribune) (Copyright, 1923, by TRIBUNE Publishing Co.)

NEW YORK, April 28.—The loss of Chick Evans to the American golfing team that is invading England in an attempt to bring back the Walker Cup, is really more serious than appears on the surface. Without him, Capt. Bob Gardner's team is hard hit, for Evans would bring to the team the seasoning of a campaigner, a style that is always sure to impress and somewhat awe his opponents, and if he were going well on the greens he could about beat anybody in the world.

With Chick Evans added to the team, the Americans are on the side of a strong array playing on the home links rather than representing us in the Walker cup and British amateur championship competition. Evans, Bobby Jones, Rudy Knicker, Jesse Guifford and Co. would Kirby would compare well with any of the five of the teams that have gone over. But perhaps this 1923 team will make a more formidable array than the team we sent to Hoylake, though the names on that team were Chick Evans, Bobby Jones and Jesse Guifford. They may profit by their experience.

Careless Playing Beat American Team in 1921.
The whole trouble with our Hoylake team was concentrated in two points—first, the tendency to pull and second, the unwillingness to use the run-up shots. These two things beat us in 1921. The remarkable part of it was that all the top golfers had left Mr. Paul Hunter and Fred Wright, Jr., to carry on. Wright, finally alone, lost his chance through two pulled drives in the last three holes.

Modern golf architecture on this side of the water has tended too largely to parallel fairways and too little rough. As a consequence, the majority of our players love to swipe a long one with the run that comes from a slight pull. There are no sufficiently severe penalties to make them realize the danger. Too many of our players, too, pay no attention to the opening up of a hole for the approach shot, but simply bang away, relying upon the fact that anywhere from 140 yards down they can swipe this big mashie niblick into the sea behind the ball and forget all about intervening bunkers. This modern golf architecture, too, has built too many greens backed up against the shot so that the ball settles nicely and cannot bound up and run over. British greens are more natural.

Moreover, the education of the British golfer includes not only the high pitch shot, but also the low pitch and run. Wherever he has a chance, having opened up the hole for the run up shot, the British golfer does it and his ball stays on the greens. The American shot, on the other hand, will not stay on with a high wind and keen, hard greens.

Americans Have Hard Hitters on the Team.
If Captain Bob Gardner can get these facts well home to his team, there is no reason why they should not come through. But the Americans still have to prove that they can play a game that requires keeping in the middle of the course from the tee and playing direction in order to open up the hole for the approach shot.

Analyzing the team, Bob Gardner and Dary Herron are both powerful, hard hitters and the former has a very strong backswing.

Sam Langford Took Place of Bullfights

Bull fighting was, until very recently, considered the national sport and the only amusement in Mexico, but it fell to old Sam Langford to do the missionary work that turned the southern republic into a great boxing arena. Just recently 20,000 Mexicans filled an old bull ring to see Langford fight Balasara, the Spanish champion, and just before that a bull fight had attracted only a handful of spectators.

Langford, the heavyweight champion of Mexico, is a very amusing spectacle from the American viewpoint, but "Old Sam" must be given credit for some logic when he said, after he had won the title from Kid Savage: "Well, it ain't much, but I see some kind of a champion at last."

Fifty Stars to Appear In "Hollywood"

With James Cruze's production, "Hollywood," nearing completion at the Lasky Studio, Paramount has announced the complete list of players who will appear in this picture. Among those who will have conspicuous parts in the unfolding of the drama is Cruze himself, but the producer of "The Covered Wagon" will not be able to be the sole representative of the director profession, for Cecil B. DeMille, director general of Paramount, and Alfred E. Green, producer of all of the Thomas Meighan's late pictures, who recently completed the production of Rex Beach's "The Xer Do Well," both make their debuts as screen actors.

The list of prominent players eclipses even that of Cecil B. DeMille's "The Affairs of Anatol," which set a hitherto unapproached record in the way of all-star casts. "Hollywood" includes Thomas Meighan, Agnes Ayres, Jack Holt, Buster Keaton, Leatrice Joy, Walter Hiers, Lila Lee, Jacqueline Logan, George Pawcett, Nita Naldi, J. Warren Kerrigan, Elliott Dexter, Charles Ogle, Louis Wilson, Mary Astor, Hope Hampton, Will Rogers, Gertrude Astor, Laurence Wheat, Ben Turpin, Kaila Pasha, Jim Finlayson, and many others.

In no sense propaganda or on the other hand, a travelogue, or "trip to the movie studios," this picture, Paramount states, is a straight human-interest drama, adapted by Tom J. Geraghty from Frank London's absorbingly interesting novel, "Hollywood," and the "Only Child." The theme undoubtedly carries the most widely popular appeal for the average picture audience that could be conceived for it is the intimate drama of the hopes and aspirations and the trials and disappointments of a girl whose consuming ambition is to gain fame and fortune in the movies, the prototype of perhaps a million screen-starved American girls not only of the small town but of the big city.

The four or five dominant characters are played by well-known to screen audiences but all carefully chosen by Director Cruze. All of them, moreover, have had previous stage experience.

Returns to Stage.

Alice Brady, star in Paramount pictures, who has returned temporarily to the speaking stage, has been warmly received by New York critics and the public in a comedy by Salisbury Field called "Zander the Great." The story is an amusing picture of bootlegging in the A. S. Sun. The Sun's review of his review by saying that Miss Brady is "regarded by many as the cleverest actress on the American stage, and a fine emotional player as well."

The times said that she played the part "with indefatigable vivacity and pleasantly pert humor."

The Mail described her work as played with "fine spirit of dash and with just the right emotional shading." The Journal of Commerce wrote that she handled a difficult role with "power and finesse." Alan Dale in the American described her as "irresistible."

Haywood Brown in The Tribune wrote: "Just now we can think of no reservations whatsoever to make concerning the performance of Alice Brady. It was in every tone and gesture a superb piece of mimicry as well as acting."

Tourneur Turns Actor.

Maurice Tourneur has gone and done it. For several years the noted French director has had a hankering to put on the make-up and once again appear before the clicking camera.

During the course of producing "The Brass Bottle" at the United Studios recently, Tourneur just couldn't resist the temptation. Thus when this production is released by First National, the distinguished director will be seen for the first time in this country in the characterization of a part in the screen. Not since some ten years ago, when Tourneur enjoyed wide popularity abroad as a screen actor, has he appeared before the camera.

Among the other popular screen folk appearing in "The Brass Bottle" are Ernest Torrence, Tully Marshall, Harry Meyers, Ford Sterling, Charlotte Merriam and others.

Not Babylon

"Can Anything Good Come Out of Hollywood?" is the subject of an attractively illustrated booklet from the pen of Silas R. Snyder and Laurence T. Hill in which some of the good things about the film capital are told. Emphasis is placed on the substantial development of the community and the home life in bungalow-land. How Hollywood has grown from a poppy-clad plain a few years ago to a city of great proportions, the most beautiful in the world, is the theme. One of the illustrations is that of Charlie Chaplin standing on a wide field. That was only a few years ago—"location." Today at that spot there are hundreds of buildings and the bustle of civilization. And in the meantime there are people—homey, cultured, earnest, domesticated folks. Hollywood is not Babylon.

Meighan Not to Quit

Contrary to a recent report from Hollywood, Thomas Meighan, noted Paramount star, will not quit pictures to enter stage activities. He will take a short vacation, at which time he will appear on the stage, but thereafter will resume his work in the picture business. The announcement from the Paramount office.

Lila Lee, one of the fifty prominent players who will appear in the James Cruze production "Hollywood."

Model Colosseum Built

For 'Three Ages'

It is a far cry from a custard pie to the Colosseum of Rome, but that, literally speaking, is the measure of progress made by Buster Keaton in his graduation from the two-reel slapstick to the feature length comedy.

Instead of juggling custard pies and other venerable implements of the comedy man, Buster has a real Colosseum to play with in his "Three Ages," the initial six-reel comedy he is making for the Joseph M. Schenck Productions. Incidentally, the Colosseum is the largest set ever erected for a motion picture comedy and, in general, is one of the largest ever built for a photograph.

It is a replica of the Colosseum of Rome, which was 615 by 610. A two-thirds circle, to scale, the set will be photographed internally and externally. It took 500,000 feet of lumber—30 carloads, a tons of nails, 8 tons of plaster to build the frame. One hundred and fifty carpenters, 50 laborers and 20 painters furnished the labor. Twenty-five property men were required to "dress" the set.

The mammoth amphitheater was used for the filming of much of the action in the Roman sequence of "Three Ages." The other two sequences are the prehistoric and modern. Eddie Cline directed "Three Ages" and members of the cast are Margaret Leahy, Wallace Berry, Joe Roberts, Lillian Lawrence and Horace "Cupid" Morgan.

Theda Bara to Vamp in Movies Again

Along with the announcement that Theda Bara has just stepped off the train and declares that she may return to pictures comes the equally interesting statement that Carmel Myers objects to her return.

"Vamp." Her objection has started a campaign to get a new name somehow, by invention or theft, for the charmer of the screen up to now known as "vamp." Will Theda, it is asked, be up to her old vamping tricks again, or can she do anything but vamp? A vamp by any other name, would she act as sweetly? Perhaps some reader would like to suggest a substitute for the old outworn word—and please at the same time suggest a substitute for the word flapper, as well.

In the matter of the ubiquitous flapper and what will become of her, it is just now being said that a former Sennett bathing girl has been made screen heavy. The former bathing girl, now no longer the fashion in motion picture comedies, has had to crawl back into her habiliments and start to work—what work? has been asked often, for as the typical dapper of the screen, who got by on looks and figure, the bathing girl was not supposed to find gray matter necessary. So here comes one who answers the conundrum by turning in a heavy, which may be an indication that her cerebrum functions.

BOOK REVIEWS and Literary Notes

Biography

Edward W. Bok, Former Editor and Pulitzer Prize Winner, Has Written Life of Cyrus H. K. Curtis, Remarkable Business Executive.

Edward W. Bok, former editor of The Ladies Home Journal, and winner of the Pulitzer prize in 1920 for the best American biography ("The Americanization of Edward Bok") teaching patriotic and unselfish services to the people. Illustrated by an eminent example, has in "A Man From Maine" performed a like public service. This latest work is a life of Cyrus H. K. Curtis, the well-known publisher. As a former employee and son-in-law of Mr. Curtis, no man is more familiar with his remarkable career from newsboy to one of the largest and most successful publishers in the world.

"In this life," declares the author, "a young man will find behind one of the greatest successes of its kind ever made, one of the simplest of men. This is always true: the more signal the success the simpler the man. A man must be simple in life, and remain simple to be a success."

As a small boy Curtis started his first paper, a weekly, which was called "Young America." Four hundred copies of the first issue were printed for five dollars. It was sold for 2 cents a copy. The printing bill was difficult to meet each week and after struggling with the problem for a time the enterprising and optimistic young publisher went to Boston from Portland, Maine, and purchased an over-ware news press for two dollars and a half. For three years young Curtis issued his paper, and not until fire destroyed his plant did his publishing career temporarily end.

Charles Curtis purchased The Saturday Evening Post in 1897 for one thousand dollars, paying one hundred down. At the time of purchase it had a subscription list of but two thousand. Probably the condition of the paper would scarcely have justified the payment had it not been for the fact that it had been established by Benjamin Franklin in 1753. The acquisition was not regarded very favorably by Curtis' friends. Inside his own establishment it was referred to as "the signed cat." Before it finally began to pay the publication showed a loss on the books of one million and a quarter dollars.

In the early days of one of the magazines Curtis was anxious to obtain $200,000 credit from a certain paper concern. One of the firm of N. W. Ayer & Son volunteered to go to England with Curtis to aid in influencing the heads of the paper house. The paper manufacturers were obdurate; the amount was too large. Mr. Ayer suggested that Mr. Curtis return for a few moments, which he did. On his return there was a changed attitude which Curtis could not understand. It was not until years later that he learned the sudden change was due to the fact that Ayer & Son had guaranteed the account!

The author gives a list of Curtis' aphorisms which, he states, accurately describe the publisher. "Yesterday ended last night," meaning that he never looks back. "Capitalize your errors," is another. His love of hard work is expressed in this statement: "There is no real fun in doing things that are easy." It is also recorded that one of Mr. Curtis' cardinal rules in business which he laid down for himself early in life, and from which he has never departed, is a determination not to invest his money in any enterprise in which he is not directly interested. "Too many men have slipped up there."

"The author understands, and then invests in some business which they do not understand. A shoemaker should stick to his last."

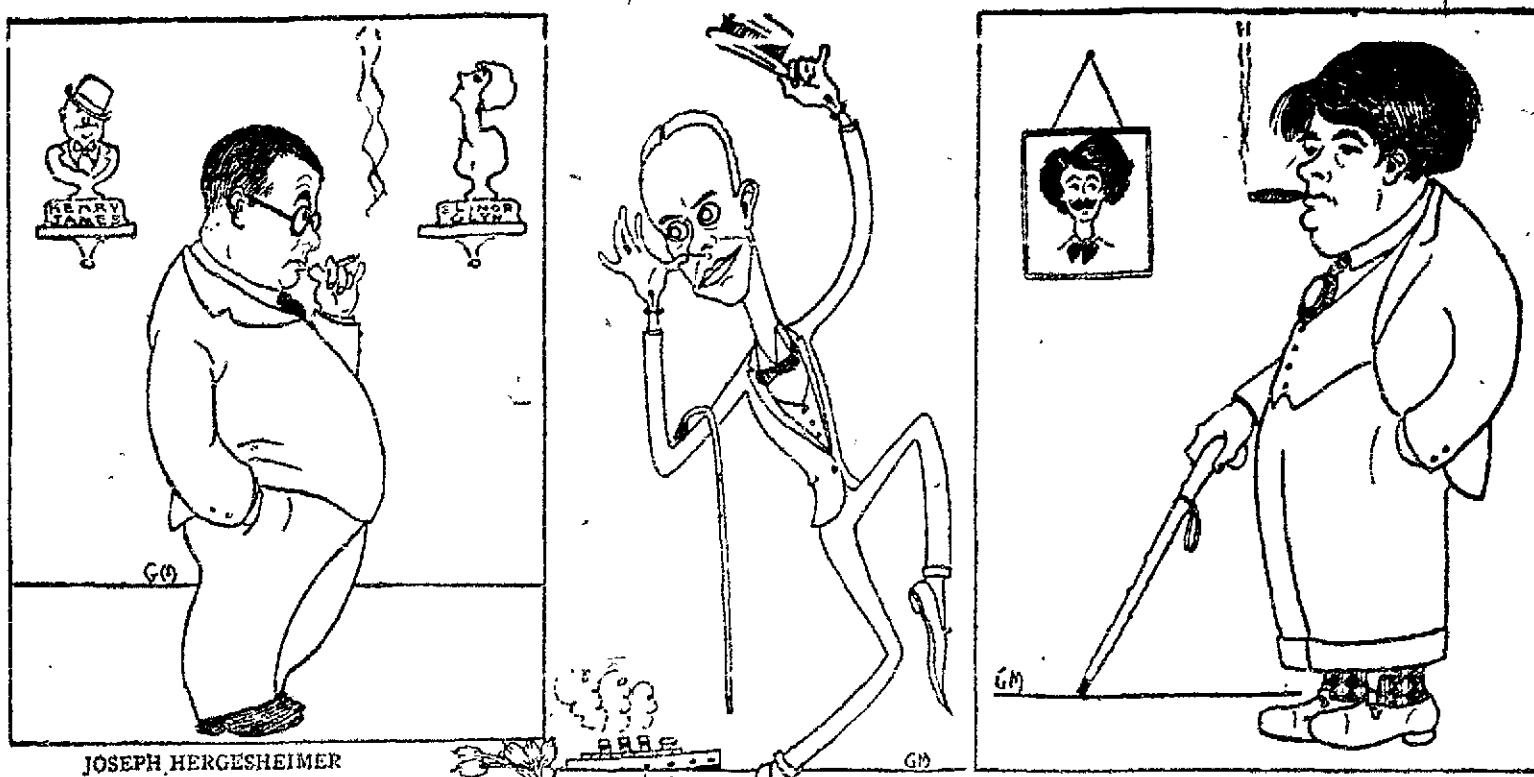

Throughout the book the author frequently dwells upon the inestimable value of a reputation for integrity in the business world. "Nothing that a man possesses in business is so delicately sensitive as quickly shattered, nothing so intrinsically valuable to him in time of stress, as this one—while intangible thing we call credit. And yet nothing is so simply and easily built up and acquired; simple and easy because it calls for but one element—character, and character rests on honesty."

Mr. Bok has certainly succeeded in placing in concrete terms in the life of the remarkable business executive whom he best knew, the way in which a great business success is made.

Margaret Wildemere is in Hollywood giving talks and doing poetry, and—best of all—working on a new novel which Harcourt, Brace & Company will publish in the fall.

Walpole

Something of the Writer and Something of Appreciation.
By HAROLD WALDO
(Author of "Slash of the Marsh Country," etc.)

Wandering somewhere on the edge of the literary world, the war, Arnold Bennett heard rumors of a new novel by a certain author.

Had risen over England. The name of the young writer was Hugh Walpole, and the book in question was "Mardi." which secretly carried its author a new top hat. Yet Bennett marked him as a man to watch; and some years later and the pleasure of writing. "The success of 'Fortitude' has enormously surpassed his earlier novels."

is one of the major phenomena of the literary world. Yet even this is old history, for Hugh Walpole's star has continued its unbroken ascent and his recent lecture tour of the Eastern United States has been in the nature of a literary triumph.

All of this reads like a fairy tale, yet back of the tremendous American success of "Fortitude," which was the beginning of his good fortune, lay a period of heart-breaking uphill work.

Born in New Zealand, young Walpole was sent home from New York alone, at the age of 8, to attend an English boys' school, which impressed him—as did Dickens' cruel experience in a bottling works—with an indelible sense of the havoc wrought by terror and meanness on the tender souls of children. From school Walpole went up to Cambridge, where he wrote his first two novels. One he destroyed, in just what fit of discouragement or disgust he has never told us. The other he carried along to a school where he was to teach young boys in his turn, and there an uncanny colleague advised him, after reading Walpole's "Wooden Horse," that he was anything but an author.

Walpole carried the script to London, where he became a journalist, and, publishing this first novel, found himself "out" by the bare return of the typing copy. Yet that first novel impressed the reader of it as a gem of character drawing and of flawless,

"Wisdom's Daughter"

"There is but one thing to add. Wisdom's Daughter is a book which, clearly this manuscript, was NOT written by Mr. Holly. For reasons which he explains it was written with the hand of SIR HARRY, during the period of her second incarceration when at last Lee found out the names of the thieves, as is described in the book called 'The Wisdom's Daughter'."

There you have it. The foregoing is the last paragraph of the introductory chapter of "Wisdom's Daughter," and only the book which has had gone into authoring for the moment would fail to realize that it is none other than the fine Italian hand of Lady Hargrave, who has once more an addition to the literary annals of his "She Who"

This particular episode of "She Who"

alone describes one of the two best books through which to introduce the uninitiated to Walpole's works. The other is the best of all.

"The Prelude to Adventure." This is a book such as Poe might have planned and Dickens have written. How often one must refer to Dickens in order to suggest the sense of rich humanity which floods Walpole's pages! Page after page is packed with those minute observations of life in exact and homely movement and contrived in such skillful fashion that one suspects he might meet the very people, living in some house around the corner. Indeed, it is with this very sense of meeting the actual persons that one picks up a new Walpole novel and finds once more a scattering of the older characters, as delightful and dear in this re-union as vanished home scenes remembered by a traveler stranded in some foreign corner.

Just such homely pages Walpole must have felt during his war service in Russia, where he won the Order of St. George for his work with the Russian Red Cross, and perhaps in some mood he saw with poignant vividness all of those multitudinous scenes of English life—in cozy Rundle Square, in Cornish seaside villages, on moor and water-mead—while he has flung with such masterful brush strokes upon the grandiose canvas of his "Green Mirror" trilogy, which begins with "The Duchess of Wrexham," continues with "The Green Mirror" and culminates with the immensely popular "Young Enchanted." Walpole's works remind one of the pocket chess sets which chess devotees carry around to delight themselves in odd hours and cozy corners: for the stories of this descendant of an Augustan premier of England are simply a pocket set of "Life in Changing England." Or better still—they are like the picturesque Mah Jongg with its wall of China, its East Wind and colored seasons, its bamboo, peacocks and lotus flowers.

Walpole's stories there flourishes the same sort of orderly disorder of garden walls, seaside taverns, browns and herms, queer adventures, clerics and idealists. Thorough rich humanity, leavened with a fine idealism, is the substance of Hugh Walpole's work.

Overland Monthly and "Out West" Join

The famous Overland Monthly, founded by Bret Harte in 1888 and published continuously since that time, is becoming a greater factor in the literary life of the coast and of the country generally. Beginning with the May issue it is consolidated with the Out West Magazine.

Since the early days of the Overland many internationally known men have contributed to its columns. Among them are London, Joaquin Miller, Edwin Markham, Ina Coolbrith, Wallace Irwin and many more.

"The Out West Magazine," formerly edited by Charles F. Lummis, is consolidated with the Overland now, making possible a publication of the highest order. The initial number of the combined magazine has as contributors some of coast, maintaining all the old prestige with the added glamor of works of modern pen and brush.

Arthur Mason, author of the autobiographical narrative Ocean Echoes (Holt), has been appearing on the lecture platform in New York telling pirate stories to groups of boys. He comes out dressed in a swash-buckling costume, with a parrot under one arm and a band under the other, and gives so lively a performance of song, dance and yarn, that the grown-ups as well as the boys flock to hear him. He admits that he makes up the stories as he goes along, drawing upon his inexhaustible supply of yarns, stored up from many years of life on the high seas.

Lady Cynthia Asquith, who is the wife of a son of the former British premier, and a daughter of Lord Wemyss, has written a book on child training which is to be published by Charles Scribner's Sons in May, under the title "The Child at Home." Her book, while it gives sound and practical advice, is written with much humor and playfulness and is illuminated by anecdotes about children.

Hankins

Sausalito Writer Has Given Public a Story to While the Passing Hour; "Cole of Spyglass Mountain" Holds Interest

There is something intriguing about the title "Cole of Spyglass Mountain," by Arthur Preston Hankins, a Sausalito novelist, and the book itself lives up to every promise suggested in the title.

"Cole of Spyglass Mountain" is a biographical romance concerning a young boy with a scientific quick, who was much misunderstood in his youth. The son of a shiftless and brutal father, a mother who married beneath her station, the boy finds himself in constant trouble from his childhood. Early in life he is more interested in the close-at-hand study of nature than in the subject matter of the books he is given by his pedantic teacher to peruse and contemplate. This leads to difficulties and directly he is "railroaded" to the reform school. In this instance it proved to be an opportunity in disguise, however, for it is here that he meets the man who is able and willing to give him the start he needs.

The balance of the book is taken up with the adventures of the young man in the West, whether he goes to seek the childhood sweetheart who was one of the few who appreciated him. We see him as a "road kid," a tramp, a hammer-man on a railroad gang and a homesteader and finally a real dyed-in-the-wool astronomer and a world figure because of his observations on the planet Mars.

"Cole of Spyglass Mountain" was written purely out of purpose of while away the passing hour and as such it is admirable material. The plot is well worked out, the characterizations are sharply and sympathetically drawn and there is plenty of entertainment to be found in it.

("Cole of Spyglass Mountain," by Arthur Preston Hankins; New York, Dodd, Mead and Company, $1.75.)

"The Claw of the New Pin," Edgar Wallace

A detective story with a twist in every chapter is what Edgar Wallace offers in "The Claw of the New Pin." With the increasing annual output of mystery stories it is refreshing to the great army of readers who acknowledge a weakness for the class of literature to pick up a volume that meets all the tests. This latest tale by the author of "Captains of Souls" and "The Claw of the Twisted Candle" holds first rank among the mystery stories of the year. It is skillfully cast in narrative and up to the final chapter the reader is in doubt as to a solution. The murders are committed within a locked vault and in both instances the only key is found beside the victims. There are no secret motives of strategy. The motives are baffled. Jesse Trasmere, the first victim, is a strange character, with a shadowy Oriental past, and clues continually lead to the haunts of certain Chinese. An unusual actress is involved, and the other characters are out of the ordinary. Tab Holland, newspaper reporter, plays a most important part, as members of his profession usually do, in the solution of murder mysteries. The story illustrates the danger of placing too much reliance upon circumstantial evidence, even in cases of homicide. That such a simple article as a new pin should materially aid in the solution of the mystery is one of the surprises of this fascinating tale. ("The Claw of the New Pin," by Edgar Wallace; Boston, Maynard & Co., $1.90.)

"Adrift on the Amazon," Is Good Story for Boys

Another well told story of youth for youth is "Adrift on the Amazon," a tale of healthy adventure by Leo E. Miller. It is a story of a young man's struggle against the seemingly insurmountable difficulties of wandering into the Amazon wilderness.

As with the other books by Miller there is a charm in his descriptive moods, a happy method of familiarity with the subject matter. David Jones, known to his friends as "Fighting Jones," wanted to see things for himself. He selected the Amazon and his adventures form a delightful tale.

("Adrift on the Amazon," by Leo E. Miller; New York, Charles Scribner's Sons, $2.00.)

D. Thomas Curtis, who for three years of the World War was Lord Northcliffe's principal source of "Verbatim" information from the interior of Germany, has written a novel of conditions in the coal fields of West Virginia—"The Tyranny of Power," which Little, Brown & Company will publish on March 10th. Mr. Curtis, a Bostonian, is following the family tradition in having his book published by his house. Jeremiah Curtis, the famous translator of "Quo Vadis," which Little, Brown & Company published in America, was a cousin of his father's.

After all that we have seen, it is time to call for a new speaker. Then came Eddie Bok, the intrepid autobiographer: William Allen White, the strong, silent man from Kansas, and such. The program requests: "The audience is requested to suppress its emotions, no matter what Freud may say."

Readin' and Writin'

By GRANT OVERTON

Short summaries of the work of some American authors:
John Dos Passos of 3 Washington square, New York, N. Y.

First book, "One Man's Initiation," published in England during the war. Published in America in 1922 (only 500 copies). Now out of print and valuable.

Dos Passos wrote the famous "Three Soldiers," his second book, during the war, in which he served as an ambulance driver. Several frantic efforts to get into the American army in 1917 were in vain because of his poor eyesight. He drove an ambulance at the front—Verdun, Dead Man's Hill and later up and down Mt. Grappa, on the Italian front—and after the war went wandering through Spain gathering material which he used in his third book, "Rosinante to the Road Again" (1922). He traveled as far as Teheran, Persia, before returning to America. Dos Passos is a poet (fourth book, "A Pushcart at the Curb"), contains his poems) and a water-colorist whose work is interesting for its brilliant color and modern, somewhat "eclectic" style. A sample of his work in water-colors is the jacket and binding of "A Pushcart at the Curb."

His father was a well-known lawyer with a wide and important practice. The family is Portuguese several generations back. Dos Passos, who is extremely shy, nervous and good-natured, has lately been working on a play.

PEN-POINTS.

These book sellers:
What a lively crowd they are when they get together in places like, for instance, Atlantic City! What will happen with them this year, we are not in a position to say, but we have just been shown a privately printed program of what went on a year ago at their annual dinner—that is, if anybody ate anything.

Jim Le Gallie, who hails from Philadelphia, appears to have been largely responsible for the proceedings, for does not the program say? It goes as follows: to-wit: "This desecrating and unbecomingly ambiguous performance will be under the personal and identical supervision and exhortation of Professor James Le Gallie, otherwise known as Jim Le Gallie, the man without past, present or future, fresh from the Perils of Philadelphia. Choose your exit row and go quickly and surreptitiously toward it without displaying agitation. (Professor Le Gallie has a flow of language that has never been equaled, controlled, superseded or purged. Each of the toy balloons in the arena has been personally and vehemently inflated by Professor Le Gallie, and these must be tenderly cherished as keepsakes.)"

We rather that the meeting was opened with a grand parade in which were exhibited the various unexplained phenomena of nature. The family are baffled. Jesse Trasmere, the first victim, is a strange character, with a shadowy Oriental past, and clues continually lead to the haunts of certain Chinese. An unusual actress is involved, and the other characters are out of the ordinary. Tab Holland, newspaper reporter, plays a most important part, as members of his profession usually do, in the solution of murder mysteries. The story illustrates the danger of placing too much reliance upon circumstantial evidence, even in cases of homicide. That such a simple article as a new pin should materially aid in the solution of the mystery is one of the surprises of this fascinating tale. ("The Claw of the New Pin," by Edgar Wallace; Boston, Maynard & Co., $1.90.)

Then, it seems the great event came on. For two pointing fingers on the program direct our attention to the positively first and exclusive appearance together of the two great pachyderms, Gene Stratton-Porter and Harold Bell Wright, who have just been the subject of simultaneous publication. (Note—Mr. Wright is handicapped by the absence of a typewriter.)

This must have been wonderful. Even hardened members of the book trade have trembled as they thought what would happen if a new Harold Bell Wright novel and a new Gene Stratton-Porter novel were published in the same year. Well, they can find out at last, this autumn, for Mrs. Porter's

"The Mine With the Iron Door," are both scheduled to come out then. This will be hard on the person whose motto is: Buy a book a year, won't it?

Such after the manner of the battle between the two most eminent American authors, the embattled, if not emboldened, diners witnessed a symbolical panorama of eminent British authors being torn limb from limb by jealous American craftsmen. Would that we had been privileged to witness this enthralling, however tedious, spectacle.

Robert W. Service and Edgar Guest were on the program, viewed "in the throes of deprecation." The next act, flung by modern pessimistic novelists bearing a transparency that said: "Read Us and Weep." But the thing we would enjoy seeing most—and now, hang it, we must never witness the act—was one for which every reader of memory system advertisements must have hungered. The program put it succinctly: Mr. Addison Sims (of Seattle) being remembered by Mr. Roth.

After all that we have seen, it is time to call for a new speaker. Then came Eddie Bok, the intrepid autobiographer: William Allen White, the strong, silent man from Kansas, and such. The program requests: "The audience is requested to suppress its emotions, no matter what Freud may say."

Out Doors

Dr. Saxton Pope Has Written Book to Appeal to Many in "Hunting With Bow and Arrow," True and Unusual Adventures.

Lovers of out of doors will find in Dr. Saxton Pope's newest book, "Hunting with the Bow and Arrow," such an appeal as few writers make. Not since Maurice Thompson wrote "The Witchery of Archery," has the sport been so eloquently and so convincingly described—and small wonder, for Dr. Pope is today perhaps the most ardent bowman and one of the most successful hunters with that weapon in America.

"Hunting with the Bow and Arrow" is a book of true hunting stories, but stories of the most unusual kind. Incorporated in the book, partly in tribute to his personality and partly in explanation of how the author became interested in the ancient weapon, is the story of Ishi, last of the Yana Indians, who has several times been the subject of monographs by the same writer. Following this first chapter, which is, after a fashion, an introduction, the reader is led deeper and deeper into the heart of the Greenwood, innuoculated more virulently at each step with the desire of emulation as the author describes successive hunts and successful chases until the climax is reached in the killing of one of the largest grizzly bears ever slain in Wyoming, the victim of a single well-placed arrow. The bison and the great Kodiak bear of Alaska are the only American big game that have escaped the efforts of this modern Ishi.

Robin Hood and his fellow archers, and it is the telling of this hunting that is the meat of the book. The literary style of the book is pleasing in the extreme. The diction is simple, direct and pointed. There is no shirking of descriptions nor effort to evade expressing natural sentiment aroused by the fever of the hunt or the peacefulness of night brooding over a lonely camp in the mountains. Neither is there a false modesty over achievement, but always a charming frankness equally ready to admit error or to accept credit for a shot missed or a dead wild dove.

Those desirous of emulating the author are given guidance in making their tackle in several chapters devoted to almost minute details of the various steps in showing the bow, feathering the arrow, and spinning the string. Other chapters of the book are devoted to candid instructions on hunting small game, such as rabbits, quail and squirrels, and the reader is afforded much amusement to stories of experiences with coyotes, foxes and raccoons. The chapters on hunting goats, mountain lion, lynx and bear are full of excitement and thrill.

"Hunting With the Bow and Arrow," by Saxton T. Pope; San Francisco, James H. Barry Company, $3.

Some of the other instructions deserve to be quoted: "Any inattention on the part of the speakers must be reported to Professor Le Gallie."

"Publishers' Loan and Security" is a book of advice on personal jewelry. Manuscripts not accepted as pledges.

"After the dinner, get a square meal at the Houghton-Mifflin cafeteria."

"Select your exit now in case of author."

We are told that Roger Mifflin, 161 Gissing street, Brooklyn, the hostess of the dinner, has no "famous" author in his "famous" "Houghton-Mifflin" and "The Haunted Bookshop" was responsible for this delectable program, and we quite believe it. Long may the bookshelves wave, provided they invite us to all their annual dinners. As to our qualifications, we may say at once that we are a splendid swimmer and hold the Carnegie gold medal for bravery in after-dinner speechmaking.

A Hamilton Gibbs seems to us to keep about the closest track of any one we know of these authors and their doings. Sam Merwin, says Arthur, came down from Concord, Mass., to buy scenery for a production of Tarkington's play, "Clarence," which was to be given by the Concord Players. Merwin brought the news that W. T. Tillson II, the tennis champion, was to play us that we saw Tilden just before publication, a few weeks ago, of his new book, "Singles and Doubles." Bill was looking well and seemed as keen as ever despite the loss of a finger, which may deprive him of the tennis championship.
